

Hello

Even though I currently work for a renewable energy company, I chose to be involved with the development and operations of wind farms as I truly believe they are the future for our energy needs. Having lived overseas for many years where wind farms are a part of everyday life, I have never experienced any negative health concerns. I am not biased due to where I work, I personally believe in the usage of alternative sources rather than coal and I find the wind farms to be aesthetically pleasing. I would be more than happy to live with them in my own backyard.

No matter how many reports are compiled by experts who have studied and have the knowledge, I believe there will still be people not satisfied with the results. It is unfortunate that these people are so blinded by their emotions.

Many thanks for listening to my feelings on this subject.
