Public hearing for inquiry into agricultural innovation

The House of Representatives Agriculture and Industry Committee will conduct a public hearing tomorrow for the inquiry into agricultural innovation.

Appearing at the hearing will be representatives from the Council of Rural Research and Development Corporations.

Committee Chair, Rowan Ramsey MP, said “This inquiry has heard strong praise for the Research and Development Corporations, which are a unique and important feature of Australian agriculture. The Committee has also heard that the way we innovate in agriculture is set to change over time. The future of agricultural research, development and extension will be more complex, with a greater focus on cross-sectoral issues, and more collaborative, with a greater role for the private sector, farmers and other stakeholders.

“The Committee is keen to hear from the Council about how its members are preparing to embrace the challenges and opportunities of the future, while maintaining their proud legacy of past performance.”

The hearing will be held in Committee Room 1R1, Parliament House, Canberra:
