Australian Government

Department of Communications and the Arts

Mr Ben Morton MP
Chair
Joint Standing Committee on the National Capital and External Territories
PO Box 6021
Parliament House
CANBERRA ACT 2600

Dear Mr Morton

Inquiry into Canberra's national institutions

I write in relation to an information request the Department received in the course of the public hearing for the Joint Standing Committee on the National Capital and External Territories' inquiry into Canberra's national institutions on 22 June 2018.

As you may recall, information was sought about the number and tour locations of exhibitions that had received support under the National Collecting Institutions Touring and Outreach (NCITO) program administered by the Department, including a state breakdown.

The NCITO program aims to increase touring by nine Australian national collecting institutions¹ (NCIs) so that Australian and overseas cultural material is accessible to all Australians, especially regional communities. It also aims to promote international awareness of Australia's cultural heritage through overseas tours.

Eligible NCIs can apply for funds for the development and touring of their collections, both nationally and internationally. These institutions also invest their own operational funding and resources to support NCITO funded tours, although the extent of each institution's support will vary with every exhibition.

Eligible NCIs are usually invited to apply for funding around March for projects starting in the following financial year. Funding of up to $1 million is available each year to support projects. Without this funding, it is unlikely that the current scale of touring could be accomplished, particularly to areas in regional Australia.

Domestic touring

In the public hearing, the Department advised that the NCITO program had funded over 90 exhibitions in 153 venues across Australia. The table at Attachment A provides a state breakdown, and within each state a region type breakdown, of the exhibitions for which NCITO funding has been approved (including for the current 2018-19 round). While the number of 'venues visited' in the table does not differ from the advice the Department provided on 22 June, I note that the number of 'exhibitions displayed' significantly exceeds the number of 'exhibitions' previously advised. This is because an exhibition will be counted more than once if it has been displayed in more than one venue. Further details on the NCITO funded exhibitions and tour locations in each state/territory is provided at Attachment B.

¹ This includes seven Canberra-based NCIs (the Museum of Australian Democracy at Old Parliament House, National Archives of Australia, National Film and Sound Archive of Australia, National Gallery of Australia, National Library of Australia, National Museum of Australia and National Portrait Gallery of Australia) as well as the Australian National Maritime Museum and Bundanon Trust.

International touring

The NCITO program has supported exhibitions from the national collections maintained by the NCIs to tour internationally on three occasions:

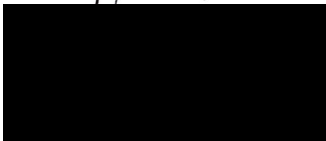

- The National Museum of Australia's exhibition Papunya Paintings in 2009-10 toured to Beijing, China;
- National Museum of Australia material for the Indigenous Australia: enduring civilisation exhibition displayed at the British Museum in London, United Kingdom in 2014-15 and;
- The Australia National Maritime Museum's exhibition On their own – Britain's child migrants toured to venues in Liverpool and London, United Kingdom in 2014-15.

It has also provide assistance for incoming international loans to support the national collection content within exhibitions shown at NCIs in Canberra on four occasions:

- The National Gallery of Australia's exhibition Life, Death & Magic: 2000 years of Southeast Asian ancestral art in 2010-11;
- The National Gallery of Australia's exhibition James Turrell: A retrospective in 2014-15;
- The National Library of Australia's exhibition Mapping our world – Terra incognita to Australia in 2012-13; and
- The National Museum of Australia's exhibition Encounters in 2013-14.

I trust this information will be of assistance to the Committee.

Yours sincerely

Dr Stephen Arnott PSM
First Assistant Secretary
Arts Division
