ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS ON NOTICE
Inquiry into the Commonwealth funding of Indigenous Tasmanians

Prime Minister and Cabinet Portfolio

Department/Agency: Department of the Prime Minister and Cabinet

Outcome/Program: Outcome 2: Indigenous

Topic: Government Framework – Indigenous Affairs

Senator: Lambie, Jacqui

Type of question: Verbal

Date set by the committee for the return of answer: 21 November 2016

Number of pages: 1

Question:

I want you to have a look at the amount of money over the last 10 years that you have put into the Tasmanian Aboriginal Centre (TAC) compared to every other group that is down there that is Indigenous.

Answer:

The Department of the Prime Minister and Cabinet has had responsibility as lead Commonwealth agency for the Indigenous Affairs portfolio since 2013/2014. From July 2014 to November 2016, the Department has invested around $33 million in grants and services in organisations in Tasmania through the Indigenous Advancement Strategy (IAS)¹. Of this total, the Tasmanian Aboriginal Centre (TAC) received grants totalling $8 million through the IAS, noting that TAC has also received funding through other Commonwealth departments.

Determining the amount of funding the Commonwealth has provided to an organisation over ten years would require an unreasonable redirection of departmental resources.

¹ Note that funding cannot be disaggregated for Activities that are delivered across multiple jurisdictions and have been represented as the full value of the grant.

Question:

Provide on notice a breakdown in an easily digestible format of [what Commonwealth department] funds what.

Answer:

The 2016-17 Department of the Prime Minister and Cabinet (PM&C) Portfolio Budget Statements (PBS) sets out the programmes with the purpose of improving the lives of Indigenous Australians from within PM&C. These are listed under Outcome 2.

The programme descriptions in the PBS include outcomes and funding by financial year. These descriptions begin on page 25.

The PBS are available at <https://www.dpmc.gov.au/sites/default/files/publications/2016-17-dpmc-portfolio-budget-statements.pdf>

In addition to this, the 2016-17 PBS identify a number of portfolios with programme descriptions that include delivering outcomes for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people. Question:

Is it possible to get an extra column put in [the PM&C Inquiry submission list of IAS activities] which says who the organisations that are funded are?

Answer:

A full list of current IAS activities in Tasmania, including provider names, can be found at Attachment A. The data should be interpreted with the following qualifications:

- These figures are for current IAS activities (as at 3 November 2016) in Tasmania.
- Activities have been selected based on delivery locations entered into relevant grant management systems.
- Funding cannot be disaggregated for Activities that are delivered across multiple jurisdictions and have been represented as the full value of the grant.
- All grants other than those noted have a start date of 1 July 2014 or after (with two exceptions as indicated).
- Funding figures are GST exclusive.

Question:

1. For the last 20 years – on a year by year basis and broken down into its different funding components - please lists and describe all commonwealth funding that has been delivered to:
 - A. Every Tasmanian state government department
 - B. Every community group, including for profit and not for profit organisations

Answer:

The Department of the Prime Minister and Cabinet has, in the course of this Inquiry, submitted figures regarding its own Indigenous Affairs expenditure in Tasmania in both our public submission and responses to Questions on Notice.

Extracting the data for all Commonwealth funding over the last 20 years would require an unreasonable redirection of resources within the Department of the Prime Minister and Cabinet and across multiple Commonwealth departments.

Senator: Lambie, Jacqui

Number of pages: 1

Question:

2. Please explain why the Commonwealth recognises approximately 26,000 Tasmanians who are of the Aboriginal race – while the Tasmanian Government only recognises approximately up to 6000 Tasmanians who are of Aboriginal race?

Answer:

The Commonwealth Government uses the Australian Bureau of Statistics 2011 national Census population data of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islanders in Tasmania. This was 24,165 people. There has been population growth since this figure was recorded. Projected population for June 2016 was 27,052. Updated population estimates will be available from the 2016 ABS Census.

The number of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islanders recognised by the Tasmanian Government is a matter for the Tasmanian Government.

Question:

3. For the last 20 years - please detail the total cost of federal tribunals whose purpose, in part - was to visit Tasmania and make decisions and rulings on which Tasmanian residents were of Aboriginal race?
4. For the last 20 years - please list the total number of findings made by federal tribunals on the question of which Tasmanian residents were of Aboriginal race?
5. For the last 20 years - please break down that number into those who were found to be of Aboriginal race – and those who were not considered not to be of Aboriginal race?
6. Was the federal government ever aware of the fact that Tasmanian residents who had participated in federal tribunals and who had been found to be of Aboriginal race – were subsequently not recognised as being of Aboriginal race by the State government – and/or TAC?
7. When did the federal government become aware of the above fact?
8. What action has the federal government taken to ensure that Tasmanian residents - who were found to be of Aboriginal race by federal tribunals – and who were subsequently denied their identity and basic democratic rights i.e. voting for indigenous board/body elections, by State government authorities – were not discriminated against, or had their human rights removed?

Answer:

Matters of Courts and tribunals are the responsibility of the Attorney-General's Department (AGD).

Senator: Lambie, Jacqui

Question:

9. How many complaints have been made to the Human Rights Commission by Tasmanian residents who allege that they had their Human Rights taken or damaged or were discriminated against - by rulings made by Tasmanian state government departments who made decisions denying those people's indigenous heritage or Aboriginality?

Answer:

The Human Rights Commission sits within the portfolio of the Attorney-General.
