

This process has to be one of the most upsetting processes I have ever been through. I am about to be judged on events in my life but it seems all the important paperwork is missing so how can I be fairly judged? I agreed to tell my story for a set amount under the Redress WA scheme but after I told it the rules were changed and the payment amounts. How unfair is this. The Redress scheme itself I feel has been put in place to send us over the edge. We ring for answers and get given answers to things we did not ask. They just give us the run around.. The calls just end up in more confusion and frustration then told I need to see somebody for counselling. The dealing of Redress WA workers has ended in tears of frustration many times. I feel my paperwork has been messed with as then the government does not have to answer to me or give me a fair Redress. Many of my letters to many a politicians have not been answered. I see More money spent on art and chairs that will be hardly sat on and then I see the sick and dying individuals are getting ex-gratia payments that are the same price as a single piece of art that our Premier purchased, To me this is just another slap in the face and more salt rubbed into the wounds of people who have had those wounds reopened by this process.. Why do some states get more, why do some states get less, why do some states get nothing? What a very unfair process. Our lives destroyed and then we are fed peanuts!!!
