ABOUT THIS REPORT

The Department of the House of Representatives provides services that allow the House to fulfil its role as a representative and legislative body of the Australian Parliament.

This annual report details our activities during the 2008–09 financial year.

The overviews section includes a report by the Clerk of the House of Representatives, Ian Harris, who is also the chief executive of our department. A departmental overview describes our purpose, role, structure and outputs.

The performance section describes the main activities of our five output groups, and measures our performance against our targets during the year.

The management and accountability section spells out our approach to corporate governance, the management of our people and assets, and our obligations under various laws. This section also provides an outlook on the next financial year.

The appendixes give detailed information about our work for the House, its committees and visitors, and about our publications and our staffing.

The financial statements show how we spent the money allocated to us by the Parliament.

Finally, to aid in navigating and interpreting the report, there is a list of abbreviations and acronyms, a compliance index and a general index.

CLERK'S REVIEW

INTRODUCTION

The 2008–09 financial year represents the midpoint of the parliamentary cycle for the Forty-second Parliament. The changes to procedure in the Chamber following the 2007 election have been implemented. The House, its committees and its members are now focused on debating legislation, conducting inquiries and attending to our relationships with the public and other parliaments.

The role of our staff is now to manage high volumes of work efficiently and effectively. The House has debated major pieces of legislation such as the industrial relations changes and the emissions trading scheme. Budgets and the economic debate now reflect the effects of the financial crisis. Many committee inquiries are now at the report-drafting stage—an intense period as staff respond to committees' deliberations and timelines.

These high volumes flow through the entire organisation. The Serjeant-at-Arms' Office, information systems and publishing, interparliamentary relations, public liaison and information, finance, people strategies, Chamber support and committee support areas—all are contributing to the services that we provide to members. This level of activity will continue into 2009–10.

CORPORATE PRIORITIES

The department is continuing to implement its priorities for 2007–10, as expressed in the corporate plan. The plan was developed in consultation with our staff. It sets out our purpose, values and business goals and recognises that it is through our people that we deliver our services and improve our productivity.

The department's priorities under the plan are to improve our ability to serve our clients; to develop our people; to sustain our capability; and to maintain strong relationships within the department, the Parliament and beyond. As in previous years, I will address our performance in these areas.

SERVICE—ENSURING STRONG CLIENT SERVICE

One of the department's most important roles is to serve the members of the House of Representatives and give them the advice and services that enable them to fulfil their parliamentary duties. The department has always had a strong service culture, and members regularly advise us that our staff have taken extra effort to meet their particular requirements. These informal communications are very important and I am pleased that our staff have continued to develop and maintain good working relationships with members.

In addition, the department conducts a members' survey each year as a formal procedure for monitoring our service standards. We conducted this year's survey in May and June 2009 and members confirmed that the department provides a high level of service. Further details are in Appendix 12.

PEOPLE—DEVELOPING LEADERS AND PROFESSIONALS

The formal centrepiece of the department's personnel strategy over the past eight years has been our accreditation with the Investors in People management system, which considers that an organisation's success is based substantially on the knowledge, skills and motivation of its people. The department was assessed in May 2009 as continuing to meet the Investors in People standard and is operating at a high level against the system's benchmarks. I am grateful to the members of the department who assisted in the interviews and other requirements of this process. Also, I am grateful to the staff as a whole for embracing the concepts of planning, performing, evaluating and self-development that being an Investors in People agency represents.

Consistent with its commitment to the Investors in People standard, the department seeks to assess leadership and management practices. The department conducts an annual staff survey, from which very helpful data and indices can be developed and results over time identified. The June 2009 survey showed ratings by staff in relation to questions about leadership of over 80 per cent. This is certainly a respectable level of performance. However, we are analysing the results of the survey to find avenues for further improvement. More detail on the survey can be found on pages 56–7.

Another regular event is the department's planning day, which was held in March 2009. The discussion topics this year were whether the department should continue with its Investors in People accreditation, and looking ahead to 2020 to examine some of the challenges that the department will face. On the first topic, the consensus was that the department should retain its involvement with the Investors in People program. The second discussion raised a number of issues that we have factored into our planning.

An important task for any organisation is to improve the breadth of skills and expertise among its people. One way in which the department continues to do this is the regular presentations on parliamentary issues and debriefs. These give staff the opportunity to reflect on recent notable work matters and enable all of us to learn from their experiences. Another way is the movement of staff between various parts of the department. For example, we have deployed non-procedural staff as Deputy Clerks-at-the-Table in the Main Committee. I believe there are further benefits to be obtained by similarly judicious risk taking. A recent innovation in our people strategy has been the in-house leadership development program for middle level staff, which commenced in the second half of 2008. It introduces staff to management principles at the point in their career when they are beginning to accept responsibility for management and leadership. I attended the final session of the program and was impressed by the candour and enthusiasm of the staff at the course. The program appears to be successful in giving these staff a foundation for their role as current and future leaders.

SUSTAINABILITY—PEOPLE AND RESOURCES

The major sustainability issue for the department is its finances. The various funding rules used in the Budget, including the efficiency dividend, set a very high benchmark for agencies to find efficiencies. The application of these funding rules on a long-term basis now means that the department is projected to incur losses from 2009–10, leading to substantial losses in 2011–12. Unless the department receives significant, ongoing additional funding, it will need to reduce either its services or the quality of those services.

I support the requirement for agencies to continually find savings. Indeed, the department has regularly implemented efficiencies. Examples are flattening the management structure, the innovative use of information technology, and consolidating committee secretariats as well as undertaking many additional tasks and functions without resource supplementation. The department is currently exploring the amalgamation of back-office functions with those of the other parliamentary departments. Since 2000, the department's budget has declined by 11 per cent in real terms and its staffing level has fallen by nearly 18 per cent.

The difficulty is that the rate of reduction of agencies' real budgets far exceeds the rate at which true efficiencies can be found. Indeed, the department will commence cutting back some services in 2009–10 such as printing and travel in order to manage its finances in the short term. Our staff have made significant contributions to identifying and achieving these smaller scale, short-term savings and I would like to thank them for this work.

In July 2008, the department made its submission to the inquiry into the efficiency dividend, conducted by the Joint Committee of Public Accounts and Audit. In August, I gave oral evidence with a number of colleagues from the department for that inquiry. The committee tabled its report in December 2008 and recommended that a parliamentary commission be established to set the budgets for parliamentary departments. I support greater parliamentary involvement in parliamentary budget setting, which is the practice in many other countries.

The other key event during the year was the negotiation of a new, two-year workplace agreement. As was the case with previous agreements, it was negotiated, after consultation with staff, between the department and staff representatives drawn from across the department. I would like to thank all parties for conducting the negotiations successfully and in good faith.

RELATIONSHIPS—WITHIN THE DEPARTMENT, THE PARLIAMENT AND BEYOND

The Podger Review and the creation of the Department of Parliamentary Services have increased the opportunities for us to work with the other parliamentary departments. We are more closely involved both in the approval and in the implementation of projects funded by that department. We also are examining efficiencies in combined back-office operations of the three parliamentary departments. While there is room for improvement, I am encouraged by the achievements of the past twelve to eighteen months. The governance framework surrounding the relationships between the parliamentary departments has been strengthened considerably, and the department has played a positive role in putting that framework into place.

Our department also has a role in promoting the work of the Parliament generally to the community. Two major projects on which we have been a driving force have been a review of the public display strategy at Parliament House and the commencement of a project to redesign the Parliament of Australia website. There is little doubt that our website and electronic communications will become increasingly important, and I appreciate the initiative displayed by our information systems and publishing staff with their regular innovations.

We also take the parliament to the people. The Speaker, members and our staff continue to participate in a number of seminars and presentations, both in Australia and overseas. These occasions allow us to promote our work and build relationships that support an exchange of information between legislatures.

OUTLOOK

The major issue facing the department in future is its financial position. If the department does not secure significant, ongoing additional funding, there will need to be a major reassessment of its role and major reductions in the level or quality of its services. Of course, agencies such as the department do not have a right to a particular level of funding. They must make a case for spending public money. However, I believe that the department's services are central to our democracy and to the public debate that contributes to effective policy. Falling as it does towards the end of the maximum life of the Forty-second Parliament, the year 2009–10 would be expected to see a high level of demand for departmental services as work on legislative, committee and interparliamentary activities is progressed prior to an expected election. A high priority will continue to be given to staff training and development, to the improvement of systems and to working with colleagues in the Department of the Senate and the Department of Parliamentary Services to advance the development of common services. At the end of 2009, the statutory period of my tenure as Clerk will conclude. The appointment of a new Clerk will open up many opportunities, as a new chief executive officer will bring new perspectives and a fresh approach to the position. This upcoming event brings to mind three important considerations.

The first is that my time with the department has been enriched and supported by the professionalism and goodwill of my colleagues. To reflect the sentiments expressed by the late Professor Chris O'Brien, AO, it is a privilege to work with highly talented and committed people, at various stages of their parliamentary lives.

The second and third considerations are closely related. I was initially attracted to work in the House of Representatives in the light of the possibility of working for representatives chosen by the people of Australia from all political affiliations, or without political affiliation. This remains a major attraction for working in the House. Finally, I consider that the department's role is to serve one of the most important institutions in our democracy, the Parliament. Although our work is vital to the day-to-day operations of the Parliament, in a sense our most important role is to look after the institution for the next generation. I believe that the capacity and efficiency of the department have continued to improve over time and I owe a great debt to the people of the department who, in their totality, have brought this about.

DEPARTMENTAL OVERVIEW

PURPOSE

The department's purpose is:

To support the House of Representatives to fulfil its role as a representative and legislative body by providing effective advice and services of the highest possible standard.

ROLE AND FUNCTIONS

The Parliamentary Service Act 1999 provides the legal framework for a nonpartisan Parliamentary Service to serve the Australian Parliament. The Act establishes this department and the other two parliamentary departments—the Department of the Senate and the Department of Parliamentary Services. It provides for the management, leadership and responsibilities of Parliamentary Service employees as well as the functions of the Parliamentary Service Commissioner and the Parliamentary Service Merit Protection Commissioner. The other parliamentary departments report separately to the Parliament.

During 2008–09, the department continued its role as a service department for the Parliament, supporting the work of the House of Representatives, including its members in their parliamentary work, its committees, and some joint committees comprising members of both Houses. The department also maintained its focus on assistance to the House and the Parliament in their relations within Australia and internationally.

ORGANISATIONAL STRUCTURE

The department is managed by its Executive, comprising the Clerk, Deputy Clerk, Clerk Assistant (Committees), Clerk Assistant (Table) and Serjeant-at-Arms. Their work is carried out through nine offices. The department's organisational structure at 30 June 2009 is depicted in Figure 1, and did not change in 2008–09.

OUTCOME AND OUTPUT STRUCTURE

The department has one outcome:

The House of Representatives fulfils its role as a representative and legislative body.

Five output groups contribute to this outcome:

Output Group 1.1 (Chamber and Main Committee); 1.2 (Community awareness); 1.3 (Committee services); 1.4 (Interparliamentary relations); and 1.5 (Members' services). The structure did not change in 2008–09.

FINANCIAL PERFORMANCE

The department ended the 2008–09 financial year with a small operating surplus of $149,000. This result was due in part to the first-time recognition of some heritage and cultural assets, namely the Yirrkala bark petitions. Employee expenses were higher this year due to the decrease in the discount rate applied to the calculation of long service leave liabilities and the increased costs associated with salary increases and the second year of the parliamentary cycle. The department has continued to maintain a healthy balance sheet with adequate retained earnings. This will ensure that the department continues to be financially sustainable in the short-term.

Departmental revenue from government decreased in 2008–09 by 1.1 per cent while expenses increased by 8.4 per cent. This increase in expenses reflects, in part, normal activity in the second year of the parliamentary cycle. However, it also reflects the continued deterioration of the department's financial position.

As a result, the financial outlook for the coming years is serious. Savings achieved over the last 10 to 12 years through efficiencies are being eroded by increasing costs. The department's revenue is not keeping pace with these rising costs. If the department is not able to secure additional funding it will need to look at expenditure reductions that will lead to a reduction in core services that support the work of the House and its committees. The Clerk has advised members of the department's financial position.

Figure 4 provides a picture of the department's financial performance over the five-year period since 2004–05. A trend of decreasing revenue and increasing expenses is apparent and is not sustainable.

Accounting policy change

For the first time and following a change to the Finance Minister's Orders, the department is not responsible for preparing the administered financial statements relating to the special appropriations from which it draws down various monies to pay for members' remuneration and entitlements. The legislation establishing these appropriations is administered by the Department of Finance and Deregulation and the Department of Education, Employment and Workplace Relations, which are responsible for reporting these administered special appropriation items. The department is an agent agency as defined in the Finance Minister's Orders and as such must follow certain requirements set down by those orders.

Therefore the comparatives in Figure 4 have been adjusted to report only departmental financial performance since 2004–05.

OUTPUT GROUP 1.1— CHAMBER AND MAIN COMMITTEE

DESCRIPTION

The work of Output Group 1.1 is delivered primarily through the Clerk's Office, the Chamber Research Office and the Table Office. Other departmental work areas also contribute as required.

During the year, we provided effective secretariat and advisory support for the Chamber and Main Committee of the House of Representatives. Our main functions were:

- ▶ provision of advice to the Speaker and members of the House of Representatives
- ▶ provision of programming and procedural advice and support
- ▶ processing and drafting of bills
- ▶ preparation and publication of the record of proceedings of the House
- ▶ processing and custody of, and provision of access to, the documents and records of the House
- ▶ provision of procedural and parliamentary research and publication of statistical information on the business of the House, and

- ▶ provision of secretariat support to certain domestic committees.

In 2008–09, the budget allocation for Output Group 1.1 was $3.542 million and expenditure was $4.116 million. The financial resources for the output group are summarised in Appendix 2; staff levels, by location, are shown in Appendix 11.

PERFORMANCE

The results of the department's annual survey of members (see Appendix 12) indicated high levels of satisfaction with our work, consistent with the findings of earlier surveys. All respondents were satisfied with our advice and support, with 'extreme' or 'high' satisfaction reported as follows:

- ▶ advice and services received from the Clerks-at-the-Table in the Chamber and Main Committee—95 per cent (95 per cent in 2007–08)
- ▶ advice and services received from other staff in relation to Chamber and Main Committee duties—91 per cent (100 per cent in 2007–08)

- ▶ quality and availability of procedural and statistical publications and support in obtaining such information—77 per cent (81 per cent in 2007–08).

We continued to achieve high levels of performance as measured against performance indicators, including meeting targets set in the business plan and performing well against budget. Appendix 1 provides a summary of performance information.

The focus of the output group's work is supporting the sittings of the House of Representatives Chamber and meetings of the Main Committee. Quantitative information on the sittings of the House and meetings of the Main Committee in 2008–09 and the previous year is shown in Table 1.

In 2008–09, a middle year of the parliamentary cycle, sitting days totalled 72. This reflected a significant increase (37 per cent) in meeting hours of the Chamber and Main Committee compared with 2007–08, an election year. By comparison with the equivalent mid-cycle year (2006–07) in the previous parliament, there was also an increase in meeting hours (13 per cent), with a significant increase in the hours of meeting of the Main Committee (44 per cent). Legislative activity continued at a medium to high level during the period, requiring corresponding support from the department.

Further information on the business of the House and the Main Committee is in Appendix 3 and in the department's publication Work of the Session (available on the Parliament of Australia website).

ADVICE TO MEMBERS AND HOUSE SECRETARIAT SUPPORT

Advice

The Clerk, Deputy Clerk and other staff members provided advice to the Speaker, members and others on the practice and procedures of the House of Representatives.

Our oral and written advice ranged from immediate support for the Speaker, ministers, shadow ministers and others during proceedings, to detailed written advice. Subjects included the application of the practice and standing orders of the House; procedural options for the conduct of business; the admissibility of amendments to legislation; the requirements of the Constitution and standing orders in respect of financial legislation; parliamentary behaviour and language; privilege matters; and requirements of the House in respect of the registration of members' interests.

Feedback from the Speaker and members indicated a high level of satisfaction with these services.

Programming and coordination of business

Throughout 2008–09, we provided advice and services to facilitate sittings of the House, including:

- ▶ programming and procedural advice to ministers, shadow ministers, party whips, other members, their staff and others
- ▶ the preparation and publication each sitting day of:
  - the Notice Paper—a document listing all unresolved business before the House in proposed order of consideration
  - the Daily Program (also known as ‘the Blue’)—an informal agenda for the day, and
  - procedural scripts for all items of business for use in the Chamber
- ▶ provision of Serjeants and attendants for sittings of the House and meetings of the Main Committee to oversee ceremonial and security arrangements and ensure sittings can be conducted in an appropriate environment, and chamber papers made available
- ▶ processing members' questions in writing to ministers, including editing for compliance with the standing orders, publication in the Notice Paper for the next day of sitting, and managing answers to questions
- ▶ providing a broadcasting captioning service for the televised and webcast proceedings of the House and Main Committee, and

- ▶ preparation of This Week in the House, a weekly online forecast of expected business for the House, and its counterpart document, Last Week in the House.

