Dear Mr McNally

Thank you for your letter to Ms Kate Dykes dated 6 November 2017.

The Australian Labor Party fully complies with its fundraising and financial disclosure obligations under the Commonwealth Electoral Act 1918.

The ALP is committed to further reforms to strengthen accountability and transparency measures in relation to political donations.

If elected, a Shorten Labor Government will:

- Reduce the donation disclosure threshold from the current level of $13,000 (indexed to inflation) to a fixed $1,000;
- Ban 'donation splitting' where donations are spread between different branches of political parties and associated entities – like the Free Enterprise Foundation – to avoid disclosure obligation;
- Prohibit the receipt of foreign donations;
- Ban the receipt of anonymous donations above $50;
- Link public funding to campaign expenditure to prevent serial candidates making a windfall from standing for election; and
- Introduce new offences and increased penalties for abuses of the political donation disclosure regime.

Yours sincerely

Noah Carroll
National Secretary and National Campaign Director
Australian Labor Party (National Secretariat)
