

There is also the issue of deliberate malice by homosexuals to be considered. In the USA there are thousands of bakers, florists and reception venues who are quite willing to provide services for homosexual weddings, but homosexual couples often deliberately go after the one baker, florist or venue owner who for reasons of conscience does not wish to be involved in their "wedding". This is an illustration of malice, because it causes both the couple and the unwilling service provider time, energy and money, but activist homosexuals often persist in this kind of harrassment because in my opinion they are motivated by malice.