Table 2 provides details of the number of questions in writing to ministers dealt with by the House of Representatives for the period 2004–05 to 2008–09. There was an increase in the number of questions in writing in 2008–09 in comparison with the preceding year, although the number of questions in the Forty-second Parliament continued to be markedly lower than in the Forty-first Parliament.

All sittings required the coordination of people, documents and actions, and programming of the following categories of business:

- ▶ government business, e.g. legislation
- ▶ private members' business, e.g. a motion proposed by an individual member; and
- ▶ House business (matters potentially involving all members), e.g. question time, debate on committee reports, privilege matters.

A longitudinal view of the amount of time the House (Main Chamber and Main Committee inclusive) has devoted to each of these types of business is shown in Figure 5. In 2009, there was an increase in government business and a corresponding reduction in private members' business.

Processing and drafting of bills

Legislation

As in previous years, our support for the legislative process in 2008–09 included the following:

- ▶ receipt from the Office of Parliamentary Counsel, and custody under embargo, of bills before their introduction
- ▶ provision to ministers of bills for introduction, and, after introduction, to all members in the Chamber
- ▶ loading of bills, explanatory memoranda and proposed amendments to the Parliament of Australia website via ParlInfo Search and provision of an inquiry counter service for access to hard copies of bills and associated material
- ▶ processing all bills and amendments to bills—from introduction to assent for bills initiated in the House; and from introduction in the House until passage by the House for bills initiated in the Senate
- ▶ provision of a legislative drafting service for private members
- ▶ preparation and delivery of messages to the Senate—230 messages relating to the passage of bills in 2008–09 (176 in 2007–08) and 19 other messages (15 in 2007–08), and

- ▶ preparation and issue each sitting day of a Daily Bills List—providing cumulative information on the status of all bills before the Parliament or assented to in the current calendar year.

The new system for the electronic storing, managing and publishing of bills referred to in the 2007–08 annual report was implemented in late 2008. The new system is more robust than its predecessor and enables efficiencies in the processing of bills. Importantly, all 'versions' of bills are now retained in the system—whereas previously only the latest version of the bill was retained. This meant that the legislative history of the bill was not available to users.

An 'As passed both Houses' version of the bill is another new addition to the system and is available prior to the bill receiving assent. This version incorporates any amendments agreed to by the non-originating House, which was previously only available when the Act print was published to the comlaw.gov.au website up to a fortnight after assent.

A further major benefit of the new system is that information on the status and passage of bills in the legislative process is readily available through individual bill 'homepages'.

There was a total of 4,531,766 queries of the bills and legislation collection available on the internet during eleven months of the year (usage statistics were not available for September 2008), by comparison with 7,940,523 in 2007–08. This represented 36 per cent (46 per cent in 2007–08) of the queries made through ParInfo Search. As mentioned, a new bills system and new ParInfo Search system were implemented during the year. Usage will be monitored and is expected to increase over time as users become accustomed to the new systems.

Legislative workload

Table 3 shows the number of bills introduced in the House and the number of bills passed by both Houses and assented to, for the past five years. Bills and amendments dealt with by the House during this period are shown in Appendix 3.

In brief, the Table Office prepared 13 third reading prints (17 in 2007–08), 139 assent prints (130 in 2007–08), and 1 schedule of amendments (1 in 2007–08). All of these documents accurately reflected the decisions of the Houses and were processed promptly, and all final deadlines were met.

During the year, 210 bills were introduced (167 in 2007–08), of which 200 were initiated in the House of Representatives and 10 were received from the Senate; 148 bills passed both Houses (142 in 2007–08), of which 139 were initiated in the House of Representatives (130 in 2007–08) and 9 in the Senate (12 in 2007–08). An ‘As passed both Houses’ version was prepared and checked for each bill in addition to the assent print. This has placed an additional workload on bills processing staff, which has been managed within existing staffing resources.

In 2008–09, the House passed 187 bills (164 in 2007–08). This represented 2.6 bills on average each sitting day compared with 3.4 bills on average passed in the previous year. The House amended 9.6 per cent of the bills it passed (10.0 per cent in 2007–08).

Thirteen bills in 2008–09 (17 in 2007–08) that were initiated in the House were amended before being agreed to and read a third time. The Table Office incorporated the amendments into the text of the bills and arranged for their reprinting (as third reading prints) before transmittal to the Senate. In addition, the House agreed to Senate amendments, or made amendments requested by the Senate, to 28 House bills (9 in 2007–08), with further processing by the office before the bills were presented, as assent prints, to the Governor-General for assent. The House amended 1 bill initiated in the Senate (1 in 2007–08) and the office prepared the schedule of amendments for transmittal to and consideration by the Senate.

During the year, there was one error in the department’s processing of bills.

On 25 June 2009, the House of Representatives passed the Private Health Insurance Legislation Amendment Bill 2009 and transmitted the bill to the Senate for its concurrence. The bill passed the Senate without amendment. Table Office staff discovered, during the preparation of the assent print, that the version of the bill transmitted to the Senate was not the same as the bill that had passed the House. This was caused by the failure to destroy all stock of an earlier version of the bill and one of these copies was inadvertently used as the message copy of the bill. The version of the bill available to, and considered by, members and senators was the correct version.

With appropriate disclosure, the Clerk of the House and the Clerk of the Senate subsequently certified the correct version of the bill and the bill received assent on 1 July 2009.

Steps have been taken to ensure that the message copy of the bill is always the correct version in future.

Legislative drafting

The department drafts bills and amendments for private members and checks second reading (in principle) amendments for conformity with the standing orders. It also prepares bills and amendments in correct form and arranges copies for circulation. Trends in the legislative drafting services provided by the department for private members are reflected in Table 4, which shows a reduction in second reading amendments moved in 2008–09. The new bills management system referred to previously includes a facility for managing the drafting of bills and amendments but is yet to be used for this purpose.

Record of proceedings and House documents

Votes and proceedings

The Votes and Proceedings continued to provide an accurate, comprehensive and concise record of proceedings. The draft document for each sitting day is published on the Parliament of Australia website, usually within an hour of the adjournment of the House.

The Votes and Proceedings are prepared from the Votes Officer's Minutes, an electronic record of the proceedings of the House and the Main Committee compiled progressively throughout a sitting day and made available online, enabling anyone with access to the internet to follow events in the House and Main Committee as they occur. Internal and external clients continued to provide positive feedback on this service.

The Votes and Proceedings for the Forty-first Parliament were finalised to final edition of the index at year end. The completion of the index has been delayed by staffing turnover. The index to the Votes and Proceedings for 2008 was finalised during the year.

The project to digitise the Votes and Proceedings from 1901 referred to in the 2007–08 annual report was completed during the year, making the complete record of the Votes and Proceedings available online. A fully digitised version of the official record of business of the House improves public access to information and constitutes a valuable research tool.

Documents

During the year, we processed all documents presented to the House and recorded their details in the Votes and Proceedings and the Index of Papers Presented to the Parliament. We made copies available to members and their staff and others, principally in Parliament

House, in response to requests, including through an online daily document-ordering system. The original documents were added to the records of the House, which we continued to maintain (see page 19, 'House records').

The number of documents presented to the House stabilised in 2008–09 following significant growth in recent years. In 2008–09, 6,519 documents (8,073 in 2007–08) were presented to the House, a decrease of 19 per cent. In line with reductions in demand as a result of electronic publication, we reduced our tabling stock requirements for a subset of those documents—namely, documents presented by the Leader of the House on behalf of the government, parliamentary committee reports and audit reports—from 60 to 40 copies. This will result in some reduction in printing costs for agencies, with environmental benefits. For the majority of documents presented—that is, those presented by means of the deemed document mechanism—only one stock copy is now required rather than two as previously. The review of the Legislative Instruments Act 2003, presented to Parliament in May 2009, recommended that the Act be amended to remove the requirement to table instruments that are not subject to disallowance. If enacted, this would significantly reduce the number of instruments processed.

Our reduction in stock copies over the years has led to a reduction in the workload of our basement records manager. The position was made part-time rather than full-time during the year. No other savings measures were able to be identified during the year. Approximately 90 per cent of Chamber support expenditure is for salaries and allowances.

The preparation of the cumulative Index of Papers Presented to the Parliament for the Forty-first Parliament has been an extended process because of:

- ▶ inconsistencies in the styles of entries (this deficiency was addressed by internal review in late 2007), and
- ▶ turnover of staff in the Table Office.

At year end, the consolidated index was ready for printing and distribution.

The review of legislative instruments referred to above also recommended that the Attorney-General's Department and the Table Office of each House of Parliament pursue the potential for efficiencies through the active sharing of information. This approach was strongly advocated by the department in its submission to the review in 2008. We developed an electronic interface between the Register of Legislative Instruments and the Table Office documents database, and during the year the Table Office and the Attorney-General's Department trialled sharing electronic information on legislative instruments. Consistent formatting of source information needs to be achieved to maximise the potential for efficiencies of this process. At year end, the department was working with the Department of the Senate and the Department of Parliamentary Services on a project to identify solutions to achieve greater efficiency and effectiveness in the processing of documents presented to the Parliament.

To meet the needs of clients, each sitting day the Table Office prepares and issues in electronic and hard-copy form a Disallowable Instruments List. The list provides details of all instruments presented to the House that are subject to disallowance, by number of sitting days remaining for a notice of disallowance to be lodged.

Parliamentary Papers Series

The Parliamentary Papers Series consists of documents of a substantial nature presented to the Parliament. This year, the 2006 and 2007 series were completed for distribution to recipients. The delay in distribution of full-year sets results from the tardy provision, by a small number of agencies, of copies of documents for the series. The Publications Committee reports to the House on non-complying agencies. At year end, thirty-five agencies had reports outstanding for 2008.

As separately reported (page 54), the Australian National Audit Office conducted a performance audit during the year that involved the department and four other agencies. The report suggested that a central digital repository be considered for parliamentary papers and certain other tabled documents to improve their online availability. The department will confer with the other parliamentary departments on this matter in the coming year.

House records

We are responsible for the custody and preservation of, and access to, the official records of the House, including Acts, bills, the Votes and Proceedings and all documents presented to the House, dating from 1901. The records are stored in a basement archive area at Parliament House.

The long-term relocation of House records into archival-quality containers and implementation of preventive conservation measures for the records was completed during the year. Working largely within existing Table Office resources, the project has taken many years to complete.

A project to improve the archive storage area and reduce potential risks arising from building systems and infrastructure, as mentioned in the 2007–08 annual report, was a priority during the year. Plans for the works, which include improvements to the storage area's air-conditioning system and risk-abatement measures for the hydraulic piping, were finalised during the year; and funding from the Department of Parliamentary Services of $501,000 to implement the enhancements was approved. The project is planned for completion in 2009–10. The project will ensure the archive storage area meets document preservation standards, with low risk of damage to records from pipe malfunction.

Arrangements were made to lend, on a temporary basis, the 1963 Yirrkala bark petitions to the Museum of Australian Democracy at Old Parliament House. This loan is subject to the agreement of the Yirrkala community.

Petitions

In 2008, the House established the Standing Committee on Petitions (see page 21).

Table 5 provides details of petitions presented to the House, and the number of signatories, for the past five years.

Research

The Chamber Research Office continued to collect, store, analyse and publish a range of procedural and statistical information. The office provided:

- ▶ advice, or assistance with advice, to the Speaker and other members on the application of the standing orders and precedents in applying the standing orders and other House practices, and support to the procedure committee
- ▶ advice and publications on statistics of legislation and House practices
- ▶ advice and publications on precedents and procedural records, and
- ▶ information to members of the public and to other parliaments on how the House operates.

Feedback from the Speaker, members and the public on the provision of procedural and statistical services and advice by the Chamber Research Office continued to be very positive.

Publications

The Chamber Research Office is responsible for the maintenance, publication and distribution of the standing orders. A new edition of the standing orders was produced in December 2008, published in hard copy and in electronic format.

The text of the standing orders and the Australian Constitution was processed for eComPress software, and both documents are now available to internal users in a sophisticated searchable format alongside House of Representatives Practice.

Several publications produced by the office were updated, including the department's Infosheets series and the Facts and Figures booklet. Work continued on the next edition of House of Representatives Practice, a major reference work for the Parliament. The next (sixth edition) is scheduled for completion later in 2009, with publication in 2010.

The office continued to produce two publications detailing procedural issues of note, generally following each sitting fortnight. The Procedural Digest, a subject-based record of proceedings, is now available on the Parliament of Australia website, while the Procedural Extracts, derived from a precedents database, have a more limited distribution, primarily to internal users. The office also continued to produce the Statistical Digest, which is available online and provides details of particular proceedings of the House. It is published with the same frequency as the Procedural Digest and supplements the six-monthly publication Work of the Session.

Parliamentary committees

In addition to the support provided to the Chamber and Main Committee of the House of Representatives, the department continued to provide effective secretariat and advisory support to a number of House committees and to a joint committee dealing with the a Election year.

Note: With the changed arrangements for tabling of petitions from February 2008, the petitions committee has combined petitions in the same terms received at the same time for the purposes of presentation. The reduction in the total number of petitions from comparable earlier years can be partly attributed to this change in the way petitions are counted.

powers and procedures of the House (see Table 6).

During the year, the committees held a total of 66 meetings (33 in 2007–08) for 49.5 hours (20 in 2007–08) and produced 16 reports (14 in 2007–08). Details of meetings and reports are set out in Appendixes 4 and 5.

Standing Committee on Procedure

The committee presented one report in the period, Re-opening the Debate: Inquiry into the arrangements for the opening day of Parliament, tabled in October 2008. The report reviewed opening day procedures and made ten recommendations aimed at balancing tradition and modernity, as well as incorporating an Indigenous ceremony and giving a higher profile to significant moments in the day. To date, there has been no government response.

The committee continued with its inquiries into the maintenance of standing and sessional orders, and the conduct of the business of the House. It also initiated an inquiry into the effectiveness of the House’s committee system.

Standing Committee on Petitions

The committee has been in operation since February 2008, receiving and processing petitions. The committee may also inquire into and report to the House on any matter relating to petitions and the petitions system.

The chair of the committee regularly presents petitions in the House, although many members still wish to present the petitions from their electorates. The committee refers each petition to the minister responsible for the administration of the subject matter in that petition. The response from ministers to these referrals has been very positive, with most making a written response within the expected time expressed in the sessional order time frame (ninety days from presentation of the petition in the House). As mentioned in the 2007–08 annual report, responses from ministers to petitions were provided infrequently under the previous arrangements for petitions.

Regular public hearings have been held in Canberra, enabling the committee to keep current the information and advice that has been provided by ministers. In some instances, the committee has been pleased to learn that the concerns raised in petitions have been addressed: For example, at a hearing in May 2009 that covered, among other petitions, one relating to a post office, a committee member remarked: ‘I think this has been where a petition has achieved something for the petitioners. It has brought discussion and improved especially the disability access to the post office ...’. More often, though, it is a matter of obtaining the most up-to-date information possible, and making it available publicly.

In addition, round-table meetings have been undertaken outside of Canberra, with petitioners and other interested parties, building on the early work of the committee in raising public awareness of the new arrangements for petitions. Public participation on the part of petitioners, members of the public, and school children at these meetings has been heartening.

The committee’s web page gives access to the terms of petitions, ministers’ responses, and transcripts of hearings and round-table meetings. By providing centralised access in this way, the committee has contributed to making the petitions process more open and accessible.

The committee's inquiry into electronic petitions is ongoing.

Standing Committee on Publications

The committee met on four occasions in 2008–09, and it met together with the Senate Publications Committee on another eight occasions. The committee presented twelve reports recommending which documents presented to Parliament should be included in the Parliamentary Papers Series. All reports were agreed to.

Standing Committee of Privileges and Members' Interests

The committee was quite active during the reporting period, meeting ten times. The major matter the committee examined during the period was a reference from the House concerning the issue of an exchange between two members in the Main Committee and the subsequent withdrawal and apology by one of the members. In reporting to the House on the matter, the committee concluded that there were no matters of privilege that arose from the events. However, the committee made some comments about the behaviour of both members. The committee also indicated it would examine the question of a code of conduct for members and would report back to the House.

