

I am writing to add my support to a complete ban on live animal exports or the very least to ensure these poor creatures are stunned before they are slaughtered. It cant be left to the exporters or farmers to ensure the humane treatment of these creatures. They are only interested in one thing and that is money. Not only do these animals have to endure a horrific death but the sea journey over is so traumatic for them. Cattle and sheep alike. I support the Geens in their bill and hope that something is done about this awful situation sooner rather than later.Lynn Adderson
