

I am writing re the supposedly aircraft noise.

I live in Wungong, and in the flight path of all the planes, big or small and helicopters. This is not a problem at all.

I do not believe that people have nothing better to do than complain about a few planes that go overhead. I counted how long a plane takes to go over and it is only 8 - 10 seconds.

I do not wish to have the flight path changed as I quite enjoy seeing such a huge piece of metal being able to stay up in the sky. The noise is almost non existant.

Maybe these people who are complaining need to go out and get a life. They must just be sitting at home counting planes. I'm sure if they got out and did some voluntary work they would be much happier and the planes would not be a problem.

I do not wish the flight plan to change.