The committee also reported to the House on procedures it had adopted internally for the conduct of its inquiries. The committee presented proposed procedures for discussion and suggested that the House should resolve to make them formal procedures to be followed by the committee. The committee is yet to report finally to the House on whether such procedures should be formally adopted by the House.

Information technology

As foreshadowed in the 2007–08 annual report, a number of major information technology (IT) projects were finalised during the year. During the Spring sittings in 2008, the redevelopment of the bills system was completed and ParInfo Search, which replaces the ParInfo system, was implemented. Both projects represented major and core parliamentary projects, involving the three parliamentary departments working collaboratively. The projects as delivered met the contract requirements and were completed on time and on budget. In terms of the scale and complexity of the projects compared to budget, they represented exceptional value for money.

Avila College students giving evidence to the House of Representatives Standing Committee on Petitions at its first interstate public hearing on petitions presented from Victoria, 20 October 2008.

In partnership with the Department of the Senate, we updated applications used by the Table Office—the Document Production System and the Table Office databases—to ensure compatibility with Microsoft Office 2007, which was rolled out in April 2009. The timing was coordinated with the Office of Parliamentary Counsel.

The newly designed petitions database is now in operation and is proving very useful in supporting the role of the petitions committee by tracking petitions and responses and producing a range of associated reports.

Planning for the redevelopment of the Document Production System and associated database commenced. Initial work has begun on investigating improvements to technology in the House of Representatives Chamber (see page 43). From a strategic perspective, it will be important to develop the capability to support an 'electronic chamber'. Initial work was also done on redevelopment of the Procedural Records System.

IMPROVING PERFORMANCE

The focus of our work in 2008–09 was on capability development and service delivery, reflecting implementation of new IT systems and some staffing turnover as mentioned. The redevelopment of the new bills system, the implementation of ParInfo Search and the rollout of Microsoft Office 2007 have enhanced our IT capability and service provision. Some savings were achieved for agencies by further reduction of the stock requirements for documents presented to the House.

The emphasis on training and development outlined in previous reports continued during the year, as did planning, people management and evaluation strategies. Several staff members undertook leadership training, and performance indicators were reviewed.

OUTLOOK

In 2009–10, the output group will continue providing advice and services of a high standard to support the Chamber and Main Committee of the House of Representatives. Next year will be the third full year of the Forty-second Parliament and it is anticipated that the level of direct support activity for the output group during the year will be high. The workload in supporting the government's legislative program is also likely to be at trend levels.

There will again be focus on IT, with attention turning to redevelopment of the Document Production System and the Procedural Records System, finding efficiencies in the processing of legislative instruments, and enhancing the online availability of the Parliamentary Paper Series. Support will also be provided for the parliamentary project to redevelop the Parliament of Australia website. There will also be continued focus on efficient service delivery, although the scope for expenditure reductions without reductions in services is limited.

The basement archive redevelopment project will be finalised, achieving a preservation-standard environment. Support for the department's public seminar and publication programs will continue.

OUTPUT GROUP 1.2— COMMUNITY AWARENESS

DESCRIPTION

The work of Output Group 1.2 is aimed at increasing knowledge about the House of Representatives in the community and encouraging community participation in the work of the House and its committees. The department's Liaison and Projects Office works in cooperation with other departmental areas to provide information to the community, including the media, through a range of products and services that help inform people about the work of the House.

Output Group 1.2 is also a priority area of responsibility for the Serjeant-at-Arms' Office. The office maintains several important databases to facilitate the dissemination of information to the public and to encourage community participation in the proceedings of the House. The most significant of these is the members information database, from which information about members is disseminated through the publication of members' contact details on the Parliament of Australia website.

The school visits database enables the management of visits by school students to participate in Parliamentary Education Office programs and, with a guide from Visitor Services of the Department of Parliamentary Services, to have a tour of the building and observe proceedings in the House of Representatives Chamber. The gallery bookings database assists the department in managing visits by members of the public in the galleries of the Chamber to view question time and other important sittings such as the presentation of the Budget. The office also oversees security arrangements for the Chamber; the Main Committee and all House of Representatives committee rooms. The Serjeant-at-Arms' Office plays a vital role in liaising with and coordinating other offices across the Parliament in support of visitor access to parliamentary proceedings.

Output Group 1.2 recorded an expenditure of $1.600 million for 2008–09, against a budget allocation of $1.848 million. The financial resources for the output group are summarised in Appendix 2; staff levels, by location, are shown in Appendix 11.

PERFORMANCE

The department's community outreach program continued to promote the work of the House and its committees through a variety of media. Existing programs were supplemented with new products that used the latest technology to provide the public with improved access to parliamentary information.

Schools can bring their students to visit Parliament and participate in the schools visits program throughout the year. Once again, the number of students visiting under this program has increased, sustaining the trend of growing student visitor numbers. Statistics are given below under 'Public visits to the House'.

COMMUNITY LIAISON

Print and electronic media

The About the House magazine remains a key publication for informing the community about the work of the House and its committees, with an estimated readership of more than 80,000 people across Australia. Feedback from readers, through emails and phone calls, indicates that the publication is highly regarded in the community for its content and design.

Four editions of the magazine were published during the year; in September and December 2008 and in March and June 2009. To assist in recovering some production costs, some advertising has been included in the magazine.

Complementing the magazine, the half-hour About the House television program was broadcast regularly on Sky News on the Friday of sitting weeks and on some Saturdays. It is also broadcast regularly on the new Australian Public Affairs Channel (A-PAC). The programmers for that channel provided positive feedback on the content and presentation of the program, which highlights current committee investigations.

The new About the House web page was launched at www.aph.gov.au/ath, providing the public with improved access to parliamentary information, including a variety of video material on the work of the House and its committees. Segments from the About the Filming a committee hearing in the Torres Strait in March 2009 for the About the House television program.

House television program are now available on the website along with question time replays and other video and audio material, including interviews with committee members and participants in committee inquiries. The web page has proved popular, with more than 100,000 visitor sessions during the year. The online version of the About the House magazine has had more than 35,000 visitor sessions.

The email alert service, which provides regular updates on committee investigations, remained popular. More than 3,200 organisations and individuals subscribe to the free service.

Media liaison and advice services were provided to committees to help maximise media coverage of committee investigations. Staff of the Liaison and Projects Office worked with committee staff to prepare media strategies for committee inquiries. Feedback indicates that the media as well as committees appreciate having this centralised service for the ease of access to information about parliamentary committees that it provides.

Seminars and presentations

Eleven seminars with a total of 319 attendees were conducted during the year (compared with eight seminars with 181 attendees in 2007–08). This included four seminars arranged specifically for individual government agencies. Evaluation forms completed by seminar participants indicated a high level of satisfaction with the content of the seminars.

The House Calls university lecture program continued. The Speaker and the Clerk made presentations at the University of Tasmania, the University of Western Sydney, Notre Dame University Australia (Fremantle campus) and Murdoch University. Lecturers at those universities indicated that the program is very valuable for students in giving them an appreciation of the real workings of the House of Representatives.

Projects and events

An interdepartmental working group on public displays at Parliament House was established in August 2008 to review existing displays and consider future directions. The department was represented on the working group by the Liaison and Projects Office and the Chamber Research Office. The director of the Liaison and Projects Office chaired the group. The working group's report, including recommendations for improving public displays, was submitted in April 2009 for consideration by the executives of the three parliamentary departments. The report is under consideration.

A touch-screen kiosk about members of the House of Representatives was commissioned for the public areas of Parliament House. The 'Meet your MP' kiosk is being produced by the Liaison and Projects Office. It will provide visitors to Parliament House with information about the 150 members of the House of Representatives in an interactive format. Currently there is little information in the public areas of Parliament House regarding members and their electorates. This kiosk will fill that gap. It is expected to be ready for installation by September 2009.

During the year, an exhibition on the work of the House of Representatives was arranged for one of the exhibition areas at the front of Parliament House. The display focused on the traditions and innovations of the House and included a section on parliamentary strengthening projects undertaken with parliaments in the Asia–Pacific region.

PARLIAMENTARY ASSISTANTS PROGRAM

As it has done for nine years now, the department recruited students from universities in the Australian Capital Territory under the parliamentary assistants program, which combines elements of educational, employment and outreach programs (see page 45 for more detail).

PUBLIC VISITS TO THE HOUSE

Public visits to observe proceedings

During sittings, there are a large number of visitors who book seats in the galleries to observe proceedings. Peak times for gallery attendances other than question time were the presentation of the Budget and the Budget reply. During the year, 96,079 visitors viewed proceedings from galleries of the Chamber; not including school students. On several occasions, there were more than 2,000 visitors to the galleries; the largest number (2,441) was recorded on 4 February 2009.

School visits to Parliament House

In 2008–09, a total of 114,190 students visited Parliament House, compared with 112,460 for 2007–08. An increase was particularly noticeable during the first quarter of 2009. The busiest months of the year were June through to November; Parliamentary Education Office classes were booked out over this period. After-hours classes during Term 3 continued to be heavily used. In February, some cancellations were received due to the Victorian bushfires and, in May, some cancellations were attributed to H1N1 Influenza 09 (Human Swine Flu).

The economic crisis has also resulted in cancellations and this is expected to affect visits further during the next financial year. Table 7 shows the breakdown for the past five years, by state and territory, of students visiting Parliament House.

Of the students visiting, the majority participated in a special tour of Parliament House, including a visit to the House of Representatives galleries; 80 per cent participated in a parliamentary education program (see below) and 83 per cent enjoyed refreshments provided by the department.

Parliamentary Education Office

The department and the Department of the Senate jointly fund the Parliamentary Education Office (PEO), which is administered by the Department of the Senate to provide parliamentary education services to schools, teachers and students. The two departments confer on the strategic direction of the PEO and the content of its educational material and online resources. The PEO Advisory Committee, chaired by the Deputy Speaker, met in May 2009. The Clerk Assistant (Table) attended as an observer.

A new record of 90,786 students from every state and territory participated in the PEO's role-play program at Parliament House during the year (compared with the previous record of 89,061 in 2007–08). This brought the cumulative total of students who had participated in the role-play programs since the Parliament House building opened on 9 May 1988 to 1,369,000.

The PEO continued to invest substantially in other activities and in technology. The PEO website (www.peo.gov.au) now offers a multimedia section, including video, and many more interactive features. Website patronage continued to increase; over three million page views were recorded in 2008–09. The PEO also worked closely with members and senators this year in a targeted school visits program called 'Parliament Alive' and continued to produce a wide range of resources on CD and DVD and in print.

IMPROVING PERFORMANCE

The new About the House web page was launched during the year. The technology now available on the web page provides the community with greater access to information about the work of the House and its committees.

A review was undertaken of public displays in Parliament House, and a number of recommendations were made to improve displays and the way in which the work of the House is promoted at Parliament House.

A touch-screen kiosk is being developed to provide improved information on the members of the House of Representatives for visitors to Parliament House.

We are reviewing the school bookings system to improve the service provided to schools and to enhance the administrative information that is available.

OUTLOOK

We will continue to publicise the work of the House and its committees using the variety of products that have been developed for this purpose over the past decade, including the magazine, television program, email alert service and new web page. Budgetary pressures will have a bearing on the extent to which all of these products can be used and on our ability to expand the audience for our publications.

We anticipate that the long-term trend of increasing numbers of students visiting Parliament each year will be sustained. While this trend is highly desirable in terms of increasing access by students to their Parliament, it nevertheless presents a challenge for the school visits program in the face of budgetary pressures. The proposal by Visitor Services for roster changes for parliamentary guides has increased the complexity for staff in the Serjeant-at-Arms' Office in taking and managing bookings for school visits in 2010. We will continue to take bookings for all visits and provide information services to the community, reflecting our liaison with, and any changes from, the PEO and Visitor Services.

OUTPUT GROUP 1.3— COMMITTEE SERVICES

DESCRIPTION

The work of Output Group 1.3 is primarily performed by the Committee Office. The office supports parliamentary committees in discharging their responsibilities of parliamentary consideration of policy and legislation and scrutiny of government.

The expenditure for the services of Output Group 1.3 in 2008–09 was $8.696 million, which was $2.104 million below the budget allocation of $10.800 million. The financial resources for the output group are summarised in Appendix 2; staff levels, by location, are shown in Appendix 11.

PERFORMANCE

Committees in the Forty-second Parliament

The 2008–09 financial year was the midpoint of the parliamentary cycle. Most committees started the year with inquiries in progress that had originated largely in the previous financial year. The committees' efforts during the reporting period have focused on completing these inquiries and developing a work program to take them to the end of this parliamentary cycle.

The committee and administrative structures remained unchanged during the year. Eight secretariats provided support to twelve House committees and eight joint committees.<sup>1</sup> Of the eight joint committees, three have been created by statute (Public Accounts and Audit, Intelligence and Security, and Public Works) and five by resolution of the two Chambers.

Committees supported by the Committee Office in 2008–09 are shown in Table 8.

The Liaison Committee of Chairs and Deputy Chairs (the Liaison Committee) was first established in the Thirty-eighth Parliament. Chaired by the Deputy Speaker, it meets every six months and is an informal means by which chairs and deputies can discuss issues common to committees. It also promotes communication between committees and the Committee Office. The Liaison Committee met in November 2008 and June 2009.

<sup>1</sup> Five other committees mainly concerned with the domestic operations of the House are supported by other areas of the department and are discussed at pages 20–2. The Department of the Senate supports three joint committees. Information on these committees is included in Appendixes 4 and 5.

Committee activity

On 1 July 2008, the investigatory committees supported by the department had forty-one ongoing inquiries. During 2008–09, these committees commenced 46 inquiries and tabled 57 reports related to 53 inquiries. As at 30 June 2009, the committees had 35 ongoing inquiries.

Most inquiries typically relate to policy or administrative issues within government. The inquiry-related activities of committees are summarised at Appendixes 4 and 5.

During the year, the Committee Office supported some high-profile inquiries. For example, the House of Representatives Standing Committee on Family, Community, Housing and Youth conducted an inquiry into carers, receiving 1,305 written submissions. The committee also heard directly from over 250 witnesses at fourteen public hearings and teleconferences held around Australia between July and December 2008. The committee launched its report, Who Cares...?, on 1 May 2009 and made fifty recommendations to increase practical support for carers.

Between May 2008 and June 2009, the Joint Standing Committee on Foreign Affairs, Defence and Trade conducted its inquiry into issues arising from damage caused to the health of Royal Australian Air Force personnel tasked with keeping the F-111 aircraft airworthy (deseal/reseal). The committee's report made eighteen recommendations relating to health scheme compensation, ongoing health research, and the administration of ex gratia payments and compensation by the Department of Defence and the Department of Veterans' Affairs. The committee was told that up to 2,000 workers and their families could be affected by the outcomes of the inquiry.

Making committees more accessible

Committee inquiries generally employ a format involving written submissions, hearings in Canberra and throughout Australia, and a written report. While this approach is often effective, it also assumes that groups and individuals in the wider community have the necessary communication skills and capabilities to participate and that they feel comfortable providing evidence within the formal submission and public hearing process.

In 2008–09, a number of committees supported by the department used innovative procedures to enable marginalised groups to better participate in inquiries. For example, key stakeholders participating in the Joint Standing Committee on Migration's inquiry into immigration detention in Australia often had difficulty with English. The committee used interpreters at hearings and translations of correspondence to conduct its business. Further, it conducted a full inspection program of detention centres (including the facilities on Christmas Island), immigration transit accommodation and immigration residential housing in Australia to have first-hand experience of the conditions. The committee released its first two reports during the year.

In October 2008, the House of Representatives Standing Committee on Education and Training commenced an inquiry into the impact on high school students of combining school and work. The committee developed a student survey form, which it posted on its website and widely advertised. It asked students to indicate their school and the type and amount of work they performed; it also provided opportunity for further comment. The survey elicited approximately 3,000 responses. The committee pursued issues raised in the survey and written submissions through round tables, classroom visits, meetings with teaching staff and principals, and student forums in schools around the country.

In December 2008, the Standing Committee on Legal and Constitutional Affairs commenced an inquiry into the draft Disability

Witnesses giving evidence to the Joint Standing Committee on Foreign Affairs, Defence and Trade for its desal/reseal inquiry in July 2008.

(Access to Premises—Buildings) Standards. Key stakeholders for the inquiry were people with a disability. Therefore, the committee used venues that had disabled access and hearing loops for attendees with hearing aids. Venues also needed to have accessible toilets nearby and tactile ground-surface indicators, so that vision-impaired attendees could better navigate their way around the premises. Some hearing-impaired members of the public requested real-time captions or a sign language interpreter when attending hearings. In these cases, Hansard provided transcripts on the next business day, rather than the usual period of one to two weeks.

