House of Representatives Standing Committee on the Environment and Energy Inquiry into controlling the spread of cane toads

Issue date: 12 February 2019

Committee hops into public hearing on cane toads

The House Standing Committee on the Environment and Energy will hold a public hearing tomorrow for its inquiry into controlling the spread of cane toads.

The Committee will convene two roundtable-style sessions involving scientists and groups involved in controlling cane toads.

The inquiry is focused on how cane toads can be controlled and additional support that could be provided.

A further public hearing is planned for next Wednesday 20 February 2019. Details will be announced in due course.

Public hearing programs, submissions received and further information can be found on the inquiry website at www.aph.gov.au/canetoad.

Public hearing details:

Time: 10.00am – 11.30am (Canberra time)

Date: Wednesday 13 February 2019

Location: Committee Room 2R2, Parliament House
