The Government will achieve efficiencies of $1.2 billion over four years through changes to the scoring matrix of the Aged Care Funding Instrument (ACFI) that determines the level of funding paid to aged care providers. The Government will also reduce indexation of the Complex Health Care component of the ACFI by 50 per cent in 2016-17 and establish a $53.3 million transitional assistance fund to support providers.

These changes expand on the refinements made through the 2015-16 MYEFO measure titled Aged Care Provider Funding — revision to the Aged Care Funding Instrument Complex Health Care Domain. This measure is part of the Government's response to the continued higher than expected growth in ACFI expenditure, which has increased by a further $2.5 billion over the forward estimates since the 2015-16 MYEFO.

The savings from this measure will be redirected by the Government to fund Health policy priorities.