Also in December 2008, the Standing Committee on Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Affairs commenced its inquiry into community stores in remote Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander communities. The committee promoted Indigenous involvement in a number of ways. For example, it used local interpreters at hearings and distributed pamphlets throughout the communities to advertise the public hearings and open forums. Public hearings took on a different format. The traditional owners of the lands welcomed the committee, and committee members accepted the welcome and acknowledged the traditional owners. This dialogue was included in the transcript of the hearings. The committee experimented with its proceedings in other ways, such as simplifying Hansard forms, using roving microphones at community forums, and making the layout of the hearing area less formal. Where available, the committee used Indigenous businesses for catering and other supplies.

Throughout these inquiries, the department has received positive feedback from participants and committee members about these approaches. A common observation made by participants in the building standards inquiry was that, while they appreciated better access to the process, they believed it was something parliamentary committees could achieve for all inquiries. It is said that 20 per cent of the population has reported a disability.

The House of Representatives Standing Committee on Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Affairs taking evidence for its inquiry into community stores at the Papunya community in April 2009.

Within available resources, one task for the department is to examine ways in which community participation can be increased in future inquiries.

Monitoring defence expenditure

The Australian National Audit Office (ANAO) has regularly reported on difficulties in defence procurement, which involves tens of billions of dollars of projected spending on hundreds of projects. These projects have long lead times, involve large amounts of public money, are complex, and rely on the performance of third parties.

The Joint Committee of Public Accounts and Audit, in the course of its inquiry into defence financial reporting and equipment acquisition, recommended in 2007 that the ANAO be funded to produce an annual report on progress in major defence acquisition projects. This process is modelled on a similar process in the United Kingdom. A similar recommendation had previously been made by a Senate committee.

In December 2008, the ANAO and the Defence Materiel Organisation released a trial report on nine major projects comprising summaries of individual projects in a standard format. The Defence Materiel Organisation prepared the report, which the ANAO checked for accuracy. The committee examined the report at a public hearing on 19 March 2009. It will hold similar public hearings each year after the tabling of future major projects reports.

This new ongoing role for the committee puts the Parliament and the ANAO in a stronger position to exercise oversight of key financial and performance risks in defence. Further, it assists in promoting cultural change in the management of defence projects. Finally, it demonstrates how the Parliament and the ANAO cooperate to improve public administration.

Building ties with Indonesia

In July 2008, the Joint Standing Committee on Foreign Affairs, Defence and Trade participated in the third Indonesia–Australia Parliamentary Committees Forum in Jakarta. The committee was represented by a delegation of six senior members of the Parliament, led by the committee chair, Senator Michael Forshaw, and accompanied by a committee staffer, Dr John Carter. The forum comprised two days of discussions between the delegation and the chair and other representatives of the Indonesian legislature's Commission One (Commission on Foreign Affairs, Defence, Communication and Information).

The forums have been facilitated and supported by the Centre for Democratic Institutions at the Australian National University. The forums aim to strengthen the ties between the two countries and allow members of both committees to learn about each other's system of government.

The discussions were open and frank and included issues such as the Lombok treaty, migration and security cooperation, as well as other issues of general interest. In addition to these discussions between the two sets of committee members, Dr Carter met with the staff of Commission One and with Indonesian parliamentary research staff to discuss parliamentary practices.

The committee's 2004 report on Australia's relationship with Indonesia, Near Neighbours—Good Neighbours, contained a recommendation that the government establish a regular program of parliamentary exchange visits between Australia and Indonesia. While the committee continues to pursue implementation of this recommendation, the Centre for Democratic Institutions has brought about a similar result through its support for the forums. This example shows that the effect of committee inquiries can be gradual and involve many parties. It need not be limited to the government response.

COMMITTEE SUPPORT

The 2008–09 financial year was the midpoint in the cycle of the Forty-second Parliament. It saw a return to high levels of committee activity after the establishment of committees and the commencement of inquiries, typically after a minister issued terms of reference. Secretariats have focused on organising public hearings, drafting reports and assisting committees at report consideration meetings.

Access to Commonwealth Parliament Offices

Commonwealth Parliament Offices are located in major centres around Australia and supply office services to senators and members. Some senators have their electorate offices located on these premises. They are managed and funded by the Department of Finance and Deregulation.

Traditionally, committees have used Commonwealth Parliament Offices for small-scale hearings. Their advantages are that they are rent free for parliamentary use, centrally located and well equipped. In August 2007, the Department of Finance and Deregulation began to place restrictions on the committee use of the offices due to security concerns about allowing members of the public access to these premises.

Since that time, suitable access arrangements have been pursued both by the Liaison Committee and at departmental officer level. In April 2009, the Department of Finance and Deregulation issued new guidelines permitting public hearings in the offices subject to certain requirements, including that committees give advance notice of all members of the public who will attend to observe proceedings. The Liaison Committee and the department are continuing to seek the restoration of the access arrangements that applied up to 2007.

Staff flexibility

From 1996, committee secretariats have been consolidated; instead of supporting one committee each, they now support either two or three. This has meant that there is more scope to meet peaks in demand, as the staff serving one committee are often available to help their colleagues, if need be.

One trend in committee work during the Forty-second Parliament is that peaks in demand have meant that the reallocation of staff within a secretariat is not always sufficient to manage the workload of that particular secretariat. The department has responded to this by reallocating staff from one secretariat to another on a short-term basis. From time to time, committee members have expressed their preference for greater staff continuity. The department appreciates that greater staff continuity improves committee effectiveness through greater corporate knowledge. However, maintaining staff flexibility is likely to be the best way of managing workload peaks in the current financial environment.

Records management and archiving

Committee Office staff continued to work closely with the Records Management Unit to process the remaining committee records that predate the Forty-second Parliament using the streamlined electronic system implemented during 2007–08. Over twenty-five shelf metres of committee records were transferred into the custody of the National Archives during the year; and a further six shelf metres of committee records to be retained permanently at Parliament House were sorted, boxed and placed in appropriate on-site storage.

The Records Management Unit continued to offer a program of formal and on-the-job records management training to Committee Office staff during the year.

IMPROVING PERFORMANCE

Members' survey

In May and June 2009, a random selection of thirty current members of parliament were asked to participate in the department's annual survey of members. The survey provides feedback to the Committee Office, as well as all other offices, from their major stakeholders on levels of satisfaction with committee support services. It supplements ongoing feedback from members in the course of committee operations.

The survey was conducted confidentially with an option to participate in a confidential interview with a departmental executive officer. Twenty-three current members responded to the survey (twenty-two in 2007–08), ten of whom participated in an interview.

There was a very high level of satisfaction reported on the overall services and support members received from the department. The majority of responses to committee service satisfaction yielded an extremely satisfied or highly satisfied response. Details of the survey findings are at Appendix 12.

Responses to committee reports

Successive governments have set themselves a three-month limit for responding to committee reports. A large number of government responses take significantly longer than this benchmark. In November 2008, the Liaison Committee discussed the status of committee reports tabled prior to the Forty-second Parliament that were yet to receive a response.

In December 2008, as a consequence of this discussion, the Speaker requested individual committees to consider which of these earlier reports no longer required a government response because of the passage of time or other factors. On 13 May 2009, the Speaker advised the House that seven reports no longer required a response and these would be removed from the schedule of outstanding government responses tabled every six months. As at 30 June 2009, twenty-three House committee reports and twenty-five joint committee reports from this prior period still require a government response.

OUTLOOK

In June 2009, the House Standing Committee on Procedure announced an inquiry into committee effectiveness. The terms of reference include the number, subject coverage and membership of committees as well as the appropriateness of current standing orders. The committee is expected to report in 2009–10 and the department is preparing a submission to the inquiry. Subject to the committee's recommendations being accepted by the House, this inquiry has considerable potential to change the structure and work of committees.

A concern is whether sufficient resources will be available to maintain current levels of service to committees in future. If current resourcing trends continue, the department will need to review the amount of funding for committees, compared with other priorities.

However, funding constraints also present the Committee Office with the opportunity of reassessing how we support committees and determining whether additional savings are possible. The Committee Office will be involved in a detailed examination of its business processes in the first part of 2009–10 to identify areas for potential savings. Areas being examined include more extensive use of electronic communication in advertising inquiries and greater use of video conferencing. The question in future is whether the rate at which it is possible to implement these efficiencies will be sufficient to meet reductions or limited growth in the real budget.

OUTPUT GROUP 1.4— INTERPARLIAMENTARY RELATIONS

DESCRIPTION

Output Group 1.4 provides advice and support for the conduct of the Parliament's regional and other international affairs. The functions and services of the output group are delivered primarily by the Parliamentary Relations Office (PRO), which is jointly funded by the departments of the House of Representatives and the Senate, and administered by the Department of the House of Representatives.

Output Group 1.4 recorded an expenditure of $2.312 million for 2008–09, against a budget allocation of $1.960 million. The financial resources for the output group are summarised in Appendix 2; staff levels, by location, are shown in Appendix 11.

PERFORMANCE

During the year a range of activities helped to promote relations with other parliaments and strengthen Australia's relations with other countries. Some modifications were made to the outgoing delegations program to increase contact with parliaments in the Asia–Pacific region. A number of parliamentary strengthening activities were supported to assist in the development of parliaments in the region.

DELEGATIONS AND VISITS

During 2008–09, the department coordinated 19 official overseas visits, which included bilateral visits to sixteen countries; attendance at six conferences, workshops and seminars; and seven other visits (see Appendix 8). There were also eighteen official visits to Australia by parliamentary delegations from other countries as guests of the Australian Parliament (see Appendix 6), along with thirty-five other visits (see Appendixes 7 and 9).

The outgoing delegations program was modified to strengthen its focus on the Asia–Pacific region and to ensure the program remains relevant to parliamentarians and their work. To this end, two new delegation visits were included in the 2009 program: a delegation to countries that are members of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN); and a committee visit to two countries in the Asia–Pacific region. The committee visit will take place in the second half of 2009. In their evaluation of the visit to ASEAN countries in April 2009, members of the delegation indicated that it was worthwhile in helping them better understand developments in neighbouring countries and appreciate the opportunities for further developing Australia's relations with those countries. Delegation members supported the inclusion of a delegation to ASEAN countries in future outgoing delegation programs.

The incoming visits program also was focused on strengthening relations with parliaments of the Asia–Pacific region. Delegations from Canada, Chile, China, Cook Islands, Indonesia, Russia, Samoa and Singapore undertook official visits to Australia. Visits to the Australian Parliament were also undertaken by parliamentarians from countries in Africa, Europe and the Middle East.

A Guest of Parliament lecture was introduced during the year. It provides an opportunity for visiting parliamentarians to deliver an address during their visit to Parliament House, as a way of informing Australian parliamentarians and other interested people about developments in the visitor's country. The inaugural lecture was delivered in September 2008 by the leader of the delegation from the NATO Parliamentary Assembly. The second lecture was delivered in March 2009 by the chairman of Russia's Federation Council (the upper house of the Russian Parliament). Video recordings of the lectures are made available on the Parliament of Australia website (at www.aph.gov.au/ath).

A parliamentary partnership agreement was signed between the Department of the House of Representatives and the Cambodian Parliament during a visit to Canberra by the secretary-general of the Cambodian Senate. The agreement establishes a framework for exchanges between the two parliaments and helps to strengthen relations between Australia and Cambodia.

Administrative support for incoming and outgoing delegations met the required performance standards. At debrief meetings, delegation members generally indicated a high level of satisfaction with the arrangements made for delegations. Twelve evaluation forms were received from members of delegations. Three delegation members rated the support services and program arrangements for outgoing visits as 'excellent', seven provided a rating of 'good', and two provided a rating of 'fair'.

SUPPORT FOR OTHER PARLIAMENTS

A number of parliamentary training and development programs were coordinated during the year. These were aimed at raising awareness and understanding of parliamentary processes and practices, particularly for parliamentarians and parliamentary staff from developing democracies.

Following on from a strategic planning workshop for staff of the Afghanistan Parliament held in Dubai in April 2008 (as detailed in last year's annual report), a mentoring program was arranged for Afghani parliamentarians. Coordinated in conjunction with the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP), the mentoring program involved meetings and briefings in Canberra as well as visits to federal parliamentarians' offices in Sydney. At the conclusion of the program, the UNDP project manager in Afghanistan advised that the Afghani parliamentarians had been 'significantly, positively affected by the knowledge transfer; exposure to established parliamentary culture and practice, and enormous organisation, hospitality and goodwill' they had experienced at the Australian Parliament. 'We have assessed the visit as a major success', the project manager said, indicating it would be used as a model for similar programs in the future.

The Inter-Parliamentary Study Program was conducted in March 2009, with fifteen parliamentary officials from Africa, Asia, Europe, the Middle East, North America and the Pacific. The annual two-week program provided the opportunity for participants to explore in detail parliamentary procedures and practices. Evaluations from the participants showed a high level of satisfaction with the program; participants commended the program for its content and administration. Of the thirteen participants who completed evaluation forms, nine said that the program met objectives to a high degree, three said the program largely met objectives, while one said the program met objectives to a limited extent.

Training, equipment and project support were provided for Pacific Island parliaments through the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association (CPA) Australian Region Education Trust Fund, which is a joint initiative of Australia's federal, state and territory parliaments. The fund is administered by the PRO, which provides the secretariat for the Australian Region of the CPA.

The support included training in Australia for Pacific Island parliamentary officials as well as project work conducted by Australian parliamentary officials in the Pacific region. Among the projects supported was the development of a website for the Tongan Parliament, the third Pacific parliamentary website to be developed with the support of the fund. Training and development placements included Hansard and committee staff. Participants were offered opportunities to attend forums and conferences covering information technology, parliamentary education and parliamentary libraries. Evaluations completed at the end of the training indicated that training participants gained a great deal from the experience and would be able to use what they had learned in their own parliaments.

In administering the fund, the PRO took up opportunities to partner with other organisations providing support to Pacific Island countries. This included assisting AusAID with a project to upgrade the sound system for the Solomon Islands Parliament; cooperating with the Centre for Democratic Institutions to provide a training placement at the New South Wales Parliament for a staff member from the Bougainville Parliament; and supporting the Australian Capital Territory Legislative Assembly in providing technical and procedural assistance to the Kiribati Parliament.

Other training and development activities were supported by the department, including participation in staff workshops held in Tonga in September 2008 by the CPA. The Chair of the Procedure Committee, the Clerk and the department's media manager made presentations. One workshop was for members of the Tongan National Assembly and the other for staff from legislatures in the South Pacific. Issues covered included the importance of procedural rules, capacity building, information disclosure by the Tongan National Assembly and freedom of information.

PARTICIPATION IN INTERNATIONAL PARLIAMENTARY ORGANISATIONS

The Australian Parliament continued to be an active participant in a number of international parliamentary organisations, including the Inter-Parliamentary Union, the CPA and the Asia Pacific Parliamentary Forum. Australia retained observer status at the ASEAN Inter-Parliamentary Assembly.

The PRO coordinated the Australian Parliament's participation in the annual conferences and meetings of these organisations. The Department of Foreign Affairs and Trade also provided support. Feedback from parliamentarians indicated that participation in these organisations provided worthwhile opportunities for discussions and exchanges with parliamentarians of other countries. Performance standards for the coordination of these activities were met.

At the Inter-Parliamentary Union assemblies held in Geneva, Switzerland and Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, the Australian delegation participated in drafting committees for the assemblies, including as rapporteurs. The Australian delegation took a lead role in relation to a debate on nuclear non-proliferation and disarmament.

A proposal for Australian state and territory parliaments to twin with Pacific Island parliaments was formally approved at a regional meeting of the CPA held in July 2008. As the secretariat for the Australian Region of the CPA, the PRO assisted with the coordination of the twinning arrangements.

As part of the twinning arrangements, training attachments were arranged between Australian and Pacific Island parliaments. In addition, official delegations from the Cook Islands and Samoa visited their twinned parliaments in Western Australia and Tasmania as part of their official programs in Australia.

The PRO also provided secretariat support for the Australian Region Steering Committee of Commonwealth Women Parliamentarians. As this was the first year of the steering committee's operation, support included assistance in developing the rules and operating procedures for the committee.

IMPROVING PERFORMANCE

The outgoing delegations program was modified to strengthen its regional focus and ensure it remains relevant to parliamentarians and their work.

Procedural documents, including delegation handbooks, were updated.

Evaluation forms and debrief meetings continued to be used for outgoing delegations as a way to obtain feedback on delegation programs and administrative arrangements. The feedback is useful in preparing future programs, to ensure they meet the expectations of parliamentarians participating in delegations.

An audit of PRO's management of parliamentarians' passports was undertaken by KPMG. The audit found that the passport and visa application process is organised in a manner that enables timely issue of passports and visas to parliamentarians, with appropriate controls in place. Some suggestions relating to passport tracking and data checking were made and these are being implemented.

OUTLOOK

Budgetary pressures will have an impact on the programs that will be able to be delivered in 2009–10, with a likely reduction in the number of official visits that can be accepted.

Opportunities to partner with organisations that undertake development activities in Pacific Island countries will continue to be explored as part of our administration of the trust fund that provides training and equipment for Pacific Island parliaments.

The potential to develop further the twinning arrangements between Australian and Pacific Island parliaments will be explored.

OUTPUT GROUP 1.5— MEMBERS’ SERVICES

DESCRIPTION

Output Group 1.5 provides advice, services and support for members of the House of Representatives. Responsibilities include support for accommodation at Parliament House; the delivery of office and communication services such as stationery, printing and information technology; and the payment of salaries and allowances. These responsibilities are undertaken by the Serjeant-at-Arms' Office, the People Strategies Office, the Information Systems and Publishing Office, and the Finance Office.

In providing these services, the department maintains a close liaison with the Department of Parliamentary Services. The Department of Parliamentary Services is responsible for providing building maintenance and the central information technology services for Parliament House generally, while staff in the Department of the House of Representatives act as the primary contact point for members in relation to the provision of the services.

The expenditure for Output Group 1.5 in 2008–09 was $5.093 million. The budget allocation was $3.815 million. The financial resources for the output group are summarised in Appendix 2; staff levels, by location, are shown in Appendix 11.

PERFORMANCE

All four offices involved in the output group experienced some reduction in activity levels during the year. The results of the 2009 members' survey indicated varying levels of satisfaction with our work. There was a high level of satisfaction with the work of the Serjeant-at-Arms' Office in supporting members (83 per cent either extremely or highly satisfied, compared with 69 per cent in 2008). The level of satisfaction with members' home pages on the Parliament of Australia website rose to 30 per cent who were either extremely or highly satisfied (up from 18 per cent in 2008). However, the level of satisfaction with the payment of members' salaries and allowances and with members' in-house printing fell (see detailed comments below). The survey results are presented in Appendix 12.

INFORMATION SERVICES

To help keep members and their staff informed about developments in the House, four editions of the members' bulletin, House

Update, were published during the year. In addition, the annual series of briefings on procedural and other developments in the House was continued; five briefings were held during the year.

The department continued to operate its drop-in centre every sitting Tuesday to enable members and their staff to get information or provide feedback on any of the services provided by the department. During the year, the centre operated during all seventeen sitting Tuesdays, and twenty-eight members or their staff used the service. It was staffed, as before, by senior departmental staff members. The department continued to invite a representative of the Department of Finance and Deregulation to attend to increase the value of the service to members.

ACCOMMODATION SERVICES

Staff in the Serjeant-at-Arms' Office serve as the principal contacts in relation to accommodation, capital works and maintenance services within the House of Representatives wing of Parliament House. In 2008–09, they were involved in an accommodation review of the basement area.

Requests for accommodation changes during the year included making a doorway into a shadow minister's suite to allow for increased access for staff. Changes in the composition of the shadow ministry, including the Leader of the Opposition, the election of three new members of the House of Representatives and ministerial changes resulted in nineteen office relocations. All requests were met in a timely manner and preparations for incoming members were in place well before their arrival.

The Serjeant-at-Arms' Office received 527 requests to supply and move furniture, 147 fewer than in 2007–08. The decrease reflects the lower requirement for these services in a non-election year.

MAINTENANCE, ACCESS AND TRANSPORT SERVICES

Requests for emergency, routine and periodic maintenance work are managed by the Serjeant-at-Arms' Office. A total of 335 emergency requests were processed during 2008–09 and were attended to within five minutes of receipt. Once again, the office employed a pre-emptive maintenance program to avoid a large number of otherwise emergency maintenance requests when members return for sittings.

Routine maintenance requests for repairs or alterations to suites or common areas numbered 158, a decrease from the previous year, when 482 requests were received. This significant decrease is due in part to our pre-emptive maintenance program and the lower requirement for refurbishment projects in a non-election year.

The refurbishment program continued; no suites were refurbished due to the non-availability of carpet and three sets of members' furniture were refurbished during the year.

The office received and dealt with 194 requests for assistance with telephone faults, relocations and allocation of telephone numbers. Of the 194 requests, 11 related to faults. These faults were reported to telephone support within five minutes of receipt. Telephone support officers resolved these faults within the forty-five-minute agreed time frame.

There were 704 requests for access to suites and general circulation areas.

The office coordinated transport services for members, including managing the members' shuttle service, on behalf of the Department of Finance and Deregulation, during sitting weeks. There were 7,923 bookings made in 2008–09, with a 99.4 per cent success rate. The significant increase in bookings (3,988 in 2007–08) was due to the year being a normal full sitting year and the attendant increase in the use of the shuttle by members on Sundays of sitting weeks and during sitting days.

The provision of support to requests for filming and use of facilities has not been reported previously in our annual report. However, details will now be included because not only is it an important core function, but the incidence of requests has been increasing and the work associated with the processes has increased. The office has responded to 336 filming/photography requests and has dealt with 409 proposals to use facilities at Parliament House. Trend analysis will be possible in future reporting periods.

SOFTWARE AND HARDWARE SERVICES

A new version of the Microsoft Office suite, Office 2007, was rolled out to all staff in Parliament House during the year. There was a considerable amount of work involved in the preparation for this rollout, in testing all software applications and making modifications to some applications to ensure they worked correctly with the new version of Office. Similar preparatory work has begun in anticipation of the upgrade of computers to the Microsoft Vista operating system, due to be rolled out in the next financial year.

Work began on a project to investigate improvements to technology in the House of Representatives Chamber. This project is being managed by the Department of Parliamentary Services, at the request of the department. The project is exploring better ways to integrate technology hardware in places where space is limited such as at the Speaker's chair and the Clerks' table. A number of hardware options were presented to the stakeholders for consideration.

The changes to the process for making petitions to the House of Representatives introduced at the beginning of the Forty-second Parliament required that a new database be developed to track the processing of all petitions. This database was made available to the secretariat serving the Standing Committee on Petitions in late 2008.

Initial discussions were held between the parliamentary departments and the Department of Finance and Deregulation to consider the feasibility of transferring to one agency some of the responsibility for administering technology services to senators and members. Preliminary information is being assessed and further discussions will be held during the next financial year.

The Australian Parliament hosted the fifth Australia and New Zealand Parliamentary IT Forum in September 2008. Parliamentary staff from Australian state and territory parliaments attended, along with staff from the New Zealand Parliament and a representative from the Parliament of the Cook Islands. The chair and deputy chair of the Presiding Officers' Information Technology Advisory Group (POITAG) presented one of the sessions. The forum consisted of delegate presentations, tours of various technology facilities, and workshop discussions on topics of common interest related to the provision of information technology services to parliaments. This forum, as was the case with previous forums, further developed relations between officers of the parliaments. This has led to preliminary discussions between the department and the South Australian Parliament to consider collaboration on developing a procedural records system to serve both parliaments.

INTERNET AND INTRANET SERVICES

A new streaming video and audio service, ParlReplay, was launched on the Parliament of Australia website in September 2008. This service provides streaming video in Flash® format, in both high and low resolution. Audio is available to download as MP3 files. The service is available on both the House of Representatives and Senate web pages. From the About the House page, visitors to the site are able to replay the About the House television program, question time, various Chamber highlights (such as the Budget speech) and audio clips of interviews and lectures. Consideration is being given to using the same technology on other areas of the internet site to provide streaming video and audio.

The Parliament of Australia website is undergoing review and a redesign has been proposed. This project is being conducted by the Department of Parliamentary Services in conjunction with the two parliamentary chamber departments. The initial phase of the project involves consultation with stakeholders, including internal clients, internal publishers and external clients. The department is actively involved in this project given that the internet site has become one of the major platforms for disseminating information about the work of the House and its committees. It is hoped that the redesigned website will provide efficiencies in managing the publishing processes and incorporate new technologies to better facilitate opportunities for interaction with the general public. The redesigned site is expected to be operational in 2010.

PRINTING

The department's in-house printing service produced approximately 7.2 million impressions in 2008–09. Of these, 4.2 million were completed for members as part of their in-house printing allowance. A total of 104 members used all or part of their allowance, and six members transferred part of their allowance to other members.

The number of impressions produced by the department's printing service has declined significantly over the past year. This is due to changes in work practices, such as making use of the high-speed networked photocopiers available in some offices and hallways, and more electronic distribution of documents rather than hard-copy dissemination. The use of CommDocs, which is a series of secure intranet sites used by committees, is just one example of this type of electronic distribution of documents.

The requirements for printing were reviewed and from 1 July 2009 the members' in-house printing allowance ceased. The feedback from the members' survey can be read as reinforcing the department's decision to discontinue this allowance. The percentage of members either extremely or highly satisfied with this service fell from 55 per cent in 2008 to 31 per cent in 2009. Members indicated that the service was too basic and restricted, with limited choice. Twenty-six per cent of members said that the service was not applicable to them so it was not used (up from 9 per cent in 2008).

MESSENGER SERVICES

During 2008–09, the Serjeant-at-Arms' Office continued to provide messenger services to the standards specified in its service charter. The office received no complaints, either formally or through the feedback process identified in the charter.

Messengerial staff numbers remain the same; however, due to natural attrition, four new staff members were appointed.

PARLIAMENTARY ASSISTANTS PROGRAM

The department continued its program of recruiting university students to work as parliamentary assistants alongside the messengerial attendants. This is the tenth year of the parliamentary assistants program, which has elements of employment, educational and outreach programs. It is managed through the Serjeant-at-Arms' Office. Parliamentary assistants perform the duties of messengerial attendants for an average of ten hours per week; rosters are planned around student commitments and work requirements of the Chamber and the department.

As in previous years, four experienced parliamentary assistants applied to become senior parliamentary assistants, and four new parliamentary assistants were appointed. The new students appointed were from metropolitan and country New South Wales and the Australian Capital Territory.

MANAGEMENT AND ADMINISTRATION

Members' salaries and services

All processing of members' salaries and entitlements by the People Strategies Office was in accordance with legislation and administrative decisions. In the 2009 members' survey, 39 per cent of members were extremely or highly satisfied (55 per cent in the 2008 survey) and, in total, 83 per cent were satisfied with services in relation to their base salary, electorate allowances and deductions (96 per cent in the 2008 survey). The detailed comments provided by members in the survey indicated that they had some difficulty distinguishing between the services provided to members by the department and those provided by the Department of Finance and Deregulation. At least some of the decrease in the level of satisfaction reflected concerns about services provided by the Department of Finance and Deregulation.

Annual expenditure on members' salaries and other entitlements was $26.802 million during 2008–09, an increase over the $25.59 million spent last year. All performance targets were met during the year, with all salary variations completed when required and with 99 per cent accuracy. The cost per transaction rose slightly from $6.15 to $6.46.

The office processed an increase to members' electorate allowances during the year, with effect from 1 May 2009. The Remuneration Tribunal's Determination 2009/04 increased the allowance to $32,000 for members with an electorate of less than 2,000 square kilometres, $36,000 for members with an electorate between 2,000 square kilometres and 4,999 square kilometres, and $46,000 for members with an electorate of 5,000 square kilometres or more.

On 11 May 2009, the department began providing a counselling service for members through an external provider. The service is provided as an adjunct to the counselling service provided to departmental employees.

Staff of holders of public office

Following a request from the Prime Minister to the Speaker, the responsibility for administering the salary payments and conditions of service for certain staff of the Speaker and Deputy Speaker was transferred to the Department of Finance and Deregulation from 1 July 2008.

IMPROVING PERFORMANCE

The department has commented in earlier reports on its evolving relationship with the Department of Parliamentary Services and in particular its concern that the department be made aware of and have the opportunity to be involved in Department of Parliamentary Services activities that affect members and the department.

The department had raised concerns with the Department of Parliamentary Services about the process for approval of the major building and information technology projects it conducted that had the potential to affect members, the building and the department. Previously, there had been insufficient involvement of the department in the approval process. A Project Assessment Committee (PAC) was established in January 2008 to approve major projects funded by the Department of Parliamentary Services and to prioritise the projects. The PAC is chaired by the deputy secretary of the Department of Parliamentary Services, and the department is represented by the Serjeant-at-Arms. The establishment of the PAC has significantly improved the involvement of the department in the project approval process. The PAC recently developed a revised approval process for minor works, which will be implemented from 1 July 2009. This process will be assessed quarterly by the Senior Management Coordination Group (SMCG), which coordinates corporate and related matters among the three parliamentary departments (see page 50 for further information on the SMCG).

The process to involve the department in the oversight of the implementation of projects also has improved significantly. The Department of Parliamentary Services uses a PRINCE2 project methodology for the implementation of projects. The department invariably is now involved in the boards overseeing those projects in which the department has a strong interest. The department also is involved in project implementation at other levels, helping to ensure that projects achieve the objectives the department wishes.

OUTLOOK

The outlook for the output group is affected by the constraint on financial resources that will face the department generally from 2009–10 onwards. Examination has commenced of expenditure reductions that will involve the achievement both of efficiencies and of reductions in services.

MANAGEMENT AND ACCOUNTABILITY

- Corporate governance
- External scrutiny
- Management of people
- Management of financial resources
- Ecologically sustainable development and environmental reporting
- Outlook

CORPORATE GOVERNANCE

The Speaker of the House of Representatives is responsible to the Parliament for the department. The Clerk of the House of Representatives, who is responsible for managing the department, reports to the Speaker. Key elements of the department's corporate governance framework are outlined below.

LEGISLATIVE STRUCTURES

The department's operations are governed by the Parliamentary Service Act 1999 and the Financial Management and Accountability Act 1997, and are subject to provisions of the Workplace Relations Act 1996 and other legislation. Those Acts set out the responsibilities of the Clerk for the management of the department.

ETHICAL STANDARDS

The Parliamentary Service Values and Code of Conduct set out in the Parliamentary Service Act 1999 provide a framework for the department's ethical conduct.

The department actively promotes sound ethical behaviour. All staff new to the department receive a briefing on what it means to work in a values-based environment and how ethical standards apply to their day-to-day work.

SENIOR MANAGEMENT

Senior management of the department consists of the Executive and managers at the Executive Band 2 level. The Executive comprises the Clerk, the Deputy Clerk and three Senior Executive Service Band 1 staff—the Clerk Assistant (Committees), the Clerk Assistant (Table) and the Serjeant-at-Arms—each of whom has management responsibility for one or two of the five output groups (see Figure 2 on page 8). During the year, the Executive met every five weeks to discuss and decide on a wide range of departmental management issues.

SENIOR MANAGEMENT COORDINATION GROUP

The Senior Management Coordination Group (SMCG), whose role is to coordinate corporate and related matters among the three parliamentary departments, comprises the heads of corporate services of the departments. The department is represented by the Serjeant-at-Arms. The position of chair of the SMCG rotates annually among the three members. The Serjeant-at-Arms is chairing the SMCG in 2009.

During the year, the SMCG met six times. Among the issues considered were:

- ▶ workplace relations
- ▶ building projects
- ▶ information technology and telecommunications, and
- ▶ common purchasing arrangements.

The SMCG established a working group, with representatives from the three parliamentary departments, to identify and review the potential for implementing common services arrangements shared by all three parliamentary departments. This work flowed from a recommendation made by the Parliamentary Service Commissioner in 2008, as part of a review of the implementation of an earlier report on parliamentary administration prepared by the previous Parliamentary Service Commissioner (Podger Review 2002). The working group's report will be considered by the departments in 2009–10.

MANAGEMENT COMMITTEES

Audit Committee

The department's Audit Committee comprises the Clerk Assistant (Committees), the Clerk Assistant (Table), the Serjeant-at-Arms and an independent member (currently Mr David Toll). The committee, chaired by the Clerk Assistant (Table), met four times during the year.

The department's contracted internal auditor is KPMG. During the year the committee endorsed reports of the following internal audits and reviews:

- ▶ data matching and automation capabilities report—Table Office database and Federal Register of Legislative Instruments
- ▶ protection of information
- ▶ IT environment key control framework review
- ▶ management of parliamentarians' official passports and visas
- ▶ performance information
- ▶ financial management and accountability framework compliance
- ▶ business risk management plan.

Internal audit fieldwork was also undertaken in relation to an assessment of fraud risk and development of a fraud control plan.

These audits identified a number of minor matters, and implementation of recommendations is being monitored by the Audit Committee. During the year the department reviewed its Chief Executive Instructions, updating them for legislative and policy changes, and also reviewed its financial delegations. The ANAO audited the department's financial statements, and provided an unqualified audit report. Only one minor procedural issue was identified for action.

