

Important Information

I have recently received my medical records from when I was born.

There are four main points that need to be noted for the attention of this inquiry

1. I have a form that was filled out at I am presuming a pre-natal check up my mother went for.

This states in the right hand corner BFA Baby for adoption.

At no point did my mother ever agree to have me adopted and it was her full intention to keep me.

This was dated in February and I was born in May three months later.

2. It states my mother was moved from Crown St to Wakehurst which in her drugged state she was not aware of believing she was still at Crown St Hospital. It states I was moved to a ward as BFA. So basically she was sent to another hospital whilst I remained in a ward for adoptable children on the day I was born giving her no possible chance of ever seeing me.

3. I have my records of my bottle feeds at Crown St Hospital which stopped on 12th May it states due to adoption. This contravenes the supposed 30 days in which a mother was allowed to change her mind.

4. It showed that my mother had applied for a mothers pension. I do not have details about this but it would make sense to me that a pension was available for her to use had she been allowed to take me home. This was in 1961.

I can provide copies of this is required for proof.
