Federal Labor supports public transport and one of the impediments to people using it is a lack of parking facilities around railway stations. That is why we created the $300 million Park and Ride Fund – to make a difference. 🚗

Thank you to Jacinta Allan, Peta Murphy - Labor for Dunkley and Paul Edbrooke MP for joining me today at Frankston Station for this announcement. And thank you to Premier Daniel Andrews and the Victorian Government for partnering with Federal Labor to help ease congestion in our cities. ✅

I was at West Ryde Train Station with Dr Brian O'wler - Labor for Bennelong today announcing the Australian Labor Party's support for much needed Park and Ride facilities.

Traffic congestion is acting as a hand brake on productivity and is eroding Australians' quality of life.

The problem has worsened during more than five years of the Abbott-Turnbull-Morrison Government, which has cut funding for public transport projects across the nation.

Public transport isn't just about the train line or bus route itself. It's also about the surrounding infrastructure that makes it work, and that's what Labor is about, investing in projects that benefit the lives of working Australians.

Labor will invest in new public transport services, but also deliver practical measures to help commuters get to work with minimum fuss, including through our new Park and Ride Fund.

With Daniel Andrews and Joanne Ryan MP state and Federal Labor will jointly fund a $15 million expansion of car parking facilities at Tarnet train station to ease shortages and encourage more commuters to use public transport.

If they're elected, they say they will also upgrade the park & ride facilities at Leppington, Schofields, Riverwood and Central Coast railway stations.

Please share this great news!!

A Bill Shorten MP Australian Labor Party government will join Dan Andrews State Government to build Victoria's first fully separated high-speed busway from Doncaster Road to Hoddle Street as part of a comprehensive $3.5 billion infrastructure plan, getting Menzies residents home sooner.

We will invest $250 million towards constructing the busway, which will include two separated bus-only lanes running alongside a widened Eastern Freeway, commencing at Doncaster Park and Ride and ending at the existing bus lanes on Hoddle Street in the City.

🇺🇸🇺🇸🇺🇸 Buses will be able to travel at up to 100km/h, cutting commute times by up to a third. 🇺🇸
🇺🇸🇺🇸

The Doncaster Park and Ride will be upgraded and a new Park and Ride at Bulleen built. These facilities will include additional bus platforms, multi-level parking, pedestrian and cycling access, and cycling storage.

Labor pledges $6 billion to reduce Sydney road congestion, $300 million to create train station parking

By ANDREW CLENNELL

🗨️ COMMENTS

Labor leader Bill Shorten has also pledged to set up a Park and Ride Fund to encourage state and local governments to expand commuter car parks.

“Labor’s Park and Ride Fund will deliver grant funding to local communities – via state and local governments – to construct new car parks and expanded existing ones in high-growth areas with demonstrated commuter need.”

ADDRESS TO THE NSW LABOR CONFERENCE - SYDNEY - SUNDAY, 1 JULY 2018

But one proposition I hear time and time again is when I meet people who commute to the city from the suburbs, they complain to me that every parking space at their local station is gone well before 7.00 AM.

This is what happens when governments are not accountable to the people, it's called overdevelopment.

Thousands of new homes and apartments but only a handful of car spots at our stations.

The mighty Michelle Rowland shared a story with me from Schofields, where people are parking so far away in the morning they have to get an Uber from their car to the train.

What a terrible way to start your day: rushed, stressed, hoping it doesn't rain, worried you'll get a parking ticket or that you'll miss your train.

And then of course you've got the trip home, when you just want to go home at the end of the day, you've got to go through those same hassles again but at night time, with poor lighting.

This discourages people from using public transport, it diminishes quality of life, it decreases choices.

So today I am very proud to announce that a new Labor Government will create a $300 million Park and Ride fund to build multi-storey new car parks and more car spaces in high-growth, high need areas.

We'll co-operate with councils and state governments and public transport instrumentalities because we want to get these started not in second term or a third term we want to get these started - and ideally built - in our first term.

Now it mightn't sound glamorous to some at the top end of town, about carparks and railway stations - it's not '2.0' is it?

But I reckon that when there are practical things that we can do to make people's lives easier, when we can join the dots of the lives that people live, that is what Labor should do, just get on and do them.

And friends, never forget why we can do these things: big public transport projects, better regional roads, better car parks at railway stations.

We need more commuter parking at Frankston station. The community asked me to make this an infrastructure priority - and, together with Anthony Albanese MP and Paul Edbrooke MP, this is exactly what I have done.

Only Labor has committed to build a 500 space, $35million commuter car park at Frankston Station.

In contrast, the Abbott-Turnbull-Morrison Liberals have been in power for 5 years and haven't delivered a single infrastructure project for our community.
