Good evening,

Christians are abhorred and shocked by the large number of babies that are being killed each year.

The word killed is subtly replaced by a more palatable word choice 'abortion'. This change of word, though, does not alter the fact that abortion is still murder.

And murder is a sin against the sixth commandment.

To make Medicare pay for sex-selection by aborting a baby simply because of its gender, is outright scandalous.

I therefore wholeheartedly support the efforts of Senator John Madigan to remove Medicare funding for such abortions.

It is my fervent prayer that the Lord, Who is in control of this whole world, will bless the senator's faithful efforts.

May He also bless his office as he seeks to do the best for his country and its citizens.

Kind regards

Leo Schoof,
