

Psychologist

Please note that a large number of my clients will be seriously disadvantaged by the recent suggested amendments to the provision of care for Mental Health. Among those clients who will be so disadvantaged are those with Dissociative Identity Disorder, Eating Disorders, Major Depressive Episodes, and extreme Anxiety conditions. Many of these clients are financially and socially disadvantaged, and will have no other support systems if they are not able to access my services. I would therefore urge you to consider the plight of such clients in consideration of options for assisting those with serious mental health problems.

Many thanks.
