Questions on Notice taken at the hearing

1. A list of the stories that over the last six months have been published online but not in the newspapers owned by Channel Nine.

Response:

A comparative analysis of all of the stories that over the last six months have been published online by Nine's newspaper publishers, as against all of the stories that over the last six months have been published in Nine's newspapers, to identify any story that was published online but not in the newspapers, cannot be completed before the Committee's deadline of 18 October 2024.

However, Nine can clarify that all material published in print or digital form by Nine's newspaper publishers listed below, and Nine's website nine.com.au, are regulated by the Australian Press Council. These publications must comply with its principles including (but not limited to) accuracy, clarity, fairness, balance, integrity, transparency and privacy, as well as specific standards and advisory guidelines. These publishers are under an obligation to cooperate with the Council, are subject to its complaint procedure, and must publish any adjudication by the Council:

- Brisbane Times;
- nine.com.au
- The Age
- The Australian Financial Review
- The Sun Herald
- The Sunday Age
- The Sydney Morning Herald
- WAToday

2. Whether the podcasts on the Nine app, which is not regulated by the codes of practice, have all been broadcast on television or on radio and, therefore, are not separate content. I'd like to know where else the podcasts on the Nine app have been broadcast.

Response:

Some of the podcasts on the 9Now app have not been broadcast on television or on radio. Those podcasts are also available on other apps such as Audible and Spotify, Apple Podcasts and on Nine's websites and links to the content may be made available on third party websites.

3. Is there any content that is created for TikTok that is not broadcast on free-to-air television?