Consistent with the internal audit charter, the internal auditor provided an annual report on internal controls. The report contained generally favourable overarching observations on the status of the department's control environment. The committee approved strategic and annual internal audit plans during the year.

Consultative Committee

The Consultative Committee, which is chaired by the Deputy Clerk, continued to be an important mechanism for communicating and consulting with staff on workplace issues. The committee's membership consists of:

- ▶ two union-nominated representatives
- ▶ two elected staff representatives, and
- ▶ four departmental representatives.

Routine matters discussed at the meetings included monitoring of the certified agreement, recruitment policy, general employment matters and reports from other committees. The committee met six times during 2008–09. Discussions covered a further range of matters including issues relating to the certified agreement, the new childcare facilities in Parliament House, and the rostering arrangements for deputy clerks.

PLANNING AND EVALUATION

More than seventy-five staff attended the department's annual planning workshop on 3 March 2009. The Clerk presented staff with his annual address, 'The Year Ahead', which outlined the themes underpinning the Clerk's leadership of the department and the department's general direction and the challenges it faces. The department looked to the future as the basis of the planning day this year. Two specific topics were selected as priority areas for discussion:

- ▶ whether to proceed to seek a post-recognition assessment against the Investors in People standard or to move to another approach, and
- ▶ the Department of the House of Representatives in 2020.

The planning workshops generated discussion, ideas and recommendations:

- ▶ On the first topic, it was agreed that the planning workshop had been a good opportunity to take stock, especially as the department had not done so in this context for three years. There was clear value in receiving feedback via an external 'audit' process, from an objective perspective. It was considered that the department should seek a post-recognition assessment before considering another approach. (The results of the post-recognition assessment against the Investors in People standard are covered on page 56.)

- ▶ The second discussion used a strengths, weaknesses, opportunities and threats analysis to gauge the issues facing the department in 2020. The information from this discussion assisted in a risk management workshop conducted by KPMG in March 2009.

Corporate plan

The Corporate Plan 2007–10 continued to be implemented this year. The priorities during the period of the corporate plan are closely linked with:

- ▶ improving our ability to serve our clients
- ▶ developing our people
- ▶ sustaining our capability, and
- ▶ maintaining strong relationships within the department, the Parliament and beyond.

Business plan

The department's business plan for 2008–09 was issued in July 2008. Through the weekly senior management meeting and the six-monthly reporting meetings, senior managers were able to report that a very high level of achievement had been reached against the business plan.

Following a review by KPMG of performance indicators, some minor amendments to indicators were made in the business plan. Internal and external reporting indicators were also revised.

MEMBERS' SURVEY

The department receives periodic and ongoing feedback from members to gauge the effectiveness of its service provision.

In May and June 2009, the 2009 members' survey was conducted. This was the fifth survey, and the same questions were asked as in previous years.

As in previous years, the department surveyed a random sample of thirty members, twenty-three of whom responded (twenty-two participated last year). All participants were asked whether they were satisfied with the services and support they received from the department. Details of the survey findings are at Appendix 12.

ACCOUNTABILITY MECHANISMS

The department's main external accountability mechanisms are the Portfolio Budget Statements and the annual report, which is prepared pursuant to section 65 of the Parliamentary Service Act 1999. The annual report for 2007–08 assessed performance against the targets set out in the Portfolio Budget Statements 2007–08 and presented the financial statements of the department.

Copies of the department's annual report and Portfolio Budget Statements were provided to all members and published on the department's website.

RISK MANAGEMENT AND FRAUD CONTROL

In accordance with the department's risk management policy, the department's risk management plan was reviewed during the year. The policy requires an overall risk assessment process to be undertaken each two years. The department's internal auditor, KPMG, facilitated a workshop with the Executive and Executive Band 2 level staff in March 2009. The final risk management plan was endorsed by the Audit Committee in May 2009.

During the year, the department, with the assistance of KPMG, reviewed its existing fraud risk assessment and control plans. The audit fieldwork was completed by year end.

New staff were informed of their financial management responsibilities and the department's fraud risk assessment and control plan in the regular induction programs. There were no losses of public money or property, and no instances of fraud, identified during the year.

As required under the Commonwealth Fraud Control Guidelines, the Clerk of the House of Representatives hereby certifies that the department has complied with the guidelines.

SERVICE CHARTERS

The department's service charters for members and the community continued to provide the basis for the standards of service that members and the public can expect from the department. The service charter for members is included in the handbook provided to members at the start of the Parliament.

In 2006, the department established a central complaints register. Staff are required to record any complaints received in relation to services provided by the department or others, the action (and if necessary further action) taken in response, and the status of the matter (resolved or in progress). There were no recorded complaints during 2008–09.

SOCIAL JUSTICE AND EQUITY IMPACTS

The department was established to support the House of Representatives rather than to deliver services directly to the public. Accordingly, contributing towards achieving social justice within the community, in the main, is not a direct responsibility of the department. However, the department meets social justice needs indirectly through the work of the House of Representatives itself, its members and its committees. Our service charter for the community reflects our commitment to assisting everyone who visits the House or wants to know more about or contribute to the work of the Australian Parliament.

PURCHASER–PROVIDER ARRANGEMENTS

The department does not have arrangements in place that involve it buying or selling services from or to an Australian government agency.

The department receives certain building, information technology and communication services from the Department of Parliamentary Services and audit services from the Australian National Audit Office. These services are accounted for in the department's financial statements as resources received free of charge.

EXTERNAL SCRUTINY

The department's operations are primarily administrative and are therefore not usually subjected to formal external scrutiny.

JUDICIAL AND ADMINISTRATIVE DECISIONS

No judicial decisions or decisions in administrative tribunals during 2008–09 had, or are anticipated to have, a significant impact on the operation of the department.

REPORTS BY THE AUDITOR-GENERAL, A PARLIAMENTARY COMMITTEE OR THE COMMONWEALTH OMBUDSMAN

Findings of the ANAO in relation to its audit of the department's annual financial statements in 2008 are discussed under 'Audit Committee' (page 50).

During the year, the ANAO undertook a performance audit and tabled a report titled Online availability of Government Entities' Documents Tabled in the Australian Parliament. As part of the audit, the ANAO reviewed the online publishing practices of the department and four other agencies. The ANAO found that each of the agencies audited had sound online publishing practices. The ANAO suggested, as an option to improve online availability, that a parliamentary department host a central digital repository for certain tabled documents. The department will confer with the other parliamentary departments on this matter in the coming year.

During 2008–09, as in previous years, the department contributed to inquiries by the House Standing Committee on Procedure. The Clerk made one submission to the procedure committee this financial year (on the conduct of business inquiry) and appeared with the Deputy Clerk before the committee on one occasion for the same inquiry.

The Clerk also made a submission to and appeared with another officer before the Standing Committee on Petitions (on the inquiry into electronic petitioning). The department supported the introduction of electronic petitioning for the House. It supported a website-based model but on the basis that it be fully funded. Introduction was supported on a trial basis, perhaps for two years.

In addition, the Clerk made a submission to and appeared with other officers before the Joint Committee of Public Accounts and Audit (on the inquiry into the effects of the ongoing efficiency dividend on smaller public sector agencies). The committee reported in December 2008 and recommended:

- ▶ the establishment of a parliamentary commission co-chaired by the Speaker of the House and the President of the Senate and comprising elected representatives to recommend funding levels for the parliamentary departments in each Budget, and
- ▶ the exemption of the first $50 million of all agencies' appropriations from the efficiency dividend (which would include the department).

The government has not yet responded to the report.

No investigations by the Commonwealth Ombudsman in 2008–09 involved the department.

FREEDOM OF INFORMATION

Although the department is not considered to be a department or agency for the purposes of the Freedom of Information Act 1982, we comply with the intent of the Act in relation to the release of administrative information. No freedom of information requests were received during the year.

We provide information about the department's structure on the Parliament of Australia website and in publications such as the annual report. We also widely disseminate information on the ways in which members of the public can interact with the work of the House and its committees.

PRIVACY

While the department is not an agency to which the Privacy Act 1988 applies, the department is committed to abide by the principles of the legislation in its dealing with employees, including handling employees' records.

INVESTORS IN PEOPLE

The department holds accreditation against the Investors in People standard, an international quality standard that sets a level of good practice and a basis for continuous improvement of a department's or agency's performance through people.

A post-recognition assessment was conducted on 6 and 7 May 2009 by an Investors in People Australia assessor. The department was assessed against the Investors in People standard along with evidence of continuous improvement.

The department was assessed as having met the standard to a high degree. Some strengths that were identified were the department's learning culture, its well-developed plans cascading down from the corporate plan, and its well-defined requirements of leaders.

Some areas for continuous improvement were identified, including:

- ▶ the need to develop a wider management team including staff at the Executive Band 2 level
- ▶ increased and more timely communication about the process for the appointment of a new Clerk and the review of budget issues, and
- ▶ the need to capture and evaluate the development undertaken by staff.

COMMONWEALTH DISABILITY STRATEGY

All of the department's employment policies continued to comply with the requirements of the Disability Discrimination Act 1992.

The department's former certified agreement, the employee collective agreement and all Australian Workplace Agreements in place during 2008–09 contained the same clauses to allow staff with disabilities to lodge a complaint or grievance about any matter affecting their employment. During the year, there were no complaints or grievances about employment practices from staff with disabilities.

The department made recruitment information available to potential job applicants in electronic and non-electronic formats that are accessible to people with disabilities, as defined in the Act. No staff were recruited who required the department to make 'reasonable adjustments' to the workplace or work practices to accommodate additional needs caused by a disability.

STAFF SURVEY

In June 2009, the department conducted its fifth annual staff survey, the 2009 Survey Feedback Action. The survey, derived from a benchmarking exercise conducted in July 2004, incorporated the features of previous separate surveys, particularly the previous staff survey and leadership questionnaire, completed in 2003.

As in previous years, most staff participated in the survey. The survey measures the quality of the department's leadership, the satisfaction of staff with pay and conditions of service, and the strengths of the department. The results are taken into account in the department's ongoing development of its strategy for attracting and retaining staff.

The department has established a number of internal benchmarks based on the results of the survey. These benchmarks, or index scores, correspond to the total percentages of staff selecting 'strongly agreed' and 'agreed' in response to specific sets of questions.

- ▶ The 'core elements' satisfaction index measures the extent to which the department provides the core elements needed to attract, focus and keep the most talented staff—82 per cent in 2009 (81 per cent in 2008) and an average of 78 per cent over the five annual surveys.

- ▶ The 'leadership' satisfaction index measures the level of satisfaction of staff with their managers, as measured against the department's leadership statement—85 per cent in 2009 (87 per cent in 2008) and an average of 82 per cent over the five annual surveys.
- ▶ The 'benefits' satisfaction index measures the level of staff satisfaction with pay and working conditions—86 per cent in 2009 (77 per cent in 2008) and an average of 78 per cent over the five annual surveys.

Figure 6 shows the results over the five years of the survey (2005 to 2009) for the 'strongly agree' and 'agree' ratings of the 'leadership' satisfaction index.

PEOPLE STRATEGIES PLANNING

The department's annual people strategies plan sets in place a framework for achieving corporate outcomes through departmental staff. An outline of the ongoing people strategies framework, which is central to the annual plan, is shown at Figure 7.

PEOPLE STRATEGY 1: PEOPLE FORECASTING

Workforce planning

At a meeting in July 2008, the Executive considered the staffing profile. It was recognised that, with the number of senior staff who are approaching retirement age, there may be opportunities for staff to be promoted more on the basis of their potential than on the basis of their experience. This will result in a slightly higher risk to the department as these staff will face a steep learning curve and it may be some time before they are able to work at full capacity. The Executive considered that this risk was manageable.

It was agreed that the department's emphasis on leadership development and continuation of other professional development for staff feeding into more senior levels was of high importance in mitigating the risks associated with the loss of senior staff.

Organisational reviews

The department conducts organisational reviews as required to ensure that workload is matched with the number of staff required to undertake the work in all areas, and that the classification levels or work value requirements of individual jobs are appropriate to the work being carried out.

Stuart Burgess of Investors in People Australia presents the post-recognition certificate to Bernard Wright, Deputy Clerk, on 29 May 2009.

PEOPLE STRATEGY 2: FINDING AND RETAINING THE RIGHT PEOPLE

Recruitment of staff

The department advertised to fill sixteen ongoing vacancies during 2008–09 (fifteen in 2007–08), of which twelve were filled by internal applicants. Of the four external successful applicants, three were women (in 2007–08, seven of the eleven successful external applicants were women).

Selection advisory committees continued to explore the use of additional exercises to enhance the selection process.

Retention of staff

A total of thirteen ongoing and fifteen non-ongoing staff left the department in 2008–09—a turnover rate of 9.6 per cent of ongoing staff. This compares with 10.1 per cent in 2007–08. Appendix 11 includes details of separations.

Exit interviews with staff leaving the department continued to be conducted by Senior Executive Service managers. Three interviews were conducted during the year; the main reasons given for leaving were to pursue a change in career, retirement or promotion.

Graduate placement program

The Department of the Senate joined with the department in its graduate placement program for 2009. The program involves three-month placements of people from the graduate recruitment programs of Australian Government agencies. An objective of this program is to promote the work of the Parliament to agencies and the staff of those agencies.

The program continued to draw a high level of interest from individual graduates and a range of agencies. We placed four graduates on three-month placements in 2008–09.

Feedback from graduates has confirmed that the program is very successful, that they would recommend it to other graduates and that the objectives of the placements have been achieved.

Administrative traineeships

The purpose of an administrative traineeship is to provide vocational training consistent with the needs of the department and general skills appropriate to the workforce, and to enhance the skill levels and future employment prospects of trainees.

Two traineeship vacancies were advertised in January 2009 and the successful applicants were employed from March 2009. The trainees will rotate through three offices in the department while undertaking vocational training.

Alumni

The department has formed an alumni association of former staff. In 2007, former staff employed by the department were contacted and invited to indicate whether they wanted to be part of the Alumni and whether they wished to serve as a board member.

On 20 November 2008, the annual general meeting of the association was held; twenty-five members of the association attended. At the meeting, the two co-chairs were re-elected and the membership of the Alumni board was increased by self-nomination of attendees.

The board has met twice in 2009. A reception is planned for 1 July 2009 to give members of the Alumni and staff of the department an opportunity to meet socially.

PEOPLE STRATEGY 3: ENHANCING SKILLS AND POTENTIAL

Training and development

Table 9 compares the department's training and development expenditure as a percentage of expenditure on salaries in 2007–08 and 2008–09. It also shows the average number of person-days spent on training and average staffing level in both years. The average number of training days for staff increased from 2.7 days to 5.0 days of off-the-job training per person per year. The increase may have reflected the stage of the parliamentary cycle and the continuation of knowledge-sharing briefings and workshops being conducted by the department.

Table 10 compares the average attendance of staff at training courses in 2007–08 and 2008–09. It also shows the average staffing level and total number of training days attended in 2007–08 for each classification.

Leadership development

During 2008–09, there has been a continued emphasis on developing leaders at the classification levels of Parliamentary Service Level 6 and Executive Band 1. In December 2008, fifteen staff completed a program conducted for the department by the Centre for Public Management. The program comprised six sessions on leadership concepts over several months. The program was rated highly by participants and the second course, with thirteen participants, commenced in May 2009.

Studybank

Twenty staff participated in the department's Studybank program during the year (compared with 28 staff in 2007–08). Collectively, they received financial assistance of $28,085 (compared with $25,499 in 2007–08), along with some study leave on full pay.

Security-awareness training

As part of their induction program, all staff are required to undertake an online security-awareness training program provided by the Protective Security Coordination Branch of the Attorney-General's Department.

PEOPLE STRATEGY 4: RECOGNISING AND REWARDING PERFORMANCE

Performance assessment processes

The department has a policy of carrying out universal work performance assessment and feedback against measurable standards on a yearly basis. This contributes to:

- ▶ a stronger performance culture in the department
- ▶ commitment to, and a shared understanding of, business directions being pursued at the team and individual level
- ▶ better communication between staff and their supervisors
- ▶ the progression of individuals through classification levels and bands

- ▶ the identification of the development needs of staff to help them improve their work performance, and
- ▶ the management of the unsatisfactory work performance process.

All eligible staff participated in the annual work performance assessment cycle, completed on 31 October 2008. The cycle consists of setting individual work objectives, conducting performance assessments, preparing individual development plans and providing feedback to supervisors.

The individual development plans are compiled and the development requirements of staff are reviewed. These then form the basis for the training program for the next calendar year.

PEOPLE STRATEGY 5: PROVIDING A QUALITY WORKING ENVIRONMENT

Employee collective agreement

The Department of the House of Representatives Employee Collective Agreement 2009–10 covers all staff except Senior Executive Service staff, who are covered by a determination made under subsection 24(1) of the Parliamentary Service Act 1999.

