

sara m. saleh | سارة صالح @SaraSalehTweets · Apr 29

...

So much wrong with this I don't even know where to start.

Arguing that Zionists as a group have a right to cultural safety is akin to giving Nazis & misogynists warm welcomes.

You think you can hysterically throw around words like "radicalisation" to elicit a response. Be serious.

We can't as a society confront youth radicalisation and violent extremism while allowing this indoctrination of children to occur in plain sight.

THE AUSTRALIAN

'Intifada' child protest has crossed dangerous red line

Sydney University heads must act or be held to account over rally

Unbeknown to most decent Australians, our nation has crossed a dangerous line, sliding into a dark place that must be repudiated. The sight of young children chanting "intifada" (violent resistance or a rising up against oppression) and other anti-Jewish slogans at an encampment of Palestinian supporters at the University of Sydney last week suggests the nation's oldest university has lost its moral compass, like once-great colleges in the US and elsewhere. In a clip from the despicable event at the University of Sydney, a child leads a march, chanting into a loudspeaker "five, six, seven, eight, Israel is a terrorist state". Another child calls the Jewish state "haram", an Arabic term for "forbidden". The vile spectacle will test the leadership, or lack of it, of Anthony Albanese, Education Minister Jason Clare, University of Sydney chancellor Belinda Hutchinson, vice-chancellor Mark Scott students attending the university to go about their studies and daily lives without fear of harassment. More broadly, at a time when teenage activism is a serious problem, inducting children as young as 10 in hate speech is fostering the atmosphere for religiously and racially motivated violence. As Executive Council of Australian Jewry co-CEO Alex Ryvchin said, in forcing children to repeat calls that Israel is "haram", the organisers are attempting to convince Muslim children that Jewish Australians, who have deep emotional and historic bonds to the Jewish state, are their enemy: "The organisers of this horrific spectacle want to split our country apart by inducting children into racial hatred and religious extremism." For six days, students and protesters have pitched tents at the campus, demanding the university "cut ties with Israeli universities and weapons manufacturers". Alienating