COMMISSIONER CARGILL

SYDNEY, 12 MARCH 2014

Application for approval of the Hernes Linehaul Enterprise Agreement 2014.

[1] An application has been made for approval of an enterprise agreement known as the Hernes Linehaul Enterprise Agreement 2014 (the Agreement). The application was made pursuant to s.185 of the Fair Work Act 2009 (the Act) by Hernes Linehaul Pty Ltd. The agreement is a single-enterprise agreement.

[2] The Agreement was not lodged within 14 days after it was made. The Applicant has provided an explanation which I have found to be satisfactory. Pursuant to s.185(3)(b) I consider it fair to extend the time for making this application to 4 March 2014.

[3] The Agreement does contain a consultation term however, it is not a consultation term that fully complies with s205 of the Act. Consequently the model consultation term is taken to be a term of the Agreement.

[4] I am satisfied that each of the requirements of ss186, 187 and 188 as are relevant to this application for approval have been met.

[5] The Agreement is approved and, in accordance with s.54, will operate from 19 March 2014. The nominal expiry date is four years from the date of approval.

- 25.4. The Employees are responsible for meeting the costs of securing the appropriate Driver's Licence and other qualifications and Medical Certificates that may be required as a driver of a Heavy Vehicle.

26. TRAFFIC INFRINGEMENTS AND FINES

- 26.1. An Employee shall be responsible for paying any fines relating to traffic infringements issued to the Employee whilst driving a Company vehicle.
- 26.2. The Employees must advise the Company of the details of any traffic infringements they incur whilst driving a Company vehicle, as soon as possible and upon their next arrival at a company depot at the latest.

27. WORK OUTSIDE OF EMPLOYMENT

Whilst employed by the Company, the Employees may not take up work with another employer without the Company's approval. The Company will not withhold its approval unless it is satisfied that the additional work would interfere with an employee's capacity to perform their work safely, legally and efficiently or that it would adversely affect the interests of the Company. The Employee must advise the Company of the nature and hours of any such proposed external work and of any changes to such work and hours that occur after the Company has given its approval.

28. PROBATIONARY PERIOD

All new permanent Employees engaged under this Agreement shall be engaged on a 6-month probationary basis. During this probationary period the Company and the Employee are free to terminate the contract of employment at any time with one hour's notice, subject to the payment/forfeiture of one day's Ordinary Hours wages.

29. CONFIDENTIAL INFORMATION

- 29.1. An Employee must not reveal or make personal use of any confidential information which becomes known to the Employee during their employment, including trade secrets and customer lists, unless it is for the Company's purposes.
- 29.2. An Employee's obligation to maintain confidentiality continues after the Employee's employment with the Company ceases.
- 29.3. Nothing in this section or in this Agreement will in any way restrict the disclosure of details of this Agreement by the Company or Employee.

30. INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY

Any new idea, invention, improvement or work that could be registered as copyright, that the Employee creates, develops or helps to develop whilst on duty with the Company, will be taken to have been made during employment and belong to the Company.

31. REDUNDANCY

31.1. Definitions

- 31.1.1. Redundancy occurs where The Employer has made a definite decision that the employer no longer wishes the job the employee has been doing to be done by anyone and that decision leads to the termination of employment of the employee, except where this is due to the ordinary and customary turnover of labour.
- 31.1.2. Transmission includes transfer, conveyance, assignment or succession whether by agreement or by operation of law and transmitted has a corresponding meaning.
- 31.1.3. Week's pay means the base Weekly Agreement Rate of pay as set out in Clause 9.1 for the employee concerned and excludes:
 - overtime;
 - penalty rates;
 - disability allowances;
 - shift allowances;
 - special rates;
 - fares and travelling time allowances;
 - bonuses; and
 - any other ancillary payments of a like nature.

31.2. Transfer to Lower Paid Duties Due to Redundancy

Where the employee is transferred to lower paid duties by reason of redundancy the same period of notice must be given as the employee would have been entitled to if the employment had been terminated. Alternatively, the employer may decide to pay the employee an amount equal to the difference between the former ordinary rate of pay and the new ordinary time rate for the number of weeks of notice still owing.

