

As a parent of a child about to go to uni I think it is unfair of students outside of Adelaide to not have a chance to apply for youth allowance.
The only considerations should be if you live outside a capital city, is that course available in your area and a means test .

Richard Byrne