Date: Friday, 18 January 2013 2:16:51 PM

Clearly there we are seeing predicted more extreme weather conditions in Australia. We all can observe it.

Preparedness, communications and education is survival - we see that in recent bush fires.

Preparedness for climate changes in combination with strategies and education for the community to reduce further impact on climate, is how we avoid more pain and suffering, preserve the planet and very importantly, give confidence, hope and the best chance of having some control for the community.

An inquiry and recommendations how best to set this up will be the start.