The agreement was negotiated between the Clerk and the department in 2008. In August 2008, staff voted on whether the agreement would be a union or employee collective agreement. A majority voted for an employee collective agreement.

A staff bargaining group was formed to facilitate the agreement-making process. All workgroups were briefed on the agreement-making process and received further briefings after the first draft of the agreement was issued. Discussions were also held with staff during focus group meetings and a meeting of all staff. All staff were able to vote on the agreement in December 2008; 91.7 per cent of staff voted in favour of the agreement.

The agreement was lodged with and approved by the Workplace Authority in December 2008. The first pay rise was paid on 1 January 2009. Staff salary scales under the agreement are summarised in Table 11.

Australian Workplace Agreements

From January 2009, there were no Australian Workplace Agreements in place in the department.

Productivity

The department's collective agreement has as its objective a business model that ties together its people, the service it provides and its productivity. Productivity improvement is concerned with increasing flexibility, achieving continuous improvements and enhancing efficiency and effectiveness of advice and services. The department has emphasised the flexible use of its staff and the implementation of new systems to increase the efficiency and effectiveness of its advice and services to clients.

Table 11 Salary scales of staff covered by the certified agreement, at 1 January 2009

| Classification                | Salary scale      |
|-------------------------------|-------------------|
| Executive Band 2              | $109,463–115,986 |
| Executive Band 1              | $84,575–94,336   |
| Parliamentary Service Level 6 | $68,158–77,353   |
| Parliamentary Service Level 5 | $63,000–66,663   |
| Parliamentary Service Level 4 | $55,697–60,259   |
| Parliamentary Service Level 3 | $50,389–54,130   |
| Parliamentary Service Level 2 | $44,781–48,896   |
| Parliamentary Service Level 1 | $39,586–43,314   |

Salaries expenditure

In 2008–09, salaries and allowances totalled $15.7 million ($14.0 million in 2007–08).

Workplace diversity

The department's workplace diversity program aligns our workplace diversity strategies and actions with the Parliamentary Service Values. The program builds on the department's existing commitment to embed the Parliamentary Service Values into our business.

Training in the prevention of discrimination, bullying and harassment was provided to all new staff. Additional training for new harassment contact officers was conducted for nominated staff and extended to staff undertaking staff and union representative roles.

Occupational health and safety

Draft health and safety management arrangements were forwarded to staff for consultation in August 2008. The arrangements, including a revised policy, were finalised in September 2008.

During the year, no dangerous occurrences required notification under section 68 of the Occupational Health and Safety Act 1991.

No investigations were carried out and no directions or notices were received by the department in relation to sections 29, 45, 46 or 47 of the Act.

PURCHASING

The department did not undertake any significant procurement during 2008–09. All purchasing activity in 2008–09 was conducted within financial delegation limits. New Commonwealth Government Procurement Guidelines were released in December 2008. The department has complied with core purchasing policies and principles as articulated in the guidelines.

ASSETS MANAGEMENT

The department’s assets management strategy focuses on efficient asset utilisation and allows the department to identify underperforming assets. The department operates within a controlled environment at Parliament House, and the risk of loss for the majority of assets is minimal.

A stocktake of computing equipment, plant and portable and attractive assets was completed during 2008–09. The department completed a desk-top review of the furniture and fittings asset class. Impairment testing was undertaken during the stocktake. There were no material impairment adjustments required.

As a result of changes to the Finance Minister’s Orders in relation to heritage and cultural items, a number of items that were previously classified as heritage and cultural were transferred to the furniture and fittings asset class. These items are currently in use and no longer satisfy the definition of heritage and cultural.

The Yirrkala bark petitions were recognised as assets for the first time in 2008–09 and have been added to the list of heritage and cultural items.

CONSULTANTS

Consultancy services procured in 2008–09 at a value in excess of $10,000 are shown in Table 13.

COMPETITIVE TENDERING AND CONTRACTING

The department’s contracting activities have been disclosed as required through the government’s AusTender system. There were no instances during 2008–09 where contracts were let that did not provide for the Auditor-General to have access to the contractor’s premises, or where the Chief Executive exempted a contract from being published on AusTender.

The department did not engage in any competitive tendering during 2008–09.

ADVERTISING AND MARKET RESEARCH

Section 311A of the Commonwealth Electoral Act 1918 requires the department to detail amounts paid to advertising agencies, market research organisations, polling organisations, direct mail organisations and media advertising organisations during the financial year.

The department's total advertising expenditure for 2008–09 was $204,765, an increase from the previous year's total ($157,421). This reflects the increased activity levels in line with the stage of the parliamentary cycle.

The expenditure was as follows:

- ▶ $168,233 for publicising the work of the House and committees ($102,632 in 2007–08)
- ▶ $21,387 for advertising in relation to inquiries being undertaken by parliamentary committees ($39,360 in 2007–08)
- ▶ $11,728 for publicising recruitment advertising ($12,867 in 2007–08)
- ▶ $3,415 paid to the Attorney-General's Department for chamber-related gazettals ($2,562 in 2007–08).

The majority of advertising for 2008–09 was placed with hma Blaze.

GRANT PROGRAMS

The department did not administer any grant programs in 2008–09. As previously mentioned, training, equipment and project support were provided for some Pacific Island parliaments (pages 38–9).

ECOLOGICALLY SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT AND ENVIRONMENTAL REPORTING

Although the department is not subject to the provisions of the Environment Protection and Biodiversity Conservation Act 1999, it has adopted policies and practices in energy and water use and recycling that contribute to sound environmental performance.

Most aspects of the parliament's environmental management are coordinated by the Department of Parliamentary Services, which is responsible for managing the Parliament House building and grounds. The department participates in meetings of the parliament-wide Environment Management Committee, which was re-established by the Department of Parliamentary Services during the year. The committee provides a useful forum for progressing environmental initiatives and improving environmental performance at Parliament House.

The Department of Parliamentary Services prepares an annual report on behalf of all parliamentary departments, in accordance with section 516A of the Environment Protection and Biodiversity Conservation Act 1999. The report is structured using core performance indicators of the Global Reporting Initiative, and is included in the Department of Parliamentary Services' annual report and is available from the Parliament of Australia website. The report includes information on specific measures taken by the Department of the House of Representatives.

OUTLOOK

The overall business outlook for the department is one of constrained finances. The significant tightening of the department's budgetary position was foreshadowed in last year's report. As highlighted in the Clerk's review in this report, it is now the major issue facing the department.

Another issue facing the department is the upcoming retirement of the Clerk of the House, Mr Ian Harris AO, in December 2009, after some 12 years as Clerk. The Parliamentary Service Act 1999 limits the term of the Clerk to a ten-year period, from the commencement of the Act. At year end, the recruitment process for the appointment of a new Clerk commenced. The appointment of a new Clerk will bring new perspectives and will likely involve some changes within the department.

In 2009–10, the department will be working with the other parliamentary departments on a number of projects and initiatives, as mentioned elsewhere in the report.

In particular, the three departments will consider the report of the working group on shared services referred to at page 50. The departments will need to work collaboratively to maximise the potential for benefits and minimise the potential costs from any implementation of such services. It is likely that there will be scope for some modest efficiency gains from such implementation.

In 2009–10, the department will address recommendations of the Investors in People post-recognition assessment, including the need to develop a wider management team with greater involvement of staff at the Executive Band 2 level. The department will also continue to emphasise leadership and parliamentary skills development.

a In 2008-09, one respondent reported each of these items as 'not applicable'. That nil response has not been included in the calculation of percentages.

b This figure represents the full-year equivalent for House and Joint Committees supported by Output Group 3 only. The full-year equivalent is calculated by the number of months an inquiry was active during the financial year. For example, a report tabled on 21 September 2008 means the inquiry was active for three months of the financial year—3/12 or 0.25.

12 MEMBERS' SURVEY 2009

A members' survey was carried out by the Department of the House of Representatives in May–June 2009 to identify levels of satisfaction with services provided by the department. This was the seventh survey conducted and the questions were identical to those in last year's survey. The information gathered is required for internal and external reporting purposes and as a benchmark for service provision.

Thirty members were selected randomly for survey and interview. Members were assured of confidentiality in the survey. A total of twenty-three respondents completed the surveys (77 per cent) and ten were available for interview. Over the seven years the survey has been undertaken twenty-three responses is the highest response rate.

All participants in the survey were asked if they were satisfied overall with the services they received from the department. Members were unanimously satisfied with the department's support in helping them fulfil their parliamentary duties. The responses to the other questions asked in the survey and during interviews are contained in the table below (which also shows the responses from the 2008 survey, in brackets). The result is an overwhelming endorsement of the quality of service provided by the department, with a 96 per cent satisfaction rate overall. The satisfaction rate last year was 97 per cent.

The participants in the survey were also asked a question about their satisfaction level with the legislative drafting support they receive. Ten of the members responding stated they were satisfied with the service, compared with nine last year. The remainder stated they had not used the service.

In response to a question about areas for change, there was a suggestion that the amount of paper-based information provided be decreased and also that further training be provided to members.

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT

To the Speaker of the House of Representatives

Scope

I have audited the accompanying financial statements of the Department of the House of Representatives for the year ended 30 June 2009, which comprise: a Statement by the Clerk of the House and Chief Financial Officer; Income Statement; Balance Sheet; Statement of Changes in Equity; Cash Flow Statement; Schedule of Commitments; and Notes to and Forming part of the Financial Statements, including a Summary of Significant Accounting Policies.

The Responsibility of the Clerk of the House of Representatives for the Financial Statements

The Clerk of the House is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of the financial statements in accordance with the Finance Minister's Orders made under the Financial Management and Accountability Act 1997, including the Australian Accounting Standards (which include the Australian Accounting Interpretations). This responsibility includes establishing and maintaining internal controls relevant to the preparation and fair presentation of the financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error; selecting and applying appropriate accounting policies; and making accounting estimates that are reasonable in the circumstances.

Auditor's Responsibility

My responsibility is to express an opinion on the financial statements based on my audit. I have conducted my audit in accordance with the Australian National Audit Office Auditing Standards, which incorporate the Australian Auditing Standards. These auditing standards require that I comply with relevant ethical requirements relating to audit engagements and plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance whether the financial statements are free from material misstatement.

An audit involves performing procedures to obtain audit evidence about the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. The procedures selected depend on the auditor's judgement, including the assessment of the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements, whether due to fraud or error. In making those risk assessments, the auditor considers internal control relevant to the Department of the House of Representatives' preparation and fair presentation of the financial statements in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the Department of the House of Representatives' internal control. An audit also includes evaluating the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of accounting estimates made by the Clerk of the House, as well as evaluating the overall presentation of the financial statements.

I believe that the audit evidence I have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for my audit opinion.

Independence

In conducting the audit, I have followed the independence requirements of the Australian National Audit Office, which incorporate the requirements of the Australian accounting profession.

Auditor's Opinion

In my opinion, the financial statements of the Department of the House of Representatives:

- (a) have been prepared in accordance with the Finance Minister's Orders made under the Financial Management and Accountability Act 1997, including the Australian Accounting Standards; and
- (b) give a true and fair view of the matters required by the Finance Minister's Orders including the Department of the House of Representatives' financial position as at 30 June 2009 and its financial performance and cash flows for the year then ended.

Note 1: Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

1.1 Objectives of the Department of the House of Representatives

The Department of the House of Representatives (the department) is one of three parliamentary departments supporting the Australian Parliament. The department provides services to support the efficient conduct of the House of Representatives, its committees and certain joint committees as well as a range of services for Members in Parliament House.

The department is structured to meet one outcome:

The House of Representatives fulfils its role as a representative and legislative body.

The department's activities contributing to this outcome are classified as either departmental or administered. Departmental activities involve the use of assets, liabilities, revenues and expenses controlled or incurred by the department in its own right. Administered activities involve the management or oversight by the department, on behalf of the Parliament, of items controlled or incurred by the Government.

Departmental activities are identified under five Outputs -

- Chamber and Main Committee
- Community Awareness
- Committee Services
- Interparliamentary Relations
- Members' Services

The continued existence of the department in its present form is dependent on continuing appropriations by Parliament for the department's administration and programs.

1.2 Basis of Preparation of the Financial Report

The Financial Statements and notes are required by section 49 of the Financial Management and Accountability Act 1997 and are a general purpose financial report.

The Financial Statements and notes have been prepared in accordance with:

- Finance Minister's Orders (or FMO) for reporting periods ending on or after 1 July 2008; and
- Australian Accounting Standards and Interpretations issued by the Australian Accounting Standards Board (AASB) that apply for the reporting period.

The financial report has been prepared on an accrual basis and is in accordance with historical cost convention, except for certain assets at fair value. Except where stated, no allowance is made for the effect of changing prices on the results or the financial position.

The financial report is presented in Australian dollars and values are rounded to the nearest thousand dollars unless otherwise specified.

Unless an alternative treatment is specifically required by an accounting standard or the FMO, assets and liabilities are recognised in the Balance Sheet when and only when it is probable that future economic benefits will flow to the Entity or a future sacrifice of economic benefits will be required and the amounts of the assets or liabilities can be reliably measured. However, assets and liabilities arising under agreements equally proportionately unperformed are not recognised unless required by an Accounting Standard. Liabilities and assets that are unrealised are reported in the schedule of commitments and contingencies in Note 10.

Unless alternative treatment is specifically required by an accounting standard, revenues and expenses are recognised in the income statement when and only when the flow, consumption or loss of economic benefits has occurred and can be reliably measured.

1.3 Significant Accounting Judgements and Estimates

No accounting assumptions or estimates have been identified that have a significant risk of causing a material adjustment to carrying amounts of assets and liabilities within the next accounting period.

1.4 Changes in Australian Accounting Standards

Adoption of New Australian Accounting Standard Requirements

No accounting standard has been adopted earlier than the application date as stated in the standard. The following new standards are applicable to the current reporting period:

Financial instrument disclosure

The following new standards, amendments to standards or interpretations for the current financial year have no material financial impact on the department.

AASB 1 First-time Adoption of Australian Equivalents to International Financial Reporting Standards (June 2007)

AASB 7 Financial Instruments Disclosures

AASB 101 Presentation of Financial Statements (Dec 2007)

AASB 116 Property, Plant and Equipment

AASB 137 Provisions, Contingent Liabilities and Contingent Assets

AASB 2007-9 Amendments to Australian Accounting Standards arising from the Review of AASs 27, 29 and 31

AASB 2008-10 Amendments to Australian Accounting Standards - Reclassification of Financial Assets

AASB 2008-12 Amendments to Australian Accounting Standards - Reclassification of Financial Assets - Effective Date and Transition

Interpretation 4 Determining whether an Arrangement contains a Lease

Future Australian Accounting Standard requirements

The following new standards, amendments to standards or interpretations have been issued by the Australian Accounting Standards Board but are effective for future reporting periods. It is estimated that the impact of adopting these pronouncements when effective will have no material financial impact on future reporting periods.

AASB 1 First-time Adoption of Australian Equivalents to International Financial Reporting Standards (May 2009)

AASB 101 Presentation of Financial Statements (Sep 2007)

AASB 123 Borrowing Costs

AASB 2007-8 Amendments to Australian Accounting Standards arising from AASB 101

AASB 2007-10 Further Amendments to Australian Accounting Standards arising from AASB 101

AASB 2008-5 Amendments to AAS arising from the Annual Improvements Project

AASB 2008-6 Further Amendments to Australian Accounting Standards arising from the Annual Improvements Project

AASB 2008-13 Amendments to Australian Accounting Standards arising from AASB Interpretation 17– Distributions of Non-cash Assets to Owners

AASB 2009-1 Amendments to Australian Accounting Standards – Borrowing Costs of Not-for-Profit Public Sector Entities

AASB 2009-2 Amendments to Australian Accounting Standards – Improving Disclosures about Financial Instruments

AASB 2009-4 Amendments to Australian Accounting Standards arising from the Annual Improvements Project

AASB 2009-5 Further Amendments to Australian Accounting Standards arising from the Annual Improvements Project

AASB Interpretation 1 Changes in Existing Decommissioning, Restoration and Similar Liabilities

AASB Interpretation 17 Distributions of Non-cash Assets to Owners

Other

The following standards and interpretations have been issued but are not applicable to the operations of the department.

AASB 1049 Financial Reporting of General Government Sector Financial Reporting

AASB 1049 specifies the reporting requirements for the General Government Sector. The FMO's do not apply to the reporting of the Consolidated Financial Statements of the Australian Government.

