

To whom it may concern.

I am a Western District Resident and have personally seen the benefits that wind farms bring to the local community, from providing work during construction to tourism to sustained work during their operational life. The company that installed the wind farms have a strong sense of community and always donate and support local charities and clubs. All wind farms in our region from my personal experience produce little noise and have only added to the value of farms in the area.

Regards,

Michael Carr