

Dear Sirs,

We live somewhat close to Parafield Airport (SA) and find the noise from the flying schools offensive. We have noticed that some of the planes are a lot noisier than others. While the community who lives closer advocates the airport's closure we understand how difficult and expensive that might be. Our proposal is to revoke the licenses of the VERY noisy planes. There should be a lower limit on the noise that planes are allowed to make. Maybe the hostilities in the community don't grow and grow if the people who benefit from subjecting other people to this intrusion meet the other side half way or a quarter way?

Kd rgds,

Ally Hauptmann
