Topic: Petrol sniffing zones and footprints

Senator Siewert asked:

Why isn't the northern region of the Northern Territory, Cape York and the Torres Strait included in the footprints?

Answer:

In determining petrol sniffing zones and footprints the Government's priority is to direct available resources to areas of greatest need in order to be effective. While the Government has a focus on responding to petrol sniffing issues that arise in the footprint, the Government has acted under the Petrol Sniffing Targeted Funding Scheme to respond to petrol sniffing in communities outside the petrol sniffing footprints and will continue to do so when capacity allows.

Topic: Northern Territory Volatile Substance Abuse Prevention Act (2005)

Senator Smith asked:

How often has there been a discussion about the Northern Territory Volatile Substance Abuse Prevention Act (2005) in regards to the interest of Western Australia and South Australia in taking up that particular framework?

Answer:

At the June 2012 meeting of the Petrol Sniffing Strategy Cross Jurisdictional Forum, FaHCSIA officers raised the potential for legislation similar to the Northern Territory Volatile Substance Abuse Prevention Act (2005) with representatives from the Western Australian Drug and Alcohol Office. The response from those representatives was that the matter was for consideration by the Western Australian Government and that they could not comment further at that time.

South Australian representatives were not present at that meeting and the matter will be raised again in the planned October meeting of the Cross Jurisdictional Forum.

On 20 July 2012 the Honourable Warren Snowden, MP, Minister for Indigenous Health, wrote to the State and Territory Ministers for Health outlining the benefits of the Northern Territory Volatile Substance Abuse Prevention Act (2005) and asking for their views.

Topic: Data and the Cross Jurisdictional Forum

Senator Smith asked:

Has the Department formally requested access to the data of the Western Australian, South Australian and Queensland Governments?

Answer:

Data sharing was a topic for discussion at the Cross Jurisdictional Forum in June 2012 and it was agreed by all present that accessing data would provide a more accurate overall picture of the extent of petrol sniffing and volatile substance use. Western Australian & Queensland officials were present but South Australian officials did not attend. The Department will write to the relevant State and Territory officials to request access to this information before the scheduled 9 October meeting of the Cross Jurisdictional Forum.
