Introduction

1. Under the provisions of standing order 216 by which the committee is established, the committee is required, as soon as practicable after each 31 December, to prepare and table in the House a report on its operations in connection with the registration and declaration of Members' interests during that year.
2. This is the report of the committee for the calendar year 2023.

Responsibilities of the committee

3. Standing order 216 sets out the following terms of reference for the committee:
 - (a) A Committee of Privileges and Members' Interests shall be appointed to:
 - (i) inquire into and report on complaints of breach of privilege or contempt which may be referred to it by the House under standing order 51 or by the Speaker under standing order 52, or any other related matter referred to it by or in accordance with a resolution of the House;
 - (ii) inquire into and report on the arrangements made for the compilation, maintenance and accessibility of a Register of Members' Interests;
 - (iii) consider proposals by Members and others on the form and content of the Register of Members' Interests;
 - (iv) consider specific complaints about registering or declaring interests;
 - (v) consider possible changes to any code of conduct adopted by the House; and
 - (vi) consider whether specified persons (other than Members) ought to be required to register and declare their interests.
 - (b) The committee shall consist of 13 members: the Leader of the House or his or her nominee, the Deputy Leader of the Opposition or his or her nominee, and 11 other members (six government and four opposition Members and one crossbench Member). When the Opposition is composed of two parties, the non-government Members shall consist of at least one member of the smaller opposition party.
 - (c) The committee may call for witnesses and documents, but when considering a matter concerning the registration or declaration of Members' interests it must not exercise that power or undertake an investigation of a person's private interests unless the action is approved by at least seven members of the committee other than the Chair.

(d) The committee may report when it sees fit, and must report to the House on its operations in connection with the registration and declaration of Members' interests during the year as soon as possible after 31 December each year.

4. A report in accordance with these terms of reference follows.

Arrangements made for the compilation, maintenance and accessibility of the Register

5. Since 1986 arrangements approved by the committee provide that the Register may be inspected, by appointment, between 10 am and 12 noon and 2 pm and 4 pm on working days in the office of the Registrar. In addition the Registrar may grant permission for the Register to be inspected outside those hours if the Registrar is satisfied that the circumstances surrounding the request warrant the exercise of such a discretion.
6. Statements of Members' interests have been published on the Parliament's website since the commencement of the 43rd Parliament. This has been a very significant change to accessibility of the statements.
7. The physical Register was inspected two times in 2023. The Register's homepage on the Parliament of Australia website was viewed 42,146 times during the year.

Proposals made by Members and others on the form and content of the Register

8. There were no proposals to alter the form and content of the Register in 2023.

Specific complaints made about the registering or declaring of interests

9. The committee did not receive any complaints about the registering or declaring of interests in 2023.

Changes to any code of conduct

10. The House has not adopted a code of conduct for Members.

Registration of interests by other classes of person

11. No issues were considered in this area during the year.
