

As Migration Amendment (Visa Capping Rule) has become a hot topic of conversation among all the migrants currently residing in Australia and especially waiting for their residencies, I would first like to thank the Parliament of Australia to give general public a chance to come forward and put down their words.

As we all know that current visa capping rule will give the immigration minister the power to cap a visa class or its subclass or even the right to abolish that class based on the fact that the applicants falling in that category are no longer required in the Australian workforce.

I would like to address honorable immigration minister by saying that it's extremely well if you are discussing such bill in the parliament or if you want such bill to be passed in the parliament of Australia. But again, before starting such a conversation or such an issue the same honorable immigration minister should have discussed another bill in the parliament about how many visas Australia should issue every year overseas to a particular class or subclass of visas.

Immigrants have been invited onto the soil of Australia blindfoldedly in the past without even considering any the fact that do we really need those workers in our country or not. The previous occupations in demand lists (SOL, MODL, CSL) according to me were just a sham if you don't need those people in your country who you yourself have invited in the past. Someone who has spent past 5 years of his life here, without his family, friends or even their kids is will be asked to leave the country within 28 days giving a simple reason that we need you now.

As per my personal understanding, if this bill is passed in the parliament of Australia, it will be a shame for Australia as a country of first world providing such treatment to the immigrants. It will be a day worse than black Friday in the history of Australia.

People are living here, doing all right things, trying to make themselves believe that it's their own country. As I started my conversation by thanking parliament of Australia for giving everyone this opportunity to come forward and have their say, I would say, if you have really started this discussion, please take it seriously this time. Don't make it a sham like your previously drafted skills lists. Make every single word written here by anyone worth it by giving all the currently residing immigrants a fair chance to settle down on your soil.
