To: Committee, EM (REPS);

I would like to make a further submission, which relates to a comment I made in my interview:

And then a bunch of computer scientists showed that the system was fatally flawed, to the point where that equipment is just sitting there idle; it has never been used, and Ireland has passed a law that bans electronic voting.

The Irish have not banned electronic voting as such, but have abandoned electronic voting for now.

Please could you pass on this submission to the committee.

best wishes,
raj
