*“Mr Power said the commission was operating in a decentralised way, with each commissioner working autonomously
[Now quoting Mr Power,] “People go to them with issues and opportunities and those commissioners are dealing with them. We are not a centralised process and the reason for that is we want things to happen quickly and decisions to be made with the best people who are capable of making those decisions. We hook up regularly, but it’s not about being managed from the centre”*

- a. Please provide the dates, locations or mode of communication, and minutes of these ‘regular hook ups’.

3. If they are different to the above, provide the dates, locations or mode of communication, and minutes of any formal meetings of the NCCC executive board.

4. Given Commissioners are working ‘autonomously’, what is the position description of the CEO?
5. Does the CEO have visibility of the tasks and functions of all Commissioners and taskforces?

Answer:

 - a. The National Coordination Mechanism (NCM), established on 5 March 2020, operates through the Department of Home Affairs and coordinates the non-health elements of managing the COVID-19 crisis across state and territory jurisdictions and industry. The NCM brings a consistent national approach to providing essential services across a range of critical sectors, such as energy, resources, emergency services, essential services and supply chains.
 - b. The Department of the Prime Minister and Cabinet (PM&C) attends all meetings of the NCM in an observer capacity.
 - c. The NCM is a subcommittee of National Cabinet, providing advice and support to inform the deliberations of National Cabinet by bringing together the most up-to-date technical and policy advice from across the public services of each jurisdiction.
 - d. The Commission has regularly engaged with the NCM, based in the Department of Home Affairs, particularly in the Commission’s first phase of its work on ‘troubleshooting’. To inform its advice to Government, the Commission continues to receive regular reporting from the NCM as it coordinates the cross-jurisdictional response to non-health aspects of the pandemic.
 - e. No, the Commission does not give directions to the NCM. In the first phase of its work, the Commission worked collaboratively with the NCM to manage and respond to the many offers of assistance and the requests for support from industry and the public. The Commission continues to engage with the NCM, drawing on NCM reporting and using the NCM to engage with state and territory officials, as the Commission develops its strategic advice to Government on economic recovery.
2. The Chair and Commissioners speak often via telephone on an ad hoc basis.

3. As at 23 September 2020, the Commission's Executive Board has met 35 times since it was established. Executive Board meetings are held via teleconference.

4. There is no specific position description for the NCCC Chief Executive Officer. As a temporary position for an advisory body established in a period of national crisis, a set of qualities was considered essential to the occupant – experience of crisis management; ability to work co-operatively at very senior level; understanding of public policy and administrative process; and the ability to get things done, sustainably.

5. The CEO has visibility of the tasks and functions of all Commissioners but not all taskforces. Task forces work directly with certain Commissioners.
