

The senate standing committee on economics Re: Steel industry

This will be quick.

Im a builder by trade and drive cranes for work now.

And even though I'm not the smartest person around even I can figure that we are being flooded with cheap, [REDACTED] quality Steel to smother and kill our industry (same as what has happened with our car industry).

As soon as you turn that blast furnace off, the prices will start to rise on imports and then we will have lost our last Steel works and a [REDACTED] tonne of jobs..

I personally have tried to weld Australian Steel to Chinese, it does not work because of the quality difference!!

You've let the car industry die, don't let our next major industry die..
