

Subject: prayers in parliament

Churches across the country are getting emptier and even closing down as the years roll by.

People are not using them for anything much anymore.

Those that are going are growing older and not being replaced by the young.

Religion poisons everything, as shown in the recent royal commission into child abuse.

Get it out of our parliaments and leave it to the few churches left.

Bob and Nona Hart