

It's not OK to export live animals to either Indonesia or the Middle East.
It's cruel and inhumane.

New Zealand can stop doing it, why can't we?

Money is more important than compassion, votes in rural seats blitz revamping the meat industry.

What is so very disappointing is that rather than politicians listening to people who vote for them, they do what they are told.

In general the politicians we have do not represent the will of the people but rather, in this case, the meat industry with all it's wealth.

You do not represent me nor many, many other people who give any care to living creatures.