31.3. Severance pay

- 31.3.1. If made redundant, the employee is entitled to an amount of severance pay in line with the applicable termination provisions of Clause 14.3 of the Transport Workers 1998 Award and Clause 15.3 of the Transport Workers (LDD) Award, except in the case of transmission of business, based upon the length of the employee's continuous period of service with the employer.

- 31.3.2. If the Employer has less than 15 employees at the time the employee is made Redundant, the employee's severance pay shall be limited to 8 weeks.
- 31.3.3. This clause does not apply if the employee is dismissed for serious misconduct or whilst on probation. In these events the employee is only entitled to be paid for the time worked up to the time of dismissal.
- 31.3.4. If the employee would otherwise have retired within the period for which severance pay is due, then the employee's severance pay period shall end on that retirement date.

31.4. Alternative employment

If the employer obtains acceptable alternative employment for the employee who has been made redundant (except in the case of transmission of Business), the employee shall only be entitled to the redundancy payment for the period set out in clause 31.3.1 or for the period between the cessation of employment with the employer and the commencement of the alternative employment, which ever is the lesser.

32. TRAINING

- 32.1. The employees may be required by the Company to undertake training to enhance their competency and relevant knowledge/skills.
- 32.2. The cost of all training courses or refresher courses that the Company requires an employee to undertake shall be paid by the Company.
- 32.3. Where the training which the Company requires an employee to undertake is conducted during working hours, the employee will be paid for their time at the Ordinary Hourly Rate set out in Table 9.1. Where the training is conducted after hours, the employee will not be paid.
- 32.4. Where an employee wishes to undertake training that is not required by the Company, the Company may, at its discretion, allow the employee time off from work and the Company will decide whether this shall be without pay, or with pay.

33. SUPERANNUATION

- 33.1. The employee will be paid 9% Superannuation in line with the Superannuation Guarantee Act.
- 33.2. Superannuation shall be paid in to an employee's nominated Super Fund. If an employee does not nominate a Super Fund, the Company will pay the employee's Superannuation contributions into the Company's Superannuation Fund.

Constitutional Matters

B- Doubles operating Between Prescribed Places

In the matter of RMS V Robert Leslie Bell Case no. 2015/00191374, I was charged under s 315 Heavy Vehicle National Law (NSW)

It has been accepted by The Court and The Prosecution that I was driving a B-Double on an interstate journey at the time and date of the alleged offence.

The HVNL (NSW) is state law, whilst it is been maintained by myself throughout these proceedings that I was covered exclusively by Federal law whilst operating a B- Double on interstate journeys.

The Interstate Road Transport Act 1985 (Cth) maintains exclusive jurisdiction over such vehicles and journeys through s 12C

INTERSTATE ROAD TRANSPORT ACT 1985 - SECT 12C

Operating requirements for B-doubles

In spite of any law of a State relating to the operation of articulated vehicles, it is lawful, subject to this Act, for a B-double that is operated in accordance with this Act and the regulations to be operated on a road in a State in the carriage of passengers or goods between prescribed places or for any purpose that is incidental to carriage of that kind.

The IRTA effectively covers the field for B-Doubles operating on interstate journeys. If there is to be any doubt of the effect of the Federal Act upon State laws, further clarification can be found in s 52

INTERSTATE ROAD TRANSPORT ACT 1985 - SECT 52 Effect of this Act and regulations on State laws

INTERSTATE ROAD TRANSPORT ACT 1985 - SECT 52

Effect of this Act and regulations on State laws

(1) It is the intention of the Parliament that this Act (except sections 12A and 12C) and the regulations shall not, subject to subsection (2), apply to the exclusion of a law of a State.

(2) Subsection (1) does not apply to a law of a State in so far as that law has the effect of:

(a) requiring a motor vehicle or trailer that is registered under this Act and operating as mentioned in subsection 8(1) to be registered under a law of a State;

(b) requiring compliance, in respect of a registered motor vehicle or trailer, with requirements that are directly inconsistent with requirements prescribed for the purposes of subsection 12B\(1\) or section 13, 37 or 39, or conditions determined under subsection 43A\(2\);

(c) requiring a person who holds a federal operator's licence and is carrying on long distance interstate road transport business to hold a licence or other authority under a law of a State authorising the person to carry on long distance interstate road transport business generally or, except in such circumstances as are prescribed, long distance interstate road transport business specified in that law or long distance interstate road transport business included in a class of long distance interstate road transport business specified in that law; or

(d) requiring:

(i) a person who does not hold a federal operator's licence and is operating a registered motor vehicle or trailer as mentioned in subsection 8\(1\); or

(ii) a person who holds a federal operator's licence and is operating a registered motor vehicle or trailer (other than a motor vehicle, or a motor vehicle and attached trailer, that is a heavy motor vehicle as defined in subsection 3\(1\) as mentioned in subsection 8\(1\);

to hold a licence or other authority under a law of a State authorising that operation, being a licence or authority specified in the regulations or a licence or authority included in a class of licences or authorities specified in the regulations.

INTERSTATE ROAD TRANSPORT AMENDMENT ACT 1991 No. 128 of 1991 - SECT 8 Effect of this Act and regulations on State and Territory laws

INTERSTATE ROAD TRANSPORT AMENDMENT ACT 1991 No. 128 of 1991 - SECT 8

Effect of this Act and regulations on State and Territory laws

8. Section 52 of the Principal Act is amended:

(a) by omitting from subsection (1) "section 12A" and substituting "sections 12A and 12C";

(b) by omitting from paragraph (2) (b) all the words from and including "prescribed" and substituting the following:
"prescribed for the purposes of subsection 12B (1) or section 13, 37 or 39, or conditions determined under subsection 43A (2)".

If there can be any doubt as the Parliaments (CTH) intention regarding exclusive jurisdiction of B-Doubles, then by amending the IRTA in 1991 to include s 12c in s 52 is a clear indication.

The Roads and Maritime Service, as the Prosecuting Authority in this matter, have been made aware of this legislation through correspondence from myself. They are also defined as a regulatory authority under the IRTA though sect 53 Transport Administration Act 1988 (NSW)

TRANSPORT ADMINISTRATION ACT 1988 - SECT 53

Miscellaneous functions of RMS

53 MISCELLANEOUS FUNCTIONS OF RMS

(1) Without limiting any other functions conferred or imposed on it, RMS may:

(a) conduct any business, whether or not related to its activities under this or any other Act, and for that purpose use any property or the services of any staff of RMS, and

(b) make and enter into contracts or arrangements for the carrying out of works or the performance of services or the supply of goods or materials, and

(c) appoint agents, and act as agent for other persons, and

(d) perform, in accordance with the Interstate Road Transport Act 1985 of the Commonwealth, the functions of a Regulatory Authority under that Act, and

(e) exercise any functions conferred on RMS for the purposes of the Heavy Vehicle National Law (whether conferred by delegation under that Law or under an agreement entered into by RMS for that purpose).

(2) RMS may exercise its functions within or outside New South Wales.

It is contended that LCM Williams erred in his judgement on this issue dated 31/10/2016, when he stated that some of the regulations made under the IRTA indicate that some compliance with state legislation is potentially required. Notwithstanding that contention, the fact of law remains that the Act, not the regulations, are overriding in the application of jurisdiction.

Therefore, Commonwealth Constitution Act 1901 (CTH) s 109 renders this prosecution and conviction void ab initio

COMMONWEALTH OF AUSTRALIA CONSTITUTION ACT - SECT 109

Inconsistency of laws

When a law of a State is inconsistent with a law of the Commonwealth, the latter shall prevail, and the former shall, to the extent of the inconsistency, be invalid.

Demerit Points

This matter was raised as an interlocutory constitutional issue before LCM Williams. His judgement dated 31/10/2016 seemed to infer that The Court did not have the jurisdiction to decide on the matter as it did not directly impose a demerit point penalty or forfeiture.

The Prosecuting Authority, RMS, does maintain a demerit points register for state of NSW, and that register, and the demerit points allocated to offences is maintained under the Road Transport Act 2013 (NSW) s 31, 32, 37,42,43,43a. These sections listed are not an exhaustive compilation relevant to demerit points in NSW but are sufficient in relevance to this point of law. The application of The Road Transport Act 2013 (NSW) in regard to B- Doubles and other Fatigue Related Vehicles is explored in separate submissions.

