

Good Morning,

I am a GP working in [REDACTED]

Recently I have heard from a couple patients, especially after the mandatory vaccine requirements some concerning information.

In their statement there are people who impersonate other people who need a covid certificate to work. They get several covid vaccines impersonating other people so that they can have their Covid certificate. I personally have several patients who will pay to someone who would get them a Covid vaccine certificate.

I do not have any evidence of this but I believe this is a real risk and ID confirmation might be beneficial when providing COVID vaccinations.

Kind Regards,

[REDACTED]
