Wind power is an important resource for the future

Decisions made now will set the direction which will enable or disable the path forward.

Please listen very carefully to those who are working in the industry who know what it can do.

There are significant gains to be made by supporting rural wind farms for their local communities, not to mention the gains for the wider community of support for wind power on a wider basis.

I dont know all the details, and I wont try to put arguments better presented by those closer to those details. But I am very concerned that we dont impede the development of this industry.

There are many who would see its demise and it is up to our leaders – you – to enable this industry to get off the ground against the forces which oppose it, and so show us what it can do. Please ensure that it has this chance.

Yours sincerely

Carolyn Ingvarson