The issue in question here is that demerit points, whilst an extra curial penalty, are still aligned with the Statute relative to the charge. It is the "Parent" Act for the Road Rules 2014 (NSW) and it is used in relation to evidence admissibility and obtaining identification details etc in HVNL matters.

it is undoubtedly intertwined with prosecutions and penalties imposed upon Heavy Vehicles drivers in the jurisdiction of NSW Courts.

NSW, through legislation, allows Professional (Heavy Vehicle) drivers an extra demerit point allocation by virtue of their status and the distances travelled in comparison to other types of licence holders. To be eligible for this concession, a Professional Driver has to hold a NSW Licence. Professional Drivers from other jurisdictions are not eligible for this demerit point concession, even though they potentially operate in NSW a large majority of their time and operations.

Therefore, Heavy Vehicles drivers from other jurisdictions such as myself, are subject to a disability or discrimination as opposed to Heavy Vehicle driver's resident or domiciled in NSW.

The Roads and Maritime Service NSW maintain a demerit points register irrespective of residence, and regularly impose restrictions on travel throughout NSW they significantly impact upon an interstate driver's ability to make a living, or in effect restrict interstate trade.

COMMONWEALTH OF AUSTRALIA CONSTITUTION ACT - SECT 117

Rights of residents in States

A subject of the Queen, resident in any State, shall not be subject in any other State to any disability or discrimination which would not be equally applicable to him if he were a subject of the Queen resident in such other State.

This in effect, makes the issuing of demerit points potentially invalid till such time the State legislates to rectify this discrimination and/or disability.

RMS Corporate (or Otherwise) Structure

1. Statute created the Roads and Maritime Service, that statute being The Transport Legislation Amendment Act 2011 (NSW)
2. This Act introduced a raft of amendments to the Transport Administration Act 1988 (NSW)
3. Whilst most of those changes were amendments to existing structures, the Amendment Act also created an entirely new entity, being the Roads and Maritime Service (RMS). This is distinct from its predecessor, The Road Transit Authority (RTA)
4. The Transport Legislation Amendment Act 2011 (NSW) is at this date, fully repealed and no longer has any force or effect.
5. When an Act creates an entity, and the creating act is repealed, does the created entity continue to exist?
6. In any case, The RMS is a State Owned Statutory Corporation, with all the characteristics of a Constitutional Trading Corporation, see Commonwealth Constitution Act 1901 (Cth) s 51 (xx)
7. As a Corporation, it would have to be Incorporated or a Body Corporate, to have any legal personality.
8. Without referring to all the individual sections within the Transport Administration Act 1988 (NSW) that pertain to the operation of the RMS, Parliament intended that the RMS would operate as corporate entity. It is neither a Government department or Authority, instead being an Agency of Government
9. This can be evidenced by the current listing in ABN Lookup, An Australian Government website.

Long-distance drivers - OTE

- <https://www.ato.gov.au/Business/Super-for-employers/In-detail/Ordinary-time-earnings/Long-distance-drivers---OTE/>
- Last modified: 27 Jul 2016

Long-distance drivers – OTE

The definition of ordinary time earnings (OTE) for long-distance drivers is the same as it is for other employees. However, some employers may not be calculating OTE correctly because they are using a now-outdated definition.

The Road Transport (Long Distance Operations) Award 2010 defines 'ordinary hours of work', effective from the first pay period commencing on or after 19 March 2012. For drivers covered by the award, the ordinary hours of work are 38 hours per week. These may be determined as an 'average' of not more than 28 consecutive days.

You can calculate super guarantee (SG) for long-distance drivers using one of three methods:

- minimum-guaranteed-wage method (cannot be used when the driver's wages paid is more than the minimum under one of the other two methods).
- hourly-driving-rate method
- cents-per-kilometre method.

The following examples show how to calculate SG by each of the three methods, for two periods:

- since 19 March 2012 (when the award was amended)
- between 1 July 2009 and 18 March 2012 (that is, from when our Super guarantee ruling 2009/2 came into effect until the award was amended).

