

Coronial matters

Over the last 5 years, the National Disability Insurance Agency (Agency) has:

- directly assisted in 4 Coronial Inquests where the Agency was an interested party and sought leave to appear in the inquest proceedings. These inquests related to former National Disability Insurance Scheme participants in New South Wales and Victoria.
- responded to approximately 606 requests for information made on behalf of coroners, requesting information to assist coronial investigations.

The above includes requests for information from the Coroners Court of Victoria to assist the coroner to determine if a death occurred 'in custody or care' within the meaning of the Coroners Act 2008 (Victoria) and therefore a mandatory inquest must occur.
