Senate Inquiry into Wind Farms

We named above are small contributors to the Hepburn Wind Project. We are a solar dependant home so were excited to have the opportunity to support this project.

We have visited a much larger project than the one at Hepburn and spoken to residents, who were very positive to the benefits of wind power and the minimal effect on their living environment. I am amazed that our society would even question this amazing technology. One only needs to travel to Gippsland to see the pollution. It is not okay, to not be concerned about the whole community that those living near coal power can put up with that while we in our own beautiful environment are not willing to do our bit. Give anyone the choice what to live beside I can't believe one would choose a coal power station. I understand that there will always be people that are anxious about change I'm sure people would have been afraid when electricity was rolled out. Where would we be today if that minority were given priority.

Thankyou for this opportunity to have our say.