The amendment made to the award does not automatically amend the terms in existing enterprise agreements. Some enterprise agreements may still not set out what the ordinary hours of work are. The examples that follow are based on the terms in the award. Employers should seek advice if the terms of their enterprise agreement vary from that of the award.

Calculating super guarantee (since 19 March 2012)

Example 1: Minimum-guaranteed-wage method

Mary is a long-distance driver, Grade 6, working under the Road Transport (Long Distance Operations) Award 2010. The award stipulates a minimum guaranteed wage payment of $767 per week from 1 July 2014, regardless of how little Mary actually drives. As Mary only receives this minimum payment under the award, her employer calculates the OTE using that amount.

Super guarantee

= OTE x SG rate

= $767.00 x 9.5%

= $72.86 per week

Example 2: Hourly-driving-rate method

Sean is a long distance driver, Grade 6, working under the Road Transport (Long Distance Operations) Award 2010. He is paid under the hourly-driving-rate method.

The hourly driving rate of $29.91 for full-time employees (from 1 July 2014) includes two components:

- an industry disability allowance of 1.3 times a base rate
- an overtime allowance of 1.2 times a base rate.

Although the hourly rate includes a component referred to as an overtime allowance, the allowance is not deducted from the total when calculating OTE because the whole hourly driving rate is paid for what are defined to be ordinary hours of work (except where in excess of 38 hours).

Sean has worked his ordinary hours of 38 hours in each of the last three weeks. This week Sean works 50 hours.

Super guarantee

= OTE x SG rate

= ordinary hours x hourly rate x SG rate

= 38 hours (as defined in the award) x $29.91 x 9.5%

= $107.97

Example 3: Casual employee using hourly-driving-rate method

Rosie is a long distance driver, Grade 6, working under the Road Transport (Long Distance Operations) Award 2010. She is a casual employee and paid under the hourly-driving-rate method.

The hourly driving rate for full-time employees is $29.91 (from 1 July 2014). Casual employees are paid an additional 15%. The rate includes two components:

- an industry disability allowance of 1.3 times a base rate
- an overtime allowance of 1.2 times a base rate.

Although the hourly rate includes a component referred to as an overtime allowance, the allowance is not deducted from the total when calculating OTE because the whole hourly driving rate is paid for what are defined to be ordinary hours of work (except where in excess of 38 hours).

Rosie has worked her ordinary hours of 38 hours in each of the last three weeks. This week Rosie works 45 hours.

Super guarantee

= OTE x SG rate

= ordinary hours x hourly rate x SG rate

= 38 hours (as defined in the award) x $34.40 ($29.91+15%) x 9.5%

= $124.18

Example 4: Cents-per-kilometre method

Jack, a Grade 6 long distance driver, travelled from Melbourne to Darwin via the Stuart/Western Highway (3,749 km) and was paid using the cents-per-kilometre method under the Road Transport (Long Distance Operations) Award 2010. The cents-per-kilometre rate – 39.88c/km for full-time employees (from 1 July 2014) – includes two components:

- an industry disability allowance of 1.3 times a base rate
- an overtime allowance of 1.2 times a base rate.

Although the rate includes a component referred to as an overtime allowance, the allowance is not deducted from the total when calculating OTE because the whole cents-per-kilometre rate is paid for what are defined to be ordinary hours of work (except where in excess of 38 hours).

Jack received $39.88\text{c}/\text{km} \times 3,749\text{km} = $1,495.10$.

As this amount is in excess of the minimum guaranteed payment stipulated in the award, Jack's employer uses his ordinary hours to work out his OTE.

For the purposes of simplicity, the ATO allows for the cents-per-kilometre rate to determine the amount of kilometres driven during 'ordinary hours of work' with reference to an average driving speed of 75 kilometres per hour.

