

To whom it may concern:

I believe that there are potential problems in moving to what is in effect an annual appointment, such as the uncertainty of a future booking being fulfilled when the celebrant does not have long term security. -

I believe that there is inequity of the fee being only applicable to civil celebrants (and our clients), rather than being applied to all marriage celebrants across the board, and I see that there is becoming to be unnecessary over-regulation and over-servicing by government of a group that by all accounts performs exceedingly well in terms of complaints and problems and takes professionalism very seriously.

Jenny Grierson, Civil Marriage Celebrant,