

Submission on Caring Role

My Wife and I met in 1958, we have been together ever since , we have cared for each other and raised a Professor and another Carer, my Wife has suffered multiple illnesses, and is now dependant on my full time care, which I will continue to administer as long as possible.

Regardless of whether we receive any outside help, our love and regard for each other keeps us together no matter what circumstances prevail through the years.

However, we are grateful for the Home Care Packages and Care we both receive, it makes the living easier as we age.

Any improvement to societies attitude to those in the Caring role, will only strengthen our human race and its evolvement through the ages to come.

When I sit down for a coffee in some far flung restaurant at the edge of this universe, in some distant time, I will reflect on the humanity of humans and their caring attitude to their kind and all sentient beings,

Think well on your responsibilities,

Kind Regards and Live Well,