1.5 Disclosure of changes in accounting policies

The department is not responsible for preparing the administered schedules and notes relating to the special appropriations from which it draws down various monies to pay for members' remuneration and entitlements. The legislation establishing these appropriations is administered by the Department of Finance and Deregulation and the Department of Education, employment and Workplace Relations and they are responsible for reporting these administered special appropriation items. The department is an agent agency as defined in the FMO's and as such must follow certain requirements set down by those Orders.

These are disclosed at note 15B.

1.6 Revenue

Revenue from Government

Amounts appropriated for departmental outputs appropriations for the year (adjusted for any formal additions and reductions) are recognised as revenue when the department gains control of the appropriation, except for certain amounts that relate to activities that are reciprocal in nature, in which case revenue is recognised only when it has been earned.

Appropriations receivable are recognised at their nominal amounts.

Other Types of Revenue

Revenue from the sale of goods is recognised when:

- The risks and rewards of ownership have been transferred to the buyer;
- The seller retains no managerial involvement nor effective control over the goods;
- The revenue and transaction costs incurred can be reliably measured; and
- It is probable that the economic benefits associated with the transaction will flow to the department.

Revenue from rendering of services is recognised by reference to the stage of completion of contracts at the reporting date. The revenue is recognised when:

- The amount of revenue, stage of completion and transaction costs incurred can be reliably measured; and
- The probable economic benefits with the transaction will flow to the department.

The stage of completion of contracts at the reporting date is determined by reference to the proportion that costs incurred to date bear to the estimated total costs of the transaction.

Receivables for goods and services, which have 30 day terms, are recognised at the nominal amounts due less any provision for bad and doubtful debts. Collect ability of debts is reviewed at balance date. Provisions are made when collect ability of the debt is no longer probable.

1.7 Gains

Other Resources Received Free of Charge

Resources received free of charge are recognised as gains when and only when a fair value can be reliably determined and the services would have been purchased if they had not been donated. Use of those resources is recognised as an expense.

Contributions of assets at no cost of acquisition or for nominal consideration are recognised as gains at their fair value when the asset qualifies for recognition, unless received from another Government Agency or Authority as a consequence of a restructuring of administrative arrangements (Refer to Note 1.8)

Resources received free of charge are recorded as either revenue or gains depending on their nature.

Sale of Assets

Gains from disposal of non-current assets is recognised when control of the asset has passed to the buyer.

1.8 Transactions with the Government as Owner*Equity injections

Amounts appropriated which are designated as 'equity injections' for a year (less any formal reductions) are recognised directly in Contributed Equity in that year.

Restructuring of Administrative Arrangements

Net assets received from or relinquished to another Australian Government Agency or Authority under a restructuring of administrative arrangements are adjusted at their book value directly against Contributed Equity.

Other distributions to owners

The FMOs require that distributions to owners be debited to contributed equity unless in the nature of a dividend.

1.9 Employee Benefits

Liabilities for services rendered by employees are recognised at the reporting date to the extent that they have not been settled.

Liabilities for 'short-term employee benefits' (as defined in AASB 119 Employee Benefits) and termination benefits due within twelve months of balance date are measured at their nominal amounts.

The nominal amount is calculated with regard to the rates expected to be paid on settlement of the liability.

All other employee benefit liabilities are measured at the present value of the estimated future cash outflows to be made in respect of services provided by employees up to the reporting date.

Leave

The liability for employee benefits includes provision for annual leave and long service leave. No provision has been made for sick leave as all sick leave is non-vesting and the average sick leave taken in future years by employees of the department is estimated to be less than the annual entitlement for sick leave.

The leave liabilities are calculated on the basis of employees' remuneration, including the department's employer superannuation contribution rates to the extent that the leave is likely to be taken during service rather than paid out on termination.

The liability for long service leave has been determined by reference to the allowable short-hand method. The estimate of the present value of the liability takes into account attrition rates and pay increases through promotion and inflation.

Separation and Redundancy

Provision is made for separation and redundancy benefit payments. The department recognises a provision for termination when it has developed a detailed formal plan for the terminations and has informed those employees affected that it will carry out the terminations.

Superannuation

Staff of the department are members of the Commonwealth Superannuation Scheme (CSS), the Public Sector Superannuation Scheme (PSS) or the PSS accumulation plan (PSSap).

The CSS and PSS are defined benefit schemes for the Australian Government. The PSSap is a defined contribution scheme.

The liability for defined benefits is recognised in the financial statements of the Australian Government and is settled by the Australian Government in due course. This liability is reported by the Department of Finance and Deregulation as an administered item.

The department makes employer contributions to the employee superannuation scheme at rates determined by an actuary to be sufficient to meet the current cost to the Government of the superannuation entitlements of the department's employees. The department accounts for the contributions as if they were contributions to defined contribution plans.

The liability for superannuation recognised as at 30 June represents outstanding contributions for the final fortnight of the year.

1.10 Leases

A distinction is made between finance leases and operating leases. Finance leases effectively transfer from the lessor to the lessee substantially all the risks and rewards incidental to ownership of leased non-current assets. An operating lease is a lease that is not a finance lease. In operating leases, the lessor effectively retains substantially all such risks and benefits.

Where a non-current asset is acquired by means of a finance lease, the asset is capitalised at either the fair value of the lease property or, if lower, the present value of minimum lease payments at the inception of the contract and a liability is recognised at the same time and for the same amount.

The discount rate used is the interest rate implicit in the lease. Leased assets are amortised over the period of the lease. Lease payments are allocated between the principal component and the interest expense. The department does not currently have any finance leases.

Operating lease payments are expensed on a straight line basis which is representative of the pattern of benefits derived from the leased assets.

1.11 Cash

Cash and cash equivalents includes notes and coins held and any deposits in bank accounts with an original maturity of 3 months or less that are readily convertible to known amounts of cash and subject to insignificant risk of changes in value. Cash is recognised at its nominal amount.

1.12 Financial Assets

The department classifies its financial assets in the following categories:

- financial assets as ‘at fair value through profit or loss’
- ‘held-to-maturity investments’,
- ‘available-for-sale’ financial assets, and
- ‘loans and receivables’.

The classification depends on the nature and purpose of the financial assets and is determined at the time of initial recognition. The department holds only loans and receivable financial assets.

Effective interest method

The effective interest method is a method of calculating the amortised cost of a financial asset and of allocating interest income over the relevant period. The effective interest rate is the rate that exactly discounts estimated future cash receipts through the expected life of the financial asset, or, where appropriate, a shorter period.

Income is recognised on an effective interest rate basis except for financial assets ‘at fair value through profit or loss’.

Financial assets at fair value through profit or loss

Financial assets are classified as financial assets at fair value through profit or loss where the financial assets:

- has been acquired principally for the purpose of selling in the near future;
- is a part of an identified portfolio of financial instruments that the agency manages together and has a recent actual pattern of short-term profit-taking; or
- is a derivative that is not designated and effective as a hedging instrument.

Assets in this category are classified as current assets.

Financial assets at fair value through profit or loss are stated at fair value, with any resultant gain or loss recognised in profit or loss. The net gain or loss recognised in profit or loss incorporates any interest earned on the financial asset.

Available-for-sale financial assets

Available-for-sale financial assets are non-derivatives that are either designated in this category or not classified in any of the other categories. They are included in non-current assets unless management intends to dispose of the asset within 12 months of the balance sheet date.

Available-for-sale financial assets are recorded at fair value. Gains and losses arising from changes in fair value are recognised directly in the reserves (equity) with the exception of impairment losses. Interest is calculated using the effective interest method and foreign exchange gains and losses on monetary assets are recognised directly in profit or loss. Where the asset is disposed of or is determined to be impaired, part or all of the cumulative gain or loss previously recognised in the reserve is included in profit for the period.

Where a reliable fair value can not be established for unlisted investments in equity instruments cost is used. The department has no such instruments.

Held-to-maturity investments

Non-derivative financial assets with fixed or determinable payments and fixed maturity dates that the group has the positive intent and ability to hold to maturity are classified as held-to-maturity investments. Held-to-maturity investments are recorded at amortised cost using the effective interest method less impairment, with revenue recognised on an effective yield basis.

Loans and receivables

Trade receivables, loans and other receivables that have fixed or determinable payments that are not quoted in an active market are classified as ‘loans and receivables’. They are included in current assets, except for maturities greater than 12 months after the balance sheet date. These are classified as non current assets. Loans and receivables are measured at amortised cost using the effective interest method less impairment. Interest is recognised by applying the effective interest rate.

Impairment of financial assets

Financial assets are assessed for impairment at each balance date.

- Financial assets held at amortised cost - If there is objective evidence that an impairment loss has been incurred for loans and receivables or held to maturity investments held at amortised cost, the amount of the loss is measured as the difference between the asset's carrying amount and the present value of estimated future cash flows discounted at the asset's original effective interest rate. The carrying amount is reduced by way of an allowance account. The loss is recognised in the income statement.

1.13 Financial Liabilities

Financial liabilities are classified as either financial liabilities 'at fair value through profit or loss' or other financial liabilities.

Financial liabilities are recognised and derecognised upon 'trade date'.

Financial liabilities at fair value through profit or loss

Financial liabilities at fair value through profit or loss are initially measured at fair value.

Subsequent fair value adjustments are recognised in profit or loss. The net gain or loss recognised in profit or loss incorporates any interest paid on the financial liability.

Other financial liabilities

Other financial liabilities, including borrowings, are initially measured at fair value, net of transaction costs.

Other financial liabilities are subsequently measured at amortised cost using the effective interest method, with interest expense recognised on an effective yield basis.

The effective interest method is a method of calculating the amortised cost of a financial liability and of allocating interest expense over the relevant period. The effective interest rate is the rate that exactly discounts estimated future cash payments through the expected life of the financial liability, or, where appropriate, a shorter period.

Supplier and other payables are recognised at amortised cost. Liabilities are recognised to the extent that the goods or services have been received (and irrespective of having been invoiced).

1.14 Contingent Liabilities and Contingent Assets

Contingent Liabilities and Contingent Assets are not recognised in the Balance Sheet but are reported in the relevant schedules and notes. They may arise from uncertainty as to the existence of a liability or asset, or represent an existing liability or asset in respect of which settlement is not probable or the amount cannot be reliably measured. Remote contingencies are part of this disclosure. Contingent assets are reported when settlement is probable, and contingent liabilities are recognised when settlement is greater than remote.

1.15 Acquisition of Assets

Assets are recorded at cost on acquisition except as stated below. The cost of acquisition includes the fair value of assets transferred in exchange and liabilities undertaken. Financial assets are initially measured at their fair value plus transaction costs where appropriate.

Assets acquired at no cost, or for nominal consideration, are initially recognised as assets and revenues at their fair value at the date of acquisition, unless acquired as a consequence of restructuring of administrative arrangements. In the latter case, assets are initially recognised as contributions by owners at the amounts at which they were recognised in the transferor agency's accounts immediately prior to the restructuring.

1.16 Property, Plant and Equipment

Asset Recognition Threshold

Asset purchases of property, plant and equipment are recognised initially at cost in the Balance Sheet, except for purchases costing less than $2,000, which are expensed in the year of acquisition (other than where they form part of a group of similar items which are significant in total and IT equipment which has a capitalisation threshold of $500).

The initial cost of an asset includes an estimate of the cost of dismantling and removing the item and restoring the site on which it is located.

Grouping

Assets are grouped where a group of like items are purchased at a total cost in excess of $25,000, and an individual item cost of at least $1,000.

Revaluations

Fair values for each class of asset are determined as shown below:

| Asset Class:          | Fair Value Measured at: |
|------------------------------|--------------------------------|
| Property Plant and Equipment | Market Selling Price           |
| Heritage and Cultural Assets | Market Selling Price           |

Following initial recognition at cost, infrastructure plant and equipment are carried at fair value less accumulated depreciation and accumulated impairment losses. Valuations are conducted with sufficient frequency to ensure that the carrying amounts of assets do not differ materially from the assets’ fair values as at the reporting date. The regularity of independent valuations depends upon the volatility of movements in market values for the relevant assets.

Revaluation adjustments are made on a class basis. Any revaluation increment is credited to equity under the heading of asset revaluation reserve except to the extent that it reverses a previous revaluation decrement of the same asset class that was previously recognised through surplus and deficit. Revaluation decrements for a class of assets are recognised directly through surplus and deficit except to the extent that they reverse a previous revaluation increment for that class.

Any accumulated depreciation as at the revaluation date is eliminated against the gross carrying amount of the asset and the asset restated to the revalued amount.

Depreciation

Depreciable infrastructure plant and equipment assets are written-off to their estimated residual values over their estimated useful lives to the department using, in all cases, the straight-line method of depreciation.

Depreciation rates (useful lives), residual values and methods are reviewed at each reporting date and necessary adjustments are recognised in the current, or current and future reporting periods, as appropriate.

Depreciation rates applying to each class of depreciable asset are based on the following useful lives:

|                                     | 2009    | 2008    |
|-------------------------------------|----------------|----------------|
| Plant and equipment                 | 15 years       | 15 years       |
| Computer equipment                  | 2 to 5 years   | 2 to 5 years   |
| Furniture and fittings <sup>1</sup> | 15 to 20 years | 15 to 20 years |
| Office machines and equipment       | 5 to 15 years  | 5 to 15 years  |

<sup>1</sup> Within this asset class there are two items with a useful life of 82 years and two hundred and eleven items with a useful life of 32 years. These items are located within the House of Representatives chamber.

Heritage and cultural assets are not depreciated. The aggregate amount of depreciation allocated for each class of asset during the reporting period is disclosed in note 4C.

Impairment

All assets were assessed for impairment at 30 June 2009. Where indications of impairment exist, the asset's recoverable amount is estimated and an impairment adjustment made if the asset's recoverable amount is less than its carrying amount.

The recoverable amount of an asset is the higher of its fair value less costs to sell and its value in use. Value in use is the present value of the future cash flows expected to be derived from the asset. Where the future economic benefit of an asset is not primarily dependent on the asset's ability to generate future cash flows, and the asset would be replaced if the department were deprived of the asset, its value in use is taken to be its depreciated replacement cost.

1.17 Intangibles

The department's intangibles comprise internally developed and purchased software for internal use. These assets are carried at cost less accumulated amortisation and impairment losses.

Software is amortised on a straight-line basis over its anticipated useful life. The useful lives of the department's software is 3 to 5 years (2007-08: 3 to 5 years).

No indicators of impairment were found for intangible assets.

1.18 Taxation / Competitive Neutrality

The department is exempt from all forms of taxation except fringe benefits tax (FBT) and the goods and services tax (GST).

Revenues, expenses and assets are recognised net of GST:

- except where the amount of GST incurred is not recoverable from the Australian Taxation Office; and
- except for receivables and payables.

Competitive Neutrality

The department does not carry out functions to which competitive neutrality applies.

13B Net income and expense from financial assets

There is no income/expense from the department's financial assets.

13C Net income and expense from financial liabilities

There is no net income/expense from the department's financial liabilities.

13D Fair value of financial instruments

The fair value of the department's financial assets and liabilities equal the carrying amount in the current and preceding financial year.

13E Credit risk

The department is exposed to minimal credit risk as receivables are cash and trade receivables. The maximum exposure to credit risk is the risk that arises from potential default of a debtor. This amount is equal to the total amount of trade receivables (2009: $74,000 and 2008: $73,000). The department has assessed the risk of the default on payment and has allocated Nil in 2009 (2008: $1,000) to an 'allowance for doubtful debts' account.

The department has no significant exposures to any concentrations of credit risk.

All figures for credit risk referred to do not take into account the value of any collateral or other security.

Credit quality of financial instruments not past due or individually determined as impaired.

13F Liquidity risk

The department's financial liabilities are payables. The exposure to liquidity risk is based on the notion that the department will encounter difficulty in meeting its obligations associated with financial liabilities. This is highly unlikely due to appropriation funding and internal policies and procedures put in place to ensure there are appropriate resources to meet its financial obligations.

The following tables illustrates the maturities for financial liabilities

13G Market risk

The department is not exposed to market risk.

Note 14: Expenses Administered on Behalf of Government

The department is not responsible for preparing the administered schedules and notes relating to the special appropriations from which it draws down various monies to pay for members remuneration and entitlements. The legislation establishing these appropriations is administered by the Department of Finance and Deregulation and the Department of Education, Employment and Workplace Relations and they are responsible for reporting these administered special appropriation items. The department is an agent agency as defined in the FMO's and as such must follow certain reporting requirements set down by those Orders. These are disclosed at note 15B.

Departmental and non-operating appropriations do not lapse at financial year end. However, the responsible Minister may decide that part or all of a departmental or non-operating appropriation is not required and request the Finance Minister to reduce that appropriation. The reduction in the appropriation is effected by the Finance Minister's determination and is disallowable by Parliament.
