

Water is THE most important resource in Australia. Nothing should be permitted to threaten it, particularly a short-term, dead-end industry like unconventional gas.

I thoroughly approve of the government's steps to take into account the effects on water of CSG.

However, I also believe that it is imperative to (a) include other forms of unconventional gas (b) give landholders the right of refusal and (b) make the legislation apply to projects recently approved.

Kind regards
Nanette Nicholson