Re. Wind Farm Senate Enquiry

Dear Sir/Madam:

For us wind farms will be the sole rescuer of our rapidly diminishing native animals and plants. Energy companies have made commitments to provide money for all-important pest reduction and fencing for sensitive environmental areas. No-one else has or is offering this help. Wind farm companies are researching areas no one has even bothered about in the past. They are not only telling us what we have left of our native flora and fauna, but have the real potential to provide havens for native species before they all disappear.

David Fletcher.
