Subject: RE: ABC

Dear Kamahl

Thank you for bringing this matter directly to my attention.

I was deeply concerned on reading the contents of your email. I was advised that you had been sent an apology.

I asked the relevant manager to look into this immediately so that I could come back to you as a matter of urgency.

I understand that separately a member of the ABC reached out to you to advise that we have been informed Mr Adams' apology was sent to the address listed as the contact address on your website. I understand that you have responded, indicating the address on the site is not yours but is of the person who manages the website, and that he advised you that he has not located a copy of the letter.

This is an entirely regrettable situation. I have asked that Mr Adams convey his apologies to you directly at this email address ([REDACTED]).

I have great respect for you and your contribution not just to the ABC, but to this country, and I would never intentionally mislead anyone on this, or any other issue. Please accept my sincere apologies.

Yours sincerely,

David Anderson
