

Subject: Submission to Extreme Weather Inquiry

To promote an economy based on fossil fuels, especially coal and oil, is nothing short of suicidal. An economy based on sustainable and renewable energy sources is both imperative and feasible. What is missing in the equation to solve Earth's problems is political will — of which we always seem to be desperately short of.

hawkins bob