

Foreign investment inquiry heads to Sydney

The House of Representatives Economics Committee is continuing its public hearings for the inquiry into foreign investment in residential real estate in Sydney on Friday 27 June 2014.

The Chair of the Committee, Ms Kelly O'Dwyer MP, said that 'the Committee will continue taking evidence on whether the current regulation of foreign buyers in the Australian residential property market is delivering benefits to our economy and to our community. The committee looks forward to hearing from a number of important stakeholders in Sydney on these important issues.'

At this fourth public hearing for this inquiry, the committee will hear from the Reserve Bank of Australia, major industry stakeholders and also real estate market analysts.

The public hearing program is:
