

To whom it may concern,

I haven't been a donor, but if ever do proceed with the process I would like myself to have full rights as a father would in a married relationship. The donor would have equal rights to the child because they intend to equally participate (50/50) in the upbringing of the child. Why should the donor be treated any less than a father in a married relationship. The child has the right to have the donor on the birth certificate as the biological father and the donor father should have equal rights.
