Dear Stephen,

I am writing after reading your article in the ABC news - I, along with many I know fully support your efforts to bring dental under Medicare.

I am a pensioner and find it hard to have regular visits to the dentist due to high costs. I care for my teeth well and am quite fit and active for my age. Many of my friends also find it hard to pay high dental costs so go without a visit. I commend you on your great work and support you in trying to ask the Federal Government to at least approve pensioners, low income and disabled people to access dental under Medicare

I support your voice to try to get the 'Dental Benefits Act' expanded to include vulnerable people such as low income, pensioners, aged care, aboriginal & Torres Strait.

Stephen, you are our voice to the Federal Government and want to thank you for all you are doing to fight for us.

With rising costs, it is so hard to find money for dental visits so I implore you to try and get fuel to accept dental under Medicare for the most vulnerable.

You have a lot of support Stephen, from many who read your words in ABC news, so we look forward to changes as soon as possible. Thank you and kind regards

Jill
