

Gallery applauds wind knockback

Thunderous applause echoed throughout the Buffalo Hall last week, when South Gippsland Council voted to reject two wind monitoring tower applications in the Corner Inlet area.

Plea for halt to wind farms

Three Coast Guardians and wind farm activists from 4000, gathered with the council on Wednesday evening to plead their case against the proposed towers.

The 4000 address the overall energy generation issue, saying enough was enough, and it was time to turn away from the wind farm industry.

"I believe the scientific data shows and the experience of the community is overwhelming that a wind farm is not the answer," said one of the activists.

"Why should we be South Gippsland? Why should we be the only place in the world to have a wind farm?"

"We have to remember the windfall was not intended to be a wind farm," said another activist.

"The 4000 believe that wind monitoring towers would be a major step towards the wind farm industry, and we are not happy to see that."

"We have concluded by voting to reject the proposed towers that we are not going to have a wind farm in our area."

"Council has to please local wind farm policy that encourages wind farms outside of the 4000 area," said another activist.

By Kate de Borch

Casting vote scuttles plan

Two wind farm monitoring towers proposed in the Corner Inlet area of South Gippsland have been rejected by the council on Wednesday evening.

The 4000 address the overall energy generation issue, saying enough was enough, and it was time to turn away from the wind farm industry.

"I believe the scientific data shows and the experience of the community is overwhelming that a wind farm is not the answer," said one of the activists.

"Why should we be South Gippsland? Why should we be the only place in the world to have a wind farm?"

"We have to remember the windfall was not intended to be a wind farm," said another activist.

"The 4000 believe that wind monitoring towers would be a major step towards the wind farm industry, and we are not happy to see that."

"We have concluded by voting to reject the proposed towers that we are not going to have a wind farm in our area."

"Council has to please local wind farm policy that encourages wind farms outside of the 4000 area," said another activist.

Crafts on display

Local crafters were busy displaying their handiwork at the recent 'Crafts on Display' event held at the Buffalo Hall.

The event was a success, with many visitors enjoying the variety of items on offer.

The organizers hope to see the event become a regular feature of the community calendar.

VALID VALUE USED CAR

1989 NISSAN PULSARS - 3 TO CHOOSE FROM

2000 NISSAN PULSAR "PLIE"

1999 NISSAN PULSAR PLUS

The MIRROR

Reflecting Upon Local News

Inside ⇌

- Police want information on speeding drivers, page 3
- What You'll need to get at Easter, page 7

Shire refuses wind monitor applications

South Gippsland Shire Council has refused two applications for wind monitoring towers in the Corner Inlet area.

The council's decision was based on concerns over the impact of wind farms on the local environment and community.

The council stated that the proposed towers would be a major step towards the wind farm industry, and it was not happy to see that.

The council has concluded by voting to reject the proposed towers that it is not going to have a wind farm in our area.

Wind monitoring towers in the Corner Inlet area of South Gippsland Shire Council.

Council blows wind tower plans away

MEMBERS of the York Council Board and Associated South District Councils last week gave the go-ahead to a $10-million tower to be built in the city's downtown core.

The tower will be built on the site of the former York County Courthouse, which was destroyed by fire in 1954. The tower will be built on the site of the former York County Courthouse, which was destroyed by fire in 1954.

The tower will be built on the site of the former York County Courthouse, which was destroyed by fire in 1954. The tower will be built on the site of the former York County Courthouse, which was destroyed by fire in 1954.

The tower will be built on the site of the former York County Courthouse, which was destroyed by fire in 1954. The tower will be built on the site of the former York County Courthouse, which was destroyed by fire in 1954.

The tower will be built on the site of the former York County Courthouse, which was destroyed by fire in 1954. The tower will be built on the site of the former York County Courthouse, which was destroyed by fire in 1954.

The tower will be built on the site of the former York County Courthouse, which was destroyed by fire in 1954. The tower will be built on the site of the former York County Courthouse, which was destroyed by fire in 1954.

The tower will be built on the site of the former York County Courthouse, which was destroyed by fire in 1954. The tower will be built on the site of the former York County Courthouse, which was destroyed by fire in 1954.

Two Peters confirm they'll be back

NATIONAL SENIORS' Council of the City of Toronto will be a major focus of the 2002-2003 fiscal year.

The council will be a major focus of the 2002-2003 fiscal year. The council will be a major focus of the 2002-2003 fiscal year.

The council will be a major focus of the 2002-2003 fiscal year. The council will be a major focus of the 2002-2003 fiscal year.

The council will be a major focus of the 2002-2003 fiscal year. The council will be a major focus of the 2002-2003 fiscal year.