Therefore, a reasonable method of calculating the distance travelled during ordinary hours of work would be:

$38 \text{ hours} \times 75 \text{ km} = 2,850 \text{ km}$

The calculation to determine the minimum amount of SG required is therefore:

Super guarantee

= OTE x SG rate

= $\text{c}/\text{km} \times 2,850 \text{ km} \times \text{SG rate}$

= $39.88\text{c}/\text{km} \times 2,850 \text{ km} \times 9.5\%$

= $107.97

Calculating super guarantee (before 19 March 2012)

The following examples show you how to work out SG amounts for pay periods that started within the period 1 July 2009 to 18 March 2012, using each of the three methods. During this time the SG rate was 9%.

Example 5: Minimum-guaranteed-wage method

Anne was a long distance driver, Grade 6, working under the Road Transport (Long Distance Operations) Award 2010. The award stipulated a minimum guaranteed wage payment of $705.30 per week (from 1 July 2011), regardless of how little Anne actually drove. As Anne only received this minimum payment under the award, her employer calculated the OTE using that amount.

Super guarantee

= OTE x SG rate

= minimum wage x SG rate

= $705.30 x 9%

= $63.47 per week

Example 6: Hourly-driving-rate method

Aaron was a long distance driver, Grade 6, working under the Road Transport (Long Distance Operations) Award 2010. He was paid under the hourly-driving-rate method.

The hourly driving rate of $27.51 for full-time employees (from 1 July 2011) included two components:

- an industry disability allowance of 1.3 times a base rate
- an overtime allowance of 1.2 times a base rate.

As Aaron worked for 50 hours in a week and the award at that time did not define what ordinary hours of work were, his employer calculated the OTE as the amount earned under the hourly driving rate for the 50 hours actually worked, less the overtime allowance (as that component was not considered to be a payment for ordinary hours of work).

Super guarantee

= OTE x SG rate

= hourly rate earnings (less overtime allowance) x SG rate

= 50 hours x $27.51 hourly rate x 9%

= 123.80

To remove the overtime allowance, divide this amount by 1.2

= 123.80 ÷ 1.2

= $103.16

Example 7: Cents-per-kilometre method

Joe, a Grade 6 long distance driver, travelled from Melbourne to Darwin via the Stuart/Western Highway (3,749 km) and was paid using the cents-per-kilometre method under the Road Transport (Long Distance Operations) Award 2010. The cents-per-kilometre rate – 36.68c/km for full-time employees (from 1 July 2011) – includes two components:

- an industry disability allowance of 1.3 times a base rate
- an overtime allowance of 1.2 times a base rate.

Joe received $36.68\text{c/km} \times 3,749\text{km} = $1,375.13$.

As this amount was in excess of the minimum guaranteed payment stipulated in the award, Joe's employer used his remuneration to work out his OTE. They removed the overtime allowance from the calculations as that component was not considered to be a payment for ordinary hours of work. The calculation to determine the minimum amount of SG required was therefore:

Super guarantee

= OTE x SG rate

= cents per km earnings (less overtime allowance) x SG rate

= $$1,375.13 \times 9\%$

= 123.76

To remove the overtime allowance, divide this amount by 1.2

= $123.76 \div 1.2$

= $103.13

Example 8: Casual employee, using the cents-per-kilometre method

Tom, a casual Grade 6 long distance driver, travelled from Perth to Adelaide via the Eyre Highway (2,677km) and was paid using the cents-per-kilometre method under the Road Transport (Long Distance Operations) Award 2010. The cents-per-kilometre rate was 36.68c/km for full-time employees (from 1 July 2011). Casual employees are paid an additional 15%. The rate included two components:

- an industry disability allowance of 1.3 times a base rate
- an overtime allowance of 1.2 times a base rate.

Joe received 42.18c/km (36.68c/km + 15%) x 2,677km = $1,129.16

As this amount was in excess of the minimum guaranteed payment, Joe's employer used his remuneration to work out his OTE. They removed the overtime allowance from the calculations as that component was not considered to be a payment for ordinary hours of work. The calculation to determine the minimum amount of SG required was therefore:

Super guarantee

= OTE x SG rate

= cents per km earnings (less overtime allowance) x SG rate

= $1,129.16 x 9%

= 101.62

To remove the overtime allowance, divide this amount by 1.2

= 101.62 ÷ 1.2

= $84.68
