

We are a family of 5 Mum working full time as a nurse in local hospital
Dad working full time as a Police officer.
and three boys 19, 16 and 12

We are relatively blessed in that our boys are smart however I don't understand the Governments stance in changing a system that has worked for many years.

We are not wealthy people in fact we are Mr and Mrs Normal, you know the ones that earn too much so we don't get any allowances and the ones who don't earn too much to enjoy the good things in life.

We live 2.5 hours from Perth where the Universities are sited.
If we lived in Perth our boys could go to University then come home, be fed and have their washing done leaving them to concentrate on their studies but our boys will have to work 30hours a week on top of their studies just because they come from the country.

We cannot afford to pay for accommodation and our sons education so because we do not live in the city our boys will miss out on a University education. You tell me this if fair.

We did not chose to live in the country. I was sent with my job as a Police officer to the country posting now my sons will pay the price.

Don't look into your hearts just take a step back to see the scheme proposed is wrong.

Why should the city kids have an advantage over the country kids.
