MEDIA RELEASE

Senate Community Affairs References Committee

Senate inquiry into the current barriers to patient access to medicinal cannabis in Australia

Issue date: 15 November 2019

The Senate Community Affairs References Committee is conducting an inquiry into the current barriers to patient access to medicinal cannabis in Australia.

The committee will be examining the appropriateness of the current regulatory regime, the suitability of the Pharmaceutical Benefits Scheme for subsidising access to products and the training and education of doctors in relation to treatments.

The Chair of the committee, Senator Siewert said ‘this inquiry will also look at how Australia’s regime compares to other countries and examine international best practice models for patient access to medicinal cannabis treatments’.

Call for submissions

The committee is seeking submissions from a wide range of people, including families and carers affected by current medicinal cannabis regulations in Australia. The committee has requested that submissions be received by 17 January 2020.

If you would like to make a submission you may find it helpful to read the guide to making a submission available on the Senate website: Preparing a submission to an inquiry.

If you require special arrangements to enable you to make a submission to the inquiry, or if you have questions, or need more time to write your submission, please contact the Community Affairs secretariat.

Further information about the inquiry, including published submissions and hearing programs, is available on the committee website: www.aph.gov.au/senate_ca.
