Question reference number: IQ24-000055

Question asked by: Linda Reynolds

Question:

Senator REYNOLDS: 33 and 46 were designed to make $8.4 billion of savings alone in the intraplan inflation. Has the department - when you were writing this legislation, have you ever seen any actuarial data, assumptions, and information in terms of how $14.5 billion and $60 billion over the 10 years was going to be realised through this legislation? Have you seen any modelling?

DSS: Yes, Senator, we've had access to the advice that the scheme actually provided to government, both to Department of Finance and other central departments as part of the budget process.

Senator REYNOLDS: Okay. Can I ask you to take on notice and provide for us that modelling?

Answer:

The modelling referred to was considered as part of the 2024-25 Budget process (response to IQ24-000029 also refers).