WILLIAMS CHRISTIAN COLLEGE

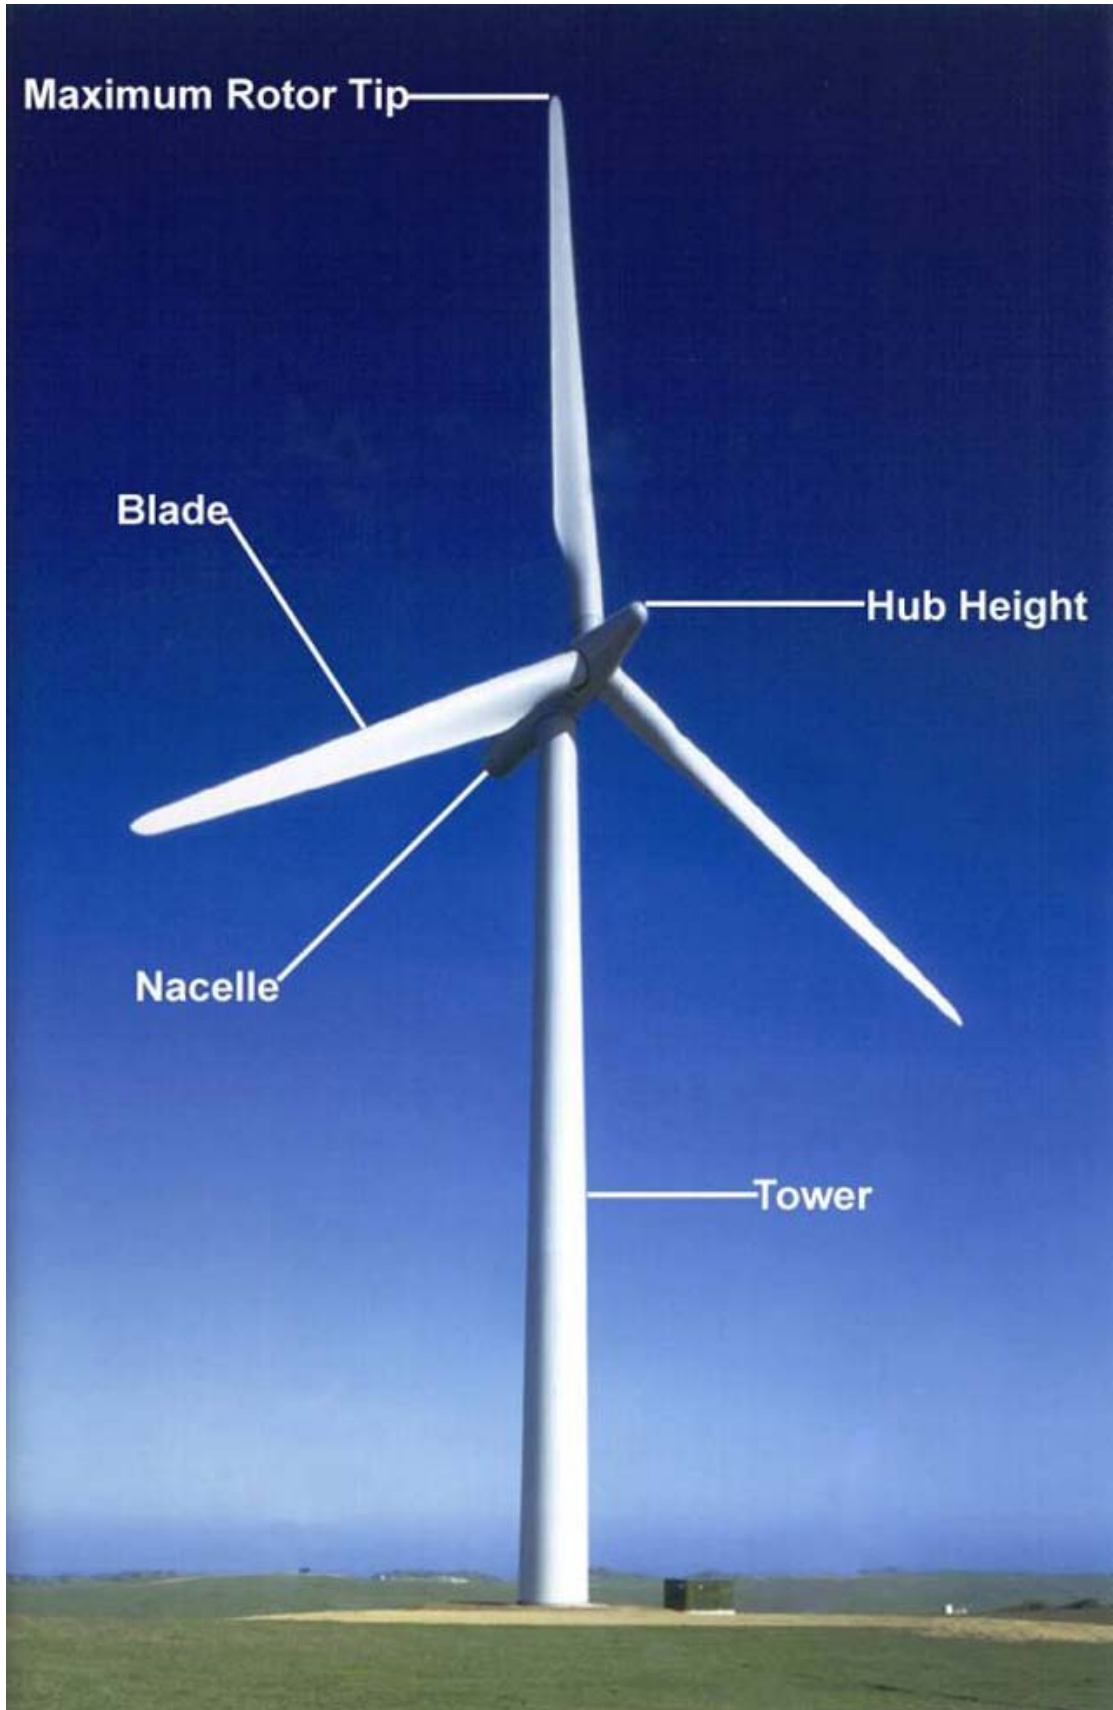

Invest in your child's future
ENROL NOW FOR 2003
(Limited places for 2003)

Support education for disadvantaged

Special admission for disadvantaged

Where children come first

Wynne Campus
440 Wynne Ave.
Toronto, Ontario
Phone: 416-461-1234

Maximum Rotor Tip

Blade

Hub Height

Nacelle

Tower