Dear Committee Secretary,

Family Law Legislation Amendment (Family Violence and Other Measures) Bill

I am writing to express my support for the changes to the Family Law Act proposed in the Family Law Legislation Amendment (Family Violence and Other Measures) Bill 2011, and to recommend that further changes be made to the Bill to ensure that the family law system does not jeopardise the safety of children and parents who are victims of violence.

I strongly support the measures proposed in the Bill to provide better protections for people who have experienced family violence within the family law system and believe that the proposed amendments are essential to placing the safety and protection of children and family members at the forefront of the Family Law Act.

My Experience

I have been involved in the Family Court

I HAVE BEEN LEFT POWERLESS TO PROTECT MY CHILD. ..-

I have no faith left in the system, I sincerely believe The Family Court Legislation is at best outdated and at worst, my experience, corrupt.

Financial Abuse

I have had numerous dealings with the Child support Agency,

The Child support agency is useless when it comes to self employed persons, as my former partner is. The system needs to be changed for self employed

Recommendations:

I believe that their needs to be a Royal Commission into the goings-on in the Family Court.

- Judges to be put on rotation serving no longer than 18 months.
- Judges be independently appointed.
- The outcomes of judicial decisions made public and quantified.
- An independent body investigating complaints against Judges be set-up
- Financial abuse be addressed within the Family Court forthwith.

Note:

Currently there is no avenue to make a formal independent complaint regarding the conduct of the Family Court.

Support for key changes

In particular, I strongly support:

- Broadening the definition of ‘family violence’ to include elements of coercion and control, a wider range of behaviour and removing the objective test of ‘reasonableness’ so that family violence can be properly considered whenever the victim actually fears for their safety
- A broader definition and understanding of child abuse that includes exposure to violence
- Prioritising family violence when considering what is in the best interests of the child
- Removing the ‘facilitation’ aspects of the ‘friendly parent provision’
- Repealing section 117AB about costs orders relating to false allegations or denials of Violence

Further changes that are needed

I believe that a number of further changes are necessary to better protect the safety of children and their family in the family law system. In particular, I recommend that:

- The safety and protection of children should be prioritised above all else. Its priority should not be subject to proving an inconsistency with other considerations.
- The Act should make it clear that exposure to family violence is a form of family violence and that it applies to behaviour by the person perpetrating violence, and not the victim of the violence.
- There should be no presumptions in family law – every family should be treated as unique. This means that there should be no presumption of equal shared parental responsibility and the courts should not be required to start from any particular care arrangement.
- The Act should protect the safety of the primary carer as this increases children’s safety.

Conclusion

Based on my own experiences and the evidence presented in numerous research reports over the last few years, I strongly recommend you support the amendments suggested in this letter and the expeditious passage the Family Law Legislation Amendment (Family Violence and Other Measures) Bill 2011.

Yours sincerely,

14 april2011
