

To whom it may concern

I support rural wind farms as I do not find them particularly unattractive and believe that they are far less dangerous than the polluting power stations they will help replace. I believe that coupled with appropriately variable power generation (natural gas), they will form part of the response we must make to the onset of Climate Change.

Thanks for reading and considering my submission.

Bruce Easton